THE CONTROL OF THE COURTS.

YESTERDAY (June 8th) we gave an account of the proceedings at a sparsely attended meeting of the Loyal League, at which some of the more prominent self-seekers aired their eloquence. While one in particular (Mr. Baskin) did this in a most malodorous fashion by indulging in language low, filthy and degrading, others made committal statements that are worthy of special note. Take for instance an expression used by John R. McBride, a gentleman who once asserted, in a Methodist anti-"Mormon" meeting—"I believe I would make a good prosecutor of the Mormon Church." At the pro-registration meeting by the League on Tuesday night, in recounting the "Liberal" victories, or rather their encroachments upon the rights of "Mormons," he said—"We now practically have possession and control [of the district courts."

Such a declaration made in any other part of the country would be met with a perfect storm of denunciation. It should be treated in the same fashion wherever made, and if the enunciator be not guilty of a falsehood, the courts to which it applied have need of wholesale reconstruction and a new administration and judicial regime.

The meeting at which the utterance was made was that of a secret political society (of which Mr. McBride is a member, and the natural and logical inference is that the pronoun "we" related to the Loyal League. It is fair then to presume that the speaker meant that that organization had practical possession and control of the district courts.

The man who made this extraordinary announcement is a member of the bar, and yet he could hardly have used an expression that could have conveyed more absolute contempt for the courts before which he is a professional practitioner.

Events, not very remote, have caused us to ask the question whether or not the courts were being more or less controlled by influences outside of the law and themselves. Take for instance the position assumed in that of the Third District in relation to the test oath. The Chief Justice himself and other officers of the court subscribed to the oath prescribed by the Utah Commission. By him it was also administered to jurors Thus was that form—which is strictly legal, adhering even, so far as possible, to the language of the law—adopted by the example and practice of the court. But the Loyal League, which Mr. McBride claims to have practical possession and control of the district courts, framed another oath. Their futile efforts to have it prevail politically are well known. They could not control the Commission, even if they could, as asserted, control the courts. While unsuccessful in the political field, but little difficulty was experienced in having it prevail where Mr. McBride appears to claim the League to be practically supreme.

Let it be remembered that when the League oath was first introduced into the Third District Court, Judge Henderson was acting on the bench in the temporary absence of Judge Zane. He at first declined to allow it to be applied on the ground that it was different to the form heretofore adopted by the Judge in whose place he was officiating. Judge Henderson, however, soon changed about, and shortly swallowed the League bolus, which Attorney Bennett assured his honor had been prescribed by "political authorities," of which he was one. Afterwards Judge Zane discarded the Commission oath and took lovingly in his court to the application of that provided by the Loyal League.

These incidents caused us to ask the question, very naturally, whether the courts were being run by the Loyal League, "political authorities," or any other influence outside the law and themselves. Now comes a prominent member of that secret political organization, at a meeting of the "Loyal League," and in that capacity makes the unblushing announcement—"We now practically have possession and control of the district courts." This is certainly very bad for the courts, and if the assertion be taken as correct, what an abject and prostituted spectacle the tribunals in question present to the disinterested and fair-minded onlooker.

A KEY TO MORAL CHARACTER.

AMONG such as have made close observations regarding the subject, it has become proverbial that men who affect a detestation of the morals and marriage system of the Christian Scriptures, are corrupt in their own sexual relations. So true is this that the degree of animosity which a man manifests toward the social system of the Bible, is often an index to the depth to which he himself has sunk in sexual immorality. This is true of classes, and even of communities, to a greater or less extent. In proof of this recent developments in the city of Helena, Montana, may be cited. The press of that city has been almost unexampled in its bitterness towards the "Mormons," save by the Utah organs of their maligners. Indeed, it has been difficult, at times, to understand the reason why one or two of the papers published there should devote so much space to abusing a people so remote from them. The facts stated in the following recent dispatches from that town are therefor illustrations of the rule above laid down:

"Sixty-five white and five Chinese women from Wood, Bridge and Water streets attended the matinee in Justice English's court last evening and contributed $5 each to the city treasury for having red lights in the hall. The residents of a French section and the colored quarter will attend the matinee to-morrow. This will be a feature hereafter of the sporting life in Helena every quarter.

The pulling of the courtesans was continued to-day and a number of male companions were also nipped. Over 150 soiled doves have been corralled and made to contribute a fine of $5 each."

If one hundred and fifty cyprians had been fined up to the stage of the raid upon them at which the above dispatches were sent, it is pretty safe to assume that there were at least fifty more who had either fled or had not been arrested. This would give the town two hundred of that class. Helena contains a population of probably from 8,000 to 10,000. According to the rule above set forth, it is to be expected that a very bitter anti-"Mormon" sentiment will continue to prevail in Helena for some time to come.

THE LOCAL SITUATION.

From the Standpoint of a Gentile, With a Trenchant pen he gives the anti-"Mormon" Fanatics and Cormorants a Proper Scorching.

SALT LAKE CITY,
June 9th, 1887.

Editor Deseret News:

Will you kindly allow a humble follower of the religion taught by Thos. Paine and Robert G. Ingersoll to express his views upon the "Mormon" question and the manner in which it is treated by a couple of "so called" newspapers of this city, and also by people who know nothing about it.

I am not a polygamist, either in thought or practice, but trust I am a believer in and friend of liberty, both civil and religious. I have tried to be a faithful student of the history of my country and believe it should be—as it was intended by our Constitution—a home for the oppressed of all nations, a place where liberty should reign supreme, where no religious test should ever be applied, where a man could worship one God or many, where the thoughts of no one should be questioned. It should be a country where a man's acts should only be called in question when they are of a nature that would do injury to others.

I read that in the first settlement of this country there was a band of people calling themselves Puritans, who in pursuit of religious liberty established a colony in the province of Massachusetts. In a short time they seemed to have forgotten the reason of their exile and commenced a system of persecution which their descendants to this day have not failed to perpetuate. For a long time their unChristlike persecutions were directed towards infidels in general, but as liberty of thought increased to such an extent that persecuting infidels availed nothing, they seem to have combined to annihilate "Mormonism."

So far as I am concerned, I have no faith in any religion, but an abiding faith in the Constitution of my country and what it guarantees to every one—freedom of thought and action; and, in the name of Liberty I protest against the unholy, the uncalled for crusade against these law-abiding, liberty and Constitution-loving people which has been inaugurated by religious fanatics and which, for worldly gain, is aided by some of the so-called news papers of this city.

The outrageous abuse heaped upon a peaceable, inoffensive people by a couple of journals of this city is enough to disgust any sensible man, whatever may be his religious convictions. I have good orthodox Presbyterian authority for saying—"There was not a saloon or house of prostitution in the city of Salt Lake until Gentiles came here; that it was not necessary to lock doors at night for fear of thieves, but that this was the most moral, peaceable, law-abiding city on this continent till these religious fanatics and official cormorants arrived.

I protest against this vile abuse, this infernal religious persecution. It is either the work of idiotic fanatics or of villainous cormorants who think more of lucre than liberty. They are unfit to either live or die. They have not the slightest conception of charity; they know nothing about religious or civil liberty. Let the most righteous of them cast the first stone or else close up.

It is about time the Blue Laws of Connecticut were abolished and religious persecution had an end. It is near time the hyenas who scribble so-called editorials on the Mormon question for so-called newspapers in this city "would come off." They disgust every man of sense who reads them. They are a villainous insult to nine-tenths of the people of this Territory and for the matter of that to everyone. The Mormons made a garden of Eden out of this desert. They were persecuted as no other people were ever persecuted before them. They came here in sorrow and trouble, enduring privations, that if there is a God he will deal kindly with them for their martyrdom for, "as they thought," His sake. It seems they are still followed with a vindictiveness that is only equalled by the abuse heaped upon Thos. Paine who said, "The world is my country to do good my religion." Let them give the country a rest—it is weary.

Literary Notes.

We have just received from the publisher a copy of Conklin's Handy Manual of Useful Information. Books are cheap, perhaps cheaper than ever before; but even now it is a matter of surprise to find so much information contained in so low-priced a volume as in the case of this one. We find it to be filled with just that mass of information that intelligent people have always desired to lay their hands upon, but could heretofore find it in no one book. It supplies what many of the best libraries of the country could supply no better. It is neat and convenient in size, systematically arranged, full of valuable facts of practical utility, and more comprehensive than any other work of its kind. You may carefully search many volumes and not find a tithe of the facts and figures appearing in its neatly printed pages. In it you have the fruits of the labors of many scholars who have devoted years to gathering the information it contains. It is a handsome volume of 316 pages, bound in English silk cloth with red edges, and will be mailed to any address on receipt of 50 cents, by Geo. W. Ogilvie, publisher, 216 Lake Street, Chicago, Ill. Agents can make money selling it.

Can the red man be civilized? An affirmative answer to this question seems to be given in an article entitled "Metlakahtla," by Z. L. Waite, which will be published in the July number of The American Magazine. A tribe of brutal savages, the worst Indians on the Pacific Coast, has been transformed, according to this account, into an orderly, industrious and thrifty community.

The June number of Vick's Illustrated Monthly Magazine, published at Rochester, N.Y., contains an excellent variety of matter of interest and value to lovers of flowers, and to gardeners.

"Trips to the Moon" is the title given to a collection of the writings of Lucian, a Greek of the second century, which are embraced in the number of Cassell's National Library dated June 4, published at 739 & 741 Broadway, N.Y. These writings are good specimens of the satirical literature of that age and country.

"Ten Thousand Miles on a Bicycle" is the title of a volume of great interest to wheelmen, written and published by Karl Kron, University Building, New York, a copy of which we received this morning. It is a sort of encyclopedia of bicycling, contains the names of all the leading wheelmen in this country with their records, and a sketch of every rider who has made 10,000 miles. It gives some account of George J. Taylor, Esq., of this office, who is the pioneer bicyclist of Utah. His report to the publisher was over 12,000 miles, since which time he has made his record exceed 15,000, mainly over the roads of Utah, Canada and Massachusetts. Many of our bicyclists will buy this book. It contains 908 pages of fine print. Price $2.

Freund's Music and Drama, published by the Harry E. Freund Publishing Co., 88 Fifth Avenue, New York, continues to supply a large and interesting amount of matter relative to the musical and dramatic professions. From it we learn that Patti has fallen in love with that American instrument, the banjo, and has lately purchased one.

The Cosmopolitan, published by Schlight & Field Co., whose headquarters will hereafter be at 29 Park Row, New York, in its June number gives its readers an interesting variety of magazine literature, embracing fiction, travel, biography, etc.

Wide Awake, best of young folks' periodicals all the world over, begins its 25th volume and celebrates June with a number of singular richness and promise. It can be got by sending 20 cents to D. Lothrop Company, Boston. Subscription, $2.40 a year. A sample copy for 5 cents.

The lever interesting North American Review, gives in its June number, some fine things. "My Experience as a Lawyer," by President Garfield; "Why Am I a Jew," by Dr. H. Pereira Mendes; "Parnell and the Times," by Dion Boucicault, are among its contents. Besides these articles is the usual variety which this standard publication aims to give its readers.

The West Shore is a magazine published at Portland, Oregon, by L. Samuel. It is highly characteristic of the region of publication, in tone and contents, and is emphatically a Pacific Coast periodical. With its May number is given a very fine birdseye view of Oregon, and part of Washington Territory.

CULLED FROM LATEST WESTERN EXCHANGES.

The Mountain House, situated on the Washington road, nine miles above Nevada City, Cal., was struck by lightning on the 21st ult. The building took fire and burned down, with all its contents. Mrs. Anna Robinson, the proprietress, who was in the house alone, had a narrow escape.

A dispatch dated Winnemucca, Cal., June 1st, says: A heavy hailstorm swept through the upper part of Big Meadows and Lovelock yesterday afternoon. Windows were broken by the hailstones, and crops were greatly damaged in the path of the storm, which, fortunately, was not more than half a mile wide.

A Sacramento, Cal., dispatch of the 2nd instant, says: Tuesday night lightning, flashes which have been so frequently seen in this city and elsewhere during the past three or four nights, struck the railroad telegraph wire at Cisco, Cal., burned the wire, damaged the instruments and stunned the operator in the telegraph office.

At Los Angeles, Cal., June 1st the inquest on the body of J. T. Graham, who shot himself the night before, disclosed the fact that he was foreman for Stackpole & Lincoln, owners of the eating houses on the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad, and that he was thrown out of employment when they went out of business. He came to this city, but was unable to procure work, and being without funds, took his life. He directed a valise to be sent to Mrs. S. M. Graham, Ogden, U. T., who has been telegraphed the facts in the case.

Word was sent to Truckee, June 1st, that a Frenchman named Joe Bouchard had committed suicide at Boca, by jumping from the bridge that crosses the river at that place. From what could be learned, he had a dispute about some money matters several days ago, and had been drinking hard ever since. As soon as it became known, parties went in search of his body, and at a late hour the body had not been recovered. Bouchard has been employed as a blacksmith about the wood camps and mills in the vicinity for a number of years.

—A small cyclone passed through the oil country west of Sundanee, Wyoming, last Saturday. The derrick of the Black Hills Oil company was demolished, and a number of trees torn up. Scott and Hooper have completed the laying out of Oil City, on the Belle Fourche, about five miles from the present oil workings, but in the centre of the oil locations. They report the Northwestern steadily at work, and with the most encouraging prospects. The tools bring up green and black oil that smells strongly of kerosene. The Standard company is pumping, and their well is good for three to five barrels per day. Their pipes are filled with gas that lights brilliantly and burns steadily.

—On Saturday last Deputy Sheriff Fish served on James McKeon of the Southern Hotel, a copy of a writ of ejectment obtained by James A. Murras and Sam. B. Rice against about 45 defendants who are occupiers of the surface ground of the Smokehouse lode. It gives an exact description of the metes and bounds of the famous claim, and as known generally, covers about twenty acres of land in the heart of the city. The defendants against whom the writ is directed are those who allowed judgment to go against them by default, and most of them have settled with Murray and Rice. Mr. Fish will serve the remaining defendants this week.—Butte Miner, 6th.

Ashore.

LONDON, June 9.—While a heavy fog was prevailing, the British steamer Castleford, from Montreal, went ashore off the Scilly Islands. She is in a bad position and it is believed will prove a wreck. Sailors are at work on the cargo.

An Indian Protest.

EUFAULA, Indian Territory, June 9.—The Indian council has adopted a memorial to the President on the land question. The memorial makes an earnest appeal in behalf of the civilized and wild tribes against the act providing for the allotment of lands in severalty to Indians. It says it will be detrimental to their interests, as it will in the near future engulf all of the Indians and tribes of the territory in one catastrophe to the enrichment of the land monopolies. It deprecates any measure which will place the Indians in so unequal a contest. The memorial states that the Indian needs political identity, an allegiance called elsewhere patriotism, in order to make true progress in the affairs of life, and asks that the President stay the operation of the law until they shall be in condition to be benefited by it. It further requests that the act be not enforced until the tribes have an opportunity of testing the validity of their rights before the judiciary of the United States.

Forbearance Advised.

DUBLIN, June 9.—United Ireland, Parnell's organ, urges the Irish people to further patience. It denounces those men who advocate retaliation for oppression of the Irish and says that such course would undo the work Parnell had accomplished during a decade of terrible years and the work to which Gladstone was devoting the evening of his life.

A Different Grace.

NEW YORK, June 9.—The statement that "Mike Grace," reported killed by the Apaches in dispatches from Tucson, was a brother of ex-Mayor Grace, of New York, is not true. Michael P. Grace is now in Europe.

Dead—Cabinet Meeting.

LONDON, June 9.—The Earl of Winchelsea and Nottingham is dead, 72 years old.

The cabinet held a meeting to-day lasting an hour and fifty minutes. The subjects discussed were the speeches made by Michael Davitt in Ireland during the past fortnight, in which he counseled tenants to resist eviction by all means at their command, and the report of Col. Sir Joseph Ridgeway on the progress of the Afghan boundary commission's work.

The Ascot Races.

LONDON, June 9.—The weather at Ascot Heath to-day was brilliant and the races were largely attended. The spectators include a strong representation of royalty and crowds of aristocratic people. The race for the gold cup, value 1,000 sovereigns, was won by Bird of Freedom, Corviasco second, The Baron third; six starters.

[The "Elsa" Lost.

LONDON, June 7.—The German bark Elsa, from Wilmington, N. C., was picked up in the channel and towed to Dungeness, where she sank. It is supposed she was damaged by a collision. Nothing is known of her crew.

The Bankers' Convention.

NEW YORK, June 9.—The American Bankers' Association has decided to hold its convention at Pittsburg on October 12th and 13th next. Every banking firm, state bank, national bank, trust company and savings bank in the United States is entitled to send one delegate.

The Apaches.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—No information has been received at the war department in regard to the recent outbreak in Arizona beyond the fact that 30 Apaches have left their reservation and that Captain Lawton is in pursuit of them with four troops of cavalry.

Homeward Bound.

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., June 9.—The President is on his way out of the Woods. He rose early this morning and packing the big fish he was to carry to Albany for Dr. Ward. The party then started for this place, arriving after a pleasant drive of two hours. After dinner they will be driven nine miles further to the station to take a special train.

To Press Things.

LONDON, June 9.—In the Commons this afternoon Wm. H. Smith, government leader, gave notice that to-morrow he would move that the committee name a period on which they would report the Irish crimes act amendment bill to the house. This announcement was received with great cheers and counter-cheers.

To-day we publish a scorching communication from the pen of an infidel. The sympathetic views he expresses in relation to the "Mormon" people and the stand he takes regarding the anti-"Mormon" religious fanatics and political cormorants are steadily gaining ground among thinking and disinterested people. Symptoms of this healthy reaction are not only being exhibited in different parts of the nation outside of Utah, but also to our certain information, within the borders of this Territory. It is only a question of time and circumstances. The revulsion is sure to come.

—While the Lewiston, Idaho, stage was descending the grade from Alpowa Ridge, about twelve miles from Pomeroy, on Sunday, the brake broke and the vehicle went down an embankment. Among the six passengers was J. Q. Spaulding, the widely known traveling man, who received internal injuries from which he died a few hours later.
