about two weeks ago. It was moved that the chair appoint committee of seven to select the sixteen names to represent the county in the Territorial convention. Carried. The following were chosen said committee: Jos. A. Jennings, N.V. Jones, E. A. Smith. B. B. Bitner, Francis Armstrong and Mrs. E. B. Wells.

It was suggested that ten delegates be chosen from the city and six from the country, and with these as their instructions the committee withdrew.

Hon A. M. Cannon, on being called upon for a speech, said he trusted the men and women who might be nominated to represent this county in the Territorial Convention would use their influence to place before the public a man who will suitably represent them in the Congress of the United States. Of the present Delegate, Hon. John T. Caine, the speaker felt that he had represented the comnunity as well as it was possible for any man to do, and there was no one for whom he entertained a higher regard. He would consequently feel to instruct the delegation to sustain him in that position, feeling that no more mitable candidate could be found.

Hon. C. W. Penrose being called for, remarked that he believed the mass convention would be consistent in its course if it were to express itself as in favor of the re-nomination of Hon. J.

T. Caine. The gentleman's course had been very praiseworthy, and he had worked industriously and successfully during his first term of office. He would be in a position to do more perhaps than any man who could be chosen. The speaker referred to the unjust legislation, the result of prejudice, which had been brought to bear against the people of this Territory, and considered that in our primaries and conventions all classes belonging on crutches for a week. He let two 'to the People's party have the right to be represented and should have a voice as citizens if not as voters. The fact that some of them have been disfranchised does not in any sense affect their citizenship, and their rights as members of the people's party should not be ignored, a disposition to which the speaker thought he had noticed, but strongly deprecated. tale:'

Black-well of Morgan, both blind 15 years. Mr. Gilbert Belnap's son nearly blind several years; Mr. Orlof Moses' child born deaf and dumb; Mr. Delomrete deaf, and thousands of others with different troubles. These cures entitle the Doctor to the gratitude of patients the confidence of the afflicted, and the respect of all well meaning people. "thing" referred to-particularly the "horseshoe" variety-is little more than a synonym for airy nothingness, or some other imaginary quantity, and that gifted indeed is he who can discern with the naked eye the infinitesimal particle, or weigh it in the balance of a thought, and have the scale turn"even in the estimation of a hair." But whoever heard of the wearer of one of them being deceived by such trifles? The following is an "ow'r true respect of all well meaning people.

Mr. Richards moved that the delegates thus selected be instructed to vote for the Hon. John T. Caine. Continuing he referred to the pleasure which it had afforded him to place the gentleman's name in nomination two years ago, and to the personal knowledge he had of Mr. Caine's wholesouled devotion to the trust reposed in him. He felt to say, therefore, with pride and satisfaction that all that was promised for Mr. Caine had been more than fulfilled.

Mr. N. V. Jones stated that as a member of the delegation chosen to go to the Territorial Convention, he felt opposed to going under specific instructions from this convention. He did not mean by this to cast any reflections upon Mr. Caine, for he believed him to be the best man that could be selected. The objection of Mr. Jones was sustained by Mr. R. W. Sloan and Hon. A. M. Cannon. An amendment was suggested that it be declared as the sense of this mass convention that Hon. John T.
