William H. Cunningham, who had been the predecessor of Mr. Harding as bookkeeper for the company, was called by Mr. Lyon, and he identified the pass book to McCornick & Co.'s bank, of which he had been custodian. By request, the witness pointed out cer-tain densaits covering the particulation tain deposits, covering the period from Jan. 2 to Jan. 7, 1905.

RAIFF ON THE STAND.

Frank Majors Raiff then took the stand. He stated that he was an in-surance man of about 10 years' experience, and that his present headquarters are at San Francis

Mr. Lyon-Did you ever meet Mr. Tyree, one of the defendants in this case? Mr. Raiff-Yes, sir. "Where did you first meet him?" Mr. Raiff-In Butte, Mont. Mr. Lyon-When did you first meet

ABOUT PRACTISE SYSTEM.

Mr. Lyon-State what conversation took place between you. Mr. Raiff—We conversed along the lines of insurance. Mr. Tyree said that he was conducting an insurance com-pany, and he intimated that he would the mas to be a support of the line of t like me to become connected with his company. I said I would consider the company. I said I would consider the matter. I suggested to him that he put in practise the system of the Co-lumbian National Life association. At Mr. Tyreo's request I later submitted to him a plan of the same. In June he wired mo an acceptance of the same, and asked me to meet him in Chicago Mr. Lyon—Did you have any further

AMUSEMENTS.

Salt Lake Theater-How reminiscen of the old home opera days of 20 years ago was the presentation of "The Mikado" at the Salt Lake Theater last nigh do" at the Salt Lake Theater last night by the Roscians! The latter are not a great, but they are a good company, and gave a very creditable performance of the ever-popular Japanese opera. Mr. Huntington made a rather robust and not particularly melodious mikado. This part was first essayed locally by Mr. B. S. Young, formerly of Salt Lake, and now of Canada. While two decades have based since that time, patrons and now of Canada. While two decades have passed since that time, patrons still laugh when they recall his inter-pretation of the character. Mr. Walters, as Nanki-Poo, the wandering minstrel-has an excellent voice and quickly es-tablished himself in the minds of the audience. This, it will be remembered, is the role which George D. Pyper made famous hereabouts in his more youth of days. Mr. Amsden, as Ko-Ko, ford high executioner of Titipu is a comedian of executioner of Titipu, is a comedian of more than common ability, and though his strong bass voice was reduced to tones that were sans music much of the time, he invested his every act with a wry humor from which frequent laughs were started in parquet and gallery alike. It was as Ko-Ko that John D. Spencer created his initial operatic sensation, and its memory is still a pleas-ant recollection. Mr. Campbell was a pillar of strength as Pooh-Bah, and so was Dr. John White, but not last night. The doctor has been

was Dr. John White, but not last night. The doctor has been out of the opera-business for a long time. When he re-tired dear old Goddard fell into the part and how superbly he gave it! Miss Nola did only fairly well in the part of Yum Yum, in which Nettle Thatcher Sloan and Edith Knowlton both shone so brightly. Pitti-Sing and Katisha were entrusted to Miss George and Miss Davenport, parts played by Louie Wells and Mrs. McEwan in the old Salt Lake cast. This evening the Cold Sait Lake cast. This evening the "Bohemian Girl" will be the offeirng and tomorrow afternoon "El Capitan" will be given, while "Fra Diavolo" will conclude the engagement in the evening.

Grand-In the blood and thunder line "Michael Strogoff" which went on at the Grand last night, has a genuine at the Grand hast hight, has a genuine novelty. There is a Tariar army ram-pant upon the stage, with its guns leveled upon Michael Strogoff, courier to the czar, and hero of the show. Enter up the Volga river in a row pleased with the histrionic ability man boat, two war correspondents, each with a 38-caliber pistol, and a flerce battle ensues, the two correspondents emptying the whole contents of the little pistols, while the army bowls over like so many ten pins, dead upon the stage. The courier then runs along, while the correspondents break away for the telegraph office to send in the name in the news. "Michael Strogoff" is a strong piece of lurid melodrama, aimed at the gallery principally. Theo Lorch, who always impresses an audience with the fact that when he comes to his own, it will be something pretty good in the acting world, handles the principal part, while David Rivers and John Mc-case, as the war correspondents procage, as the war correspondents pro-vide some excellent comedy. Many people will read with sadness the news of the unexpected passing from this life of Mrs. Walter J. Lewis, wife of the well known and popular manager of the Deseret News Book Store. For 10 days past she had been at the Groves' L. D. S. hospital suffering from typhoid fever. From the first her case was regarded as serious, though her temperature did not rise to the heights it frequently does in this, of late most dreadful malady. Last summer Mr. and Mrs. Lewis had a son, William, at the hospital with a son, which, it the non-phan which typhold. For mice weeks his life hung only by a slender thread. During the whole of that period the mother heart of the deceased beat for the recovery of her boy. Through the long days she watched at his bedside and night oftwatched at his because and hight off-times kept faithful vigil at the same post until friends found it necessary to interpose. Finally when the son came out of the hospital she went in in alout of the nospital she wolt in in ar-most utter collapse. But she was re-stored to health and returned home, though not strong. ### First Anniversary Luncheon Given by Daughters of American Revolution.

SERVED AT THE ALTA CLUB.

Beautiful and Appropriate Decorations And Timely Toasts Were Features Of Most Memorable Occasion.

The Daughters of the American Revolution met yesterday in a delightfully memorable occasion celebrating the anniversary of the great hero to whose effort chiefly the possibility of celebration belongs. The event took shape in an anniversary lunchcon, the first yet given by the Daughters, and was enjoyed by about 30 members and as many guests. The large disingroom at the Alta club was used, and handsome-ly decorated for the event in the red, white and blue, the windows being curtained with flags, and the tables decor-ated with flowers in the national colors. About 10 tables were laid, some of them having for a centerplece vases of red carnations, others baskets of violets, and others bowls of white narcissusand others bowls of white harchsus-each twined with ferns and smilax, while at the places lay a card bearing a picture of the Memorial Continental hall at Washington, with the list of toasts and toastmakers within.

MRS. KINNEY PRESIDED.

Mrs. Clesson S. Kinney presided as Mrs. Clesson S. Kinney presided as toastmastress, her bright interludes carrying with them an infection of ap-preciative merriment throughout. The first toast, "George Washington, the Childless Father of Ninety Millions," was answered by a guest, Mrs. Steven-son of Omaha, who gave a brief outline of the deeds and characteristics of the man whose memory we reverence. Mrs. of the deeds and characteristics of the man whose memory we reverence. Mrs. M. A. Breeden's toast was "Looking Backward," and the response was in verse, eulogizing the original 13 colo-nies of the revolutionary times, and drawing suggestion from their humble beginning to that of the present Chap-ter of Liberty which began with so few members, and yet in an unobtrusive way had given evidence of the use of its existence in achievements which were praiseworthy. Mrs. Robert W. Fisher met her toast, "Looking Forward," in a response bristling with witty sugges-tions for the future of the society, in-sisting that it was not the deeds of our tions for the future of the society, in-sisting that it was not the deeds of our ancestors which made it worth while, but our own deeds, quoting as illustra-tion the man who, while exhibiting all the tendencies of a human drone him-self, spent hours vaingloriously dilating on the heroic achievements of his an-cestors, and was adroitly silenced by a friend, who, after listening to his boast-ing remarked that it seemed too bad ing, remarked that it seemed too bad that the members of his family who ever did anytihng worth while should all be dead. This lesson Mrs. Fisher suggested must be borne in mind by the society, which should win fame for it-feit, in deeds, rather than sit idly among memories of those done by our ancestors.

Mrs. M. F. Allen spoke upon a toast most dear to her heart, the completion of the Memorial Continental hall in Washington, a cause which she urged should be dear to every chapter's heart. She gave a brief outline of the design of the building and the contributions already made, and hoped that the local already made, and nobel that the local chapter would give noble ald to its building. Mr. Raiff-No, sir.

Mr. Rain—No, sir. Judge Powers—Now, you have been rending a large number of telegrams lately yourself, have you not. Mr. Rain—I have sent some. It was my duty to protect the company.

Judge Powers -Did you think the company was not on the square? Mr. Raiff-I knew Mr. Tyree was not on the square. Here Judge Powers read a telegram from Mr. Raiff to Mr. Mayo, and asked witness if he had sent it. The answer was in the affirmative.

SIGNED BY WOMAN.

Reading another telegram, purporting to have been sent by the witness, and in which he denied sending the first one, counsel asked witness if he had signed it. Mr. Raiff replied that he had not, but that the telegram was pre-pared by Mr. Tyree himself, by permis-sion of witness and that a work had sion of witness, and that a woman had signed it. This last dispatch was to George F. Stott of Salt Lake, and Mr. Raiff explained that he had permitted Mr. Tyree to use his name in a tele-gram, of which he had seen a portion, but that he believed an entirely differ-ent dispatch was afterwards substituted, and he disclaimed any responsibil-thy in the premises. Judge Powers-Was not this dispatch charged to the Continental Life Insur-ance company by you? Mr. Raiff-Yes, but it was afterwards re-charged to me.

FIRST WARD CELEBRATION.

Washington's Birthday Fittingly Observed-Address by President Lund.

Washington's birthday was celebrated n the First ward assembly rooms yesterday afternoon in a manner befitting the great occasion. The large assembly room presented a very inspiring sight, with the Stars and Stripes-the banner of our nation-in profusion, and tables loaded with the best things the earth affords, for the tion-in protusion, and tables loaded with the best things the earth affords, for the good of man. Elder Bryant S. Hinckley was toast-master, and the responses to the toasts by each one called upon was full of mirth. President Anthon H. Lund gave a very vivid and interesting sketch of the life of George Washington. Speaking of the loyalty of the Latter-day Saints, the dis-tinguished visitor stated that they were truly patriotic to the republic, of which we formed a part. The speaker closed his remarks by saying that the tittle given to "George Washington, the father of his country." was well merited and that no people had greater love for the name, and the country he fought for, than the Lat-ter-day Saints. Bangeting to one's full content with the good things referred to; social with each other; singing and a dance in the evening concluded the event. On motion of Gounselor John T. Thorup of the ward bishopric, it was unanimous-ly decided to have such gatherings an-nually.

NEW ENGLAND CONSCIENCE.

Miss Katherine Page had for her theme "The New England Conscience," and with it made what was perhaps the hit of the occasion, probably because her subject partook of the nature of granite. Miss Page wittily paraded it in all its gruesome aspects. As the proverbial skeleton, she made it to walk from its closet, rattle its bones, disjoint Its frame, and as it were, cakewalk be-fore her audience in delicious contor-tion, her audience being visibly disappointed when, having put it effectally through its capers, she clapped it in its closet with a final steely snap, and locked its door. The sketch was thor-oughly characteristic and deserves even larger audience. The entire affair was delightful, and for its arrangement laurels belong to Mrs. George Y. Wallace and Mrs. G. B. Pfoutz, to whom the plans for all the details fell. The society may well be Pfoutz, to whom the plans for all the details fell. The society may well be proud of its Initiatory celebration. Those who were present were Mrs. William M.
