PARTICULARS OF KENDALL KILLING.

Resident of Springville Utah, is Foully Slain at Goldfield, Nev. By "Doc" Sharp.

RESULT OF TOO MUCH WHISKY.

Men Had Had Previous Trouble, and When They Met Later, Sharp Fired the Fatal Shot,

Concerning the killing of Curtis Kendall of Springville, Utah, mention of which was made in these columns several days ago, the Tonopah Bonanza of recent date has the following:

Curtis Kendall, well known in Tonopah and surrounding country, was shot in Goldfield Wednesday morning at 6:50 o'clock by Howard Sharp, better known as "Doc" Sharp. Kendall died Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in Goldfield, as a result of the wound received in the shooting.

The shooting was the outgrowth of bad blood that has existed between the two men since last October, when Kendall accused Sharp of moving some monuments on property in which the latter was interested. Later Sharp gave Kendall an option on a piece of property which Sharp had located. The option was for 12 hours and the price to be paid was $200. The option was allowed to expire, and when a request was made by Kendall for an extension and it was refused by Sharp, and since that time the men have had fist fights, in which Sharp has always come out victorious.

"Kid" Kendall is perhaps as well known as any person in the district, coming here about two years ago from Utah, where his parents reside. He was known to be troublesome and irresponsible when drinking, although considered harmless when sober. He had located considerable property in the Goldfield district, all of which had been sold recently. Since that time he had worked on the January lease, owned by his brother, Zeb Kendall, and others, and was employed there at the time he was shot.

WHO SHARP IS.

"Doc" Sharp has been in Tonopah for almost three years, working at mining, and has always been a hard working man. He is known to almost every resident of Tonopah, and up till the time he left for Goldfield last fall had never been in any trouble of a serious nature, and is known to have tried to avoid Kendall when he knew that the "Kid" was drinking. However it is hard to avoid a man in a place like Goldfield, and as a consequence the men have met frequently, when threats have been made by both parties.

According to a party who claimed to be a witness to affairs leading up to the shooting the trouble started Tuesday evening, when Kendall, Nay and a man named Johnson met in a Goldfield saloon. Nay had been with Kendall when he and Sharp had previous trouble, and after several drinks had been taken, once more the fighting blood commenced to boil. The whole controversy was gone over, Nay insisting that he would help Kendall "clean" Sharp. This kind of talk was indulged in on the streets, before a crowd of men, for a long time; threats being made of what one and another of the three men would do to Sharp. Finally about 10:20 o'clock Nay suggested that he, Kendall and Johnson go to Sharp's cabin and settle the matter.

ESCAPE FROM TENT.

They started for Sharp's tent, which is in the flat west of Brearley's saloon. Some one in the crowd who heard of their determination to go to Sharp's abode, had gone on ahead and told Sharp who was coming and what they were coming for. A moment later Sharp heard the sound of men's voices and knew that he would have to fight if he stayed there, and not knowing how many persons he had to combat with, decided to leave the tent, which he did, and dropped down into the gully to the west. When the intruding ones looked into the tent Sharp was gone, although he could see Nay, Johnson and Kendall from where he was watching their movements. Persons who were close by claim that it was not Kendall who went up to the tent and looked in the door, but that Nay and Johnson did this, while Kendall stood back fully 50 feet from the tent.

About this time Constable "Doc" O'Toole appeared and notified the fighting men that all of them would be thrown in jail, if they did not get to bed at once.

Nay and Johnson were taken to their wagon, which was in the corral, and started to their home at Columbia mountain. Kendall was sent to his cabin on the hill and was in bed about 12 o'clock. Nothing more was seen or heard of Kendall and his friends for the night.

But Sharp had become excited by the events of the night and instead of going to bed, had gone up town where the "ribber" proceeded to enlarge on the threats that had been made against him. Between the "ribber" and the whisky he became very agitated and did not go to bed again, but remained up all night.

About 6:50 o'clock Wednesday morning Kendall and his cabin partner, C. B. Wiseman, started down to breakfast from their home, coming down the cross street from the east. Wiseman stopped in a closet back of Shirley's new saloon, while Kendall proceeded on toward the Peerless cafe, where he was to order breakfast for himself and Wiseman.

As Kendall turned the corner to the left, he ran almost into Sharp, who was standing in front of Shirley's saloon. No words were spoken, and Kendall passed on by about 60 feet and leaned against a post in front of the Peerless cafe, with his back towards Sharp, and commenced talking to some one who was on a horse in front of the restaurant.

KENDALL FIRED UPON.

Kendall glanced around the post on which he was leaning, looking toward Sharp, and saw the latter advancing toward him, gun in hand. Kendall started to run southward and away from Sharp. He had run about 10 feet from where he was standing, when Sharp opened fire, the first shot going to the left. Kendall increased his speed and had reached the middle of the street, running now in a southwesterly direction, when Sharp again fired, this time striking the fleeing man and bringing him to his knees. Although mortally wounded, Kendall jumped up and again started to run, Sharp firing the third shot, the bullet this time going to the right.

Kendall ran between the Peerl restaurant and some tents on the west side of the steet, Sharp following to get another shot at him.

Kendall again turned south and ran over among some small tents west of the corral, with Sharp in hot pursuit trying to get a chance to shoot again. Sharp took deliberate aim three times after reaching the corner a block from where the first shooting occurrred, but each time Kendall would come in line with some tents and women who had run into the street on hearing the firing. Sharp did not shoot again.

By this time bystanders had overtaken Sharp and secured his gun. Kendall continued to run and again entered Main street near the well, where he fell to the ground. It was found on examination of the wounded man that the ball had struck him in the side, immediately over the right hip, passing between the ribs and the hip bone, and lodging in the stomach slightly to the left of the navel.

TEARS FOR DYING BROTHER.

Zeb Kendall, a brother, who was in Tonopah at the time, was notified of the shooting, and together with Dr. Cox, drove to Goldfield in two hours and ten minutes.

It was an affecting scene that took place when Zeb Kendall entered the little tent where his younger brother lay in death's door. Strong men turned away with tears, while the two brothers wept like children.

The wounded man was removed from the tent to T. L. Oddie's residence, where he was made more comfortable and everything possible done for him, but the efforts to save his life were of no avail, and he died Thursday evening about 8 o'clock.

The remains were brought to Tonopah yesterday, en route to the railroad, where they will be shipped to the old home in Utah for burial. Zeb Kendall accompanying the remains.

Sharp was again arrested on the charge of murder and taken to Hawthorne, being brought to this city Thursday evening and leaving here on the stage yesterday morning. No preliminary trial was held at Goldfield.

The genuine and heartfelt sympathy of the entire community goes out to the bereaved family and to Zeb Kendall, who is well known to every one as one of the most popular men in this part of the state.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY.

(DO YOU REMEMBER?)

A mob at Ogden lynched a Jap for the murder of Mrs. Elizabeth Gudgell, who employed him. The jail doors were battered down and the wretch hanged in the city bell tower.

The biggest railroad wash-out ever known occurred on the Delaware & Hudson, between Whitehall and Ticonderoga, the tracks being washed out for many miles.

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY.

Explorers discovered the secret entrance to an ancient city, hidden in the most remote corner of the Sierra Madre mountains in Durango. It was a city of probably 25,000 inhabitants. Great temples and residences were found.

Coxey's army was heartily endorsed by labor at Omaha and in other places, which led to riots of a serious nature.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY.

Senator M. S. Quay of Pennsylvania was acquitted of the charge of fraud. The jury declared it a political conspiracy for his ruination.

MOTHER JONES AGAIN.

Italian Miners Tear Down Quarantine Flag and Accomplish Her Release.

"Mother" Jones has finally managed to stir up trouble in Carbon county. A crowd of Italian miners, according to word received by Dr. Beatty last night, tore down the quarantine flag under which the agitator had been detained at a lodginghouse, and accomplished her release. They then took her to their headquarters at Half Way.

Dr. Beatty wired the local quarantine officer to re-arrest the woman and everybody concerned in the unlawful act. He will prosecute them all on behalf of the state board of health.

MODEL CORRIDOR.

Ladies' Literary Club Presents Handsome Furnishings to Wasatch School.

The middle corridor of the Wasatch school building on east South Temple street has been fitted up as a model corridor by the Home and Education section of the Ladies Literary club, and the same was presented yesterday afternoon, to the school by Mrs. W. C. Jennings in behalf of the club. Mrs. Jennings made an address in which she called attention to the necessity of having the best works of art obtainable before children in order to help materially in the uplifting and ennobling of thought. The present was accepted in a speech by Gordon Douglas.

There was an entertaining program presented by pupils of the eighth grade, in which there was chorus singing by the entire school. This was followed by short papers on the busts and pictures presented as follows:

"Plato," by Fred Hampton; Correggio's "Holy Night," by Hazel Ray; "Sir Gallihad," by Theodore Welcher; "Michael Angelo," by Hattie Coombs; "Shaw's Memorial," by William Kephart; Remington's "Picture Writing," by Yale Pfoutz; the "Winged Victory," by Calla Crane, Whittier's poem, Raphael," was also recited by Ethel Grant and Gladys McConaughty gave a piano solo, Mendelssohn's Spring Song.

The Model Corridor is a source of pride and gratification to the School. On the east side is a cast of "Winged Victory;" in a northeastern corner stands a cast of Venus de Milo, and in each of the arches above the doorways are busts of Plato, Michael Angelo, Raphael and Shakespeare. A bust of Mendelssohn stands on a law pedestrial and base-reliefs of Angel's "Night," and "Day" hang on the western wall. Copies of Correggio's "Holy Night," Abbey's "Sir Gallahad," and Remington's "Picture Writing" adorn the walls. The pictures have been chosen with great care and their selection shows excellent taste in art matters.

SONS BANQUET.

Utah Patriotic Society Dines and Wines At the Commercial Club.

The eleventh annual banquet of the Utah society, Sons of the American Revolution, took place at the Commercial club last night, and was attended by a brilliant crowd. The hall was beautifully decorated with national colors, guns, knapsacks, etc., and many floral effects.

Mrs. C. G. Plummer began the entertainment by singing the patriotic song, "The Flag Without A Stain."

Warren C. Bogue, president of the society, then introduced Gov. H. M. Wells as master of ceremonies. The following toasts were heard: "Lexington" by George L. Nye; "The Mission of the G. A. R," the Rev. George C. Hunting. "The Puritan," by Fisher S. Harris; "The Minute Men," by Benner X. Smith; "The Women of the Revolution," the Rev. Charles E. Perkins; "The American," Judge C. C. Goodwin.

The evening closed with the singing of "America."

CHARLES BOTHA IS RESENTENCED.

Judge Johnson Fixes the Time for His Execution for Friday, June 10.

PRISONER CRIED LIKE A CHILD.

Wanted the Court to Change the Penalty From Death to Life Imprisonment.

(Special to the "News.")

Moab Utah, April 19.—At Monticello yesterday Judge Johnson resentenced Charles Botha to be shot until he is dead within the outer walls of the state prison between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., on June 10, 1904. The judge reviewed the procedure in the case from the filing of the information to the refusal of the supreme court to grant him a new trial, and then asked Botha if he knew any reason why he should not be re-sentenced. Botha replied that he did not, but made a request that the time be extended as long as possible to give his attorneys a chance to try for another hearing before the supreme court. He was then sentenced as above.

CRIED LIKE A CHILD.

While at Cane Springs Saturday, where the court body and the sheriff body had stopped for the night on the way to Monticello, Botha asked for an interview with Judge Johnson. His request was granted and he made a strong plea to be sentenced to life imprisonment instead of death. Judge Johnson explained that he was bound by the action of the supreme court to resentence him as before. Botha broke down and cried like a child. This is the first time he has broken down since his arrest.

Sheriff Wood and Deputy Sheriff Christensen have started to the state prison with him and will arrive in Salt Lake City on No. 3 Thursday.

RAILROAD NEWS.

Word comes to this city from Vernal that the water grade route in that vicinity has been surveyed by the engineers in the employ of the Moffat road. The two parties respectively under Engineers Smith and Blount have formed a junction. The last named surveyor who was in charge of the Bear river canyon allignment is reported to have succeeded in getting a good line through the canyon with an average of five-tenths grade and a curvature well within the limit of 10 degrees decided upon as the maximum along the entire line.

Traffic Director J. C. Stubbs and his assistant, E. O. McCormick of the Harriman systems, left Portland yesterday for Los Angeles, in response to a wire from E. H. Harriman who desires to meet them there tomorrow. Just what their future movements will be is at present in doubt, but it is believed that they will ultimately arrive in Salt Lake on their way through to the east.

The San Pedro will run an excursion down to American Fork on Tuesday evening, when it is expected that a number of Salt Lakers will go down to test the famous dancing floor which is set on strong steel spiral springs.

The Rio Grande is getting ready to handle about 3,000 schoolchildren on the occasion of the district school fair at Provo.

It is asserted that the maximum speed which can be attained by the big new 500-class engines recently received here by the San Pedro is 110 miles an hour. They are equipped with driving wheels seven feet in diameter, less two inches.
