THE water of Great Salt Lake is becoming quite cool; those who go down to the sea in cars say so.

SPRING and fall seem to have joined the outposts of winter, and cut our summer painfully short.

A CHILD's cloak has been lost, which the finder is requested to return to this office. See advertisement.

APPEARANCES are that a large audience will greet Kate Castleton in her "Crazy Patch" performance at the Theatre this evening.

McCornick & Co. to-day received four cars Hanauer ore, value, 50,140; two cars Stormout, value, 3,500; Cres-Hills ore, value, $1,400; total, $17,350.

THE game of base ball between the Salt Lake and Rough and Ready clubs on Saturday drew but a limited attendauce. The latter team seemed doomed to defeat the first half of the game, but picked up later and closed with a score of eight to the others' nine.

THE Second District Court opened at Beaver this morning, Judge Boreman on the bench. It is understood that the trial jury will not be called till next week, and appearances so far indicate but little business. E. B. Critchlow is prosecuting attorney and the Gasworks, running parallel with J. W. Pike reporter.

Kate Castleton .- This actress is billed to appear at the Salt Lake Theatre this evening, ably supported, in the laughter provoking play of Crazy Patch. The Alta California says of the presentation of this piece in San Francisco:

"At the Standard, Kate Castleton and her excellent company have been doing more than well with that excruciatingly funny farcial extrava-ganza entitled 'Crazy Patch.' To say that the big houses have been warranted is only to utter a truism, for those who delight in rollicking fun have found it during the run of this peculiarly funny piece. It will hold the boards the coming week, and all who have not been fortunate enough to

under the banuer of the Liberal party was giving vent to his feelings on Saturday, and showed that he was more honest than the majority of his clan, for he told the whole story, concealed nothing and resorted to no specious pleas in high-sounding words. He had perhaps viewed the vintage when the liquid was purple, but this only imparted facility to his thoughts and flexibility to his tongue. He thought that if the "Mormons" would give up temporal control, spiritual advice, baptism, polygamy, tithe paying and temple building, there would be no further objection to their occupancy of these valleys and the government would call off its dogs. "Polygamy be d-d," he said; "If they gave that up to-day, the war would go right on just the same until the whole business was put out of sight, for one part is just as bad as any other. In fact, polygamy is about the mildest thing in it." Such sentiments are not often expressed, but they are more generally entertained our columns and sold by all dealers shan many imagine.

> Wholesome Bread .- In the language of one who is an authority on breadmaking: "There is no article of food more important to human beings than bread, and the greatest care should be exercised in making it. Good yeast and good flour are the essential constituents. Brewers' yeast does not above, but all letters of consultation make good bread, and yeast that is and orders for remedies should be adsour or bitter should not be used. Too much fermentation of the sponge or dough will make bread sour and unwholesome. It should be well kneaded, and have plenty of air thereby worked into it. Fine white flour, as it is usually made, contains only the internal, starchy, parts of wheat, and bread made from it is, therefore, constipating and productive of dispepsia, the national disease." People who desire to eat wholesome, fine, white bread can secure this boon by having it made of whole-wheat flour, as that contains all the nutritive elements of the wheat. This species of flour is now manufactured by the Pioneer Roller Mills, in this city, advertised in
