CHARMING AT-HOME FROCK.

A charming model that can readily be copied by the girl with nimble fingers is shown in this imported frock of the lingerie type. The material is the new satin surah in a faint shade of yellow-all of the yellow tints are in the first flight of fashion-and the trimming face is touched up with the burnt-orange tints in floss silk. The bebe corsage is arranged with a hand, kerchief bertha, composed of boulliones joined with entre-deux, and edged with a frill. The sleeve is puffy, and the waist drops without pouching into the belt. The skirt has yoke and front cut to one, the sides shirred thickly, and a flounce shirred at knee depth and rising markedly toward the back. A featherbone crinolette run in the hem makes for a very quaint and charm. ing effect indeed.
