

— Cairo, Ill., is to be amused with a religious discussion three weeks long.

— It is the "War Cloud" that certain papers now display in big type. The "Fire Fiend" and "Financial Panic" have been put in their cases.

— The best family hams can be bought at St. Louis at 10 to 11 cents a pound in order lots.

— A morning paper speaks of "thieving in the outskirts," which may be interpreted "picking ladies' pockets."

— It is said that notwithstanding his industry and the apparent popularity of his works, Ruskin has never made money by their publication.

— "George Eliot" toils tremendously on her manuscript, working, on an average, six hours a day, and rarely accomplishing in that time more than three or four hundred words.

— An exchange says that Adam was the first man who received a land grant. He was also the first man who was served with a writ of ejectment.

— Medical man (gingerly)—"I think—perhaps—you might—drop a line, and have your wife up." Patient—"O, doctor, you're always for such extreme measures."—Punch.

— Wilkie Collins says, "Show me a man who calls adultery nasty and I will show you a puritanic prude." Well, what does Wilkie Collins think adultery is? Does he think it very nice?

— There was an advance of 2s. per ton at the principal Durham (Eng.) collieries the last of November. From the north of England the word is—"Colliery property is in great demand. Enormous prices are asked."

— "The Japanese," says an exchange, "make paper boots which will wear six months." Well, what of it! The Yankees make leather boots that will wear nearly one month.

— About the pitthiest specimen of correspondence extant is that which passed between Foote's mother and Foote:—"Dear Sam—I'm in prison. Yours E. Foote." The old lady was under arrest for debt. The son's answer was—"Dear mother—So am I. Yours, S. Foote."

— The Boise Statesman says—"Mr. Yearyan, who owns a ranch about twelve miles below town, says he has killed this season on his property 1,500 rabbits, and if what are left would bring ten cents a hundred, he could supply at least five hundred dollars worth before winter sets in."

— A wonderful merchant has just died in Liverpool, England. His name was Mr. Edward Garston. In youth he was a great traveler, and became an accomplished linguist, so that he acted as interpreter at Queen Caroline's trial. He engaged in the Greek revolution and showed great bravery. Afterwards he kept the duellists of Naples in terror with his reputation. Returning to England he settled down as a merchant in Liverpool. He was in addition to his other professions, an author.

— The Sin of the Times.—A public officer thinks it no shame to complain in public documents of his salary, and ask for more. A President, if he don't ask more, takes it when it is offered, and lends, consciously or not, the influence of his acquiescence to increase the disposition to make office the means, not of exhibiting the self-sacrifice and the virtues a nation delights to honor, but of getting more money. Office has come to mean money, and little else. And this degradation of it, this prostitution of its opportunities, this contempt for its honor and adoration of its emoluments, is the sin of the times. It is not a party sin. It is national. It taints every State and community alike. The elections are a protest against its perpetuation.—Indianapolis Journal.

WESTERN NOTES.

Nevada is proud of a potatoe weighing twelve pounds.

The advantages of advertising are illustrated by the reported fact that while one of the printers of the Santa Cruz Sentinel a few days ago, was setting up an advertisement for a lost canary the bird flew in at the office window.

A small procession moved down Union Street yesterday afternoon which attracted a good deal of attention. It was composed of three policemen and a woman—two of the policemen at the woman's shoulders and the third following behind bearing up her feet. Carried thus from B street down Union to the station-house, face down and her long hair almost dragging upon the snow, some thought the woman dead, as she uttered no sound. It seems she is wanted as a witness in a case which will come up to-day in Judge Marple's court, and she was sent off in this manner (being unable or unwilling to walk) in order that she might be sobered up in the lock-up. To the question of city jailer Enders, who asked if the woman was sick, the man who held her feet and who is of a dramatic turn, replied: "Not so sick, my lork, as she is troubled with thick-coming fancies, that keep her from her rest."—Territorial Enterprise, Dec. 5.
