NEWS OF THE DAY.

In the U. S. In the House a bill was passed providing that citizens of territory acquired by the U. S. from Mexico, who had retained their Mexican citizenship, shall enjoy all the rights of American citizens, and may become naturalized citizens of the U. S. without previously declaring their intentions.

An interesting debate took place in reference to a bill introduced by the Judiciary Committee, for an amendment to the constitution of the United States, fixing the Presidential term at six years, and declaring parties elected to the position of president or vice president of the U. S. ineligible for re-election.

Another fire was discovered in the Navy Department building, at Washington, D. C., yesterday afternoon, and an investigation showed it to be of incendiary origin.

The Civil Rights League, a colored organization, demand the passage of the civil rights bill in its entirety, and the admission of the negro to all schools, hotels, public conveyances, etc.

There is considerable excitement in eastern political circles, over the election to the U. S. Senate, of a "party" by the resolution, Andrew Johnson, who is endorsed by the New York press as a fearless and honest man, and is said to be more able than the present leaders of the majority in the Senate.

Stuarts are to be immediately commenced against the Union and Central Pacific railroads, and their several branches, for not paying to the government five per cent. of their net earnings, according to the requirements of the law.

Judge Mackey, who has been investigating the recent troubles in Edgemoor County, Mo., says they originated in gross abuses by the county government, and that no English-speaking people have been subjected to such indignities since the Saxons won the Norman collar.

The senatorial contest runs high in Wisconsin; it is said that eighteen republicans of the legislature have pledged themselves not to vote for Carpenter.

The low lands around Paris are flooded by an overflow of the Seine.

The Methodists of Montana are opposed to dancing. They won't have it in their churches, and they won't have the lure made by dancing. A district conference of the Methodist Episcopal church was held at Bozeman, commencing Jan. 4th. On the 6th the following preamble and resolutions were discussed and unanimously adopted by the conference, according to the report in the Bozeman Avant-Courier—

"Among the greatest hindrances to our church work that we find in this new country is dancing and attendance on dancing parties. It interferes materially with the spiritual success of Christianity. Our discipline, however, is very explicit on this subject, and can be our only rule and guide in reference to it."

"Resolved, therefore, That we are opposed to and determined to discountenance all dancing parties in any form, more especially any participation in them by our membership or the flouting of them to any of our church enterprises."

"Resolved, That we cannot consistently receive church golden by such means for church purposes."

The preachers present at this conference were: Rev. T. C. Hill, of Bozeman; Rev. Mr. Egan, of Virginia City; Rev. Mr. Van Orsdel, of Virginia City; Rev. Mr. Anderson, of Fort Peck Agency; Rev. Mr. Bridger, of Bozeman; Rev. Mr. Blay, of Virginia City; Mr. T. Lockridge, of Banack."

Elsewhere in the News may be found some pertinent dissenting comments by a Montana newspaper, upon the above detailed action of the conference, which will be worth reading by those who take an interest in the subject pro or con.

Some of our readers, perhaps many of them, who were brought up with religious strictness, may recollect the injunctions placed upon them by their religious parents or guardians, against engaging in dancing, or entering a room in which dancing was going on, for the purpose of engaging in or witnessing such exercises, ballrooms and theatres being considered by such strict religious people as the very gates of hell, the portals of perdition, and to be carefully shunned accordingly.

Such extreme views are no more absolutely correct than extreme views generally are. Moderation is the golden rule, as the apostle says, "Let your moderation be known unto all men." The danger from most acts is in regard to time, place, manner and conditions of their performance, rather than in the acts themselves.

There is no sin in dancing, that is, it is not of itself a sinful exercise, not in the least. It is held to be the oldest and most universal of the fine arts, the "poetry of motion," no more inherently vicious than painting, music, or any other fine art. Dancing has been and is practised as religious, warlike, gymnastic, pantomimic, social, solemn, or festive exercise. It is either of these, according to the intention of the actor. In either instance it is very inspiring, but is neither is it necessarily degrading. Things are much what they are made by the uses to which they are put.

The Hebrew word for dance means literally to "leap for joy," and for the expression of sacred joy and holy triumph dancing seems to have been engaged in on frequent occasions in Biblical history. Many orthodox Hebrews still give bals maques on the evening of the feast of Purim, an occasion of great rejoicing to commemorate the triumph of Esther and Mordecai over Haman, the enemy and persecutor of their race.

Dancing was customary as a religious exercise in Christendom until the 12th century, and in Spain until the 17th, the clergy dancing with the children in the churches. Later still, in the 18th century, at Limoges the people and clergy have danced together around the choir of the church of St. Leonard on St. Martin's day. In early times the bishops presided in dances in Christian festivities.

Dancing was an important part of education in Greece and was held in high honor. It was the opinion of Plato that all dancing should be of a religious character, and should be carefully legislated upon, as an essential to the cultivation of grace of motion. On the contrary, the Mohammedan religion forbids both dancing and music, terpsichorean exercises not being among the paradisaical pleasures promised in the Koran.

The increase in Whisky Tax, etc. WASHINGTON, 27.—Beck, of the ways and means committee, says the proposed increase of the whisky tax would produce $1,000,000 more nothing the first year, but would give present holders six million dollars. He ridicules the idea that congress may agree to apply the additional tax to the stock on hand.

Strong efforts are making to induce the President to veto the little tariff bill, because of its increased duties on mixed silk goods.

Incendiaries at the Navy Department—An Address from the Civil Rights League. An examination of the cellar of the Navy department has been made yesterday to burn the building, trains of rope and waste paper were laid about the floor, connecting with piles of chips, shavings and broken up kindling wood. It is believed that the fire on Monday was the act of an incendiary.

Detestables at work. The National committee of the Civil Rights League, colored, have presented an address to the senate committee of the judiciary, denouncing the passage of the bill in its entirety, and the admission of colored persons to all schools, hotels, public conveyances, etc.

Statement by Irwin. Irwin presented a statement to the ways and means committee, showing that the amount he received from the P. M. company, to use in procuring the subsidy, was nearly nine hundred thousand dollars.

New York, 17.—The Times says it is not so easy to see Andrew Johnson return to public life. He displayed many and grave faults as president, but went out of the White House with a purer heart than he entered it with. He is something of a man in these times. After pointing out some serious errors the Times attributes to him, it says, "a man of great natural abilities and force of character. He will considerably enliven the Senate discussions, and what he says will be listened to with interest."

World says it is sincerely glad of the return of so experienced and upright a public man to the Senate, although his faculties and eloquence are not better for opposition than for power, his past proves that his future will be unselfish, honest and very courageous. The Sun thinks his election will be hailed with general satisfaction, because he is believed to be honest and fearless. He is not wise or great, but he is a man of good sense and common sense.

In the Beecher trial to-day, the examination of Moulton was concluded. Mrs. Andrew Bradshaw was then put upon the stand.

Boston, 27.—The late Mrs. Anne White Vose, in her will, just made public, bequeathed $35,000 to the public institutions in this city.

The Central Pacific Lobbying. Chicago, 27.—A Washington special agent reports that the central branch of the Union Pacific railroad is again present and actively at work. The bill which its officers had introduced earlier in the session having been sent to the committee of the whole on a point of order, it was found necessary, in order to render action possible, to bring the present session, to introduce it anew, and to-day a bill was presented in the judiciary committee authorizing the company to carry it before the Court of Claims; the amount involved is from $5,000,000 to $8,000,000.

Elected U. S. Senator. TRENTON, 27.—Ex-Governor T. P. Randolph was elected U. S. senator by a vote of 49, Robeson 31.

WESTERN. Military Interference. The arrival of the "Peking" and of Kalakaua, etc.

San Francisco, 27.—In response to the action of De Trobriand at New Orleans, a resolution has been adopted by the Senate of Nevada, by a vote of 10 yeas, and 10 nays, providing for the interference of the military with the civil power, but holding De Trobriand not guilty of interference, approving the course of the President in the Louisiana difficulty, and expressing confidence that he will in future act in the past, execute the laws with justice and moderation.

The Pacific Mail steamship City of Peking is off the heads. King Kalakaua and suite arrived last night in a special car attached to the regular train; they will leave for Honolulu on the flagship Pensacola about the 1st of February.

The gain and loss of the last season no serious marine disasters are reported. The shipping along the coast received considerable minor damage. A small schooner was damaged and sunk at Green Street wharf.

The trial of Joseph Casey, one of the poll tax cases, was concluded yesterday, and last night the jury found a verdict of guilty, charged, with a recommendation to mercy; he will be sentenced on Feb. 6th.

FOREIGN. GREAT BRITAIN. Officially Denied. LONDON, 27, 4.30 a. m.—It is officially denied that Layard is to be recalled from Madrid, or that Lord Dufferin intends to resign the Governor Generalship of Canada.

A Big Battle Likely. Forty thousand troops are massed around Tala, for an attack upon the main Carlist positions at Puerto La Regina and Camaral Pass, commanding the road to Pamplona. A battle is expected to take place in the operations of his troops.

Overflow of the Seine. The low lands around Paris are submerged by an overflow of the Seine; steamboats have stopped running, being unable to pass under the bridges.

CONGRESSIONAL. SENATE. Postal Telegraph Bill, etc. WASHINGTON, 27.—Dorsey, of Ark., introduced a postal telegraph bill, the same as was introduced in the House on Monday by Butler, of Mass.

At the expiration of the morning hour, the consideration of Schurz's Louisiana resolution was resumed, and Thurman continued his speech begun yesterday.

HOUSE. Filibustering. Butler, of Mass., as a question of privilege, called up his motion made last session, to reconsider the vote by which the bill on the telegraph was referred to the judiciary committee; a point of order was raised, but the speaker decided, on the authority of that day's journal, that the right existed, and thereupon the democrats began filibustering, and the House is now engaged in that business.

THE ACTION OF THE METHODIST Episcopal Conference in Bozeman, disapproving dancing parties, has been the position of many of the churches, especially in a country like this, forbidding their members to participate in such festivities, well taken. Although a religious animal to the average extent, we do not consider this from the standpoint of a professor of religion, but from the merely practical standpoint of a citizen, and do not therefore here deny that "attendance on dancing parties interferes materially with the spiritual success of Christianity." That is for those who teach it and know the facts to disprove the statement as to whether the authorities and severe discipline with which many of the denominations have empowered their religion keeps many a well disposed soul out of the church, and compels many a person to lead a life of daily hypocrisy. And the professors would find our declaration as to the spiritual success of dancing, if it is in such a radical and distressing that this spiritual success is most often a mere matter of fact, health and prosperity are not declared against it. It does seem to us that church discipline is too stringent when it prohibits moderate indulgence in rational and less pleasures, and especially so when it designates and pronounces against the only general social enjoyment that is within the possibilities of people in these frontier communities. In more densely settled countries, where music, oratory and like rational entertainments give humanity an opportunity to meet in numbers occasionally, the situation is different from here. Except in attendance at church, we would not say that at one time, where too frequently the pulpits of our churches have not many "spiritual success" in them, very many of our people from a young beginning to its end can be present at no other public assemblies but funerals and dances. Even in the half dozen larger towns the case is not much better, while in three-fourths of the little communities there is no preaching three times a year. How many public concerts, or lectures, or readable exhibitions, or entertainments where people would care to go or be gratified in going will either Helena, or Virginia, or Bozeman, or Butte, or any of the Lodge average per year? And if the people of the hundred lesser communities do not meet each other occasionally during the year at social gatherings where music and the dance enliven, they must live like hermits six months in the year. There is no harm in the mere fact of dancing, and it is only indulged in to excess, or anything that is good. No worse associations need be formed than elsewhere in society, for it is an inevitable fact that the very best people have in Montana are keeping the ministers, attend public as well as select dances. The love of the human race is not more than one good man or woman in a hundred but keeps time with his or her heart to its cadences, and if it should happen their feet took up the measure and moved through set forms and figures to its inspiration, does not that belong to a better part of human nature? There is not more than one good man or woman in a hundred but keeps time with his or her heart to its cadences, and if it should happen their feet took up the measure and moved through set forms and figures to its inspiration, does not that belong to a better part of human nature?
