A Spanish Cashier Imitates the American.

The Tyrant Kaulbars to Go, Etc.

The Derby Cup.

LONDON, 17.—The Derby Cup, one mile straight, was won by J. Lowther's colt, King Monmouth, by a head, Lord Hartington's gelding, Corunna, second, Naylor's mare Fast and Loose third. There were twelve starters.

Imitating America.

MADRID, 17.—The cashier of the military office of this city has absconded. He is $10,000 short in his accounts. It is stated that other officers largely shared in his speculations.

Good News if True.

BERLIN, 17.—The Post says it is reported on semi-official authority that General Kaulbars is about to be recalled from Bulgaria, and it adds that the step will be accepted as indicative that the Powers have arranged to replace the attempt to solve the Bulgarian difficulty by action on the spot and by international adjustment.

The Colridge Case.

LONDON, 17.—The Court of Queen's Bench was crowded to-day with fashionable and distinguished people at the trial of the second action for libel brought against Lord Chief Justice Coleridge by his son-in-law, Chas. W. Adams. Adams declared that the Lord Chief Justice wrote a letter explaining to certain personal friends why he opposed the marriage of his daughter Mildred to Adams. In his letter he alleges that plaintiff endeavored to obtain his daughter's money by compromising her so that she would be compelled to marry him. The publication of this libel, Adams contended, consisted in showing the letter to the Earl of Salborne, then Lord High Chancellor, and the Earl of Iddesleigh, then Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, who were induced to act as referees in the settlement of the other action for libel, based on the Lord Chief Justice's letter to his daughter, endeavoring to dissuade her from marrying the plaintiff by making severe attacks on his personal character. During the hearing both the Earl of Salborne and the Earl of Iddesleigh occupied seats on the bench.

MORGAN STAKE CONFERENCE.

The quarterly Conference of Morgan Stake convened at Morgan City, Nov. 13th and 14th, 1886. The leading Priesthood were well represented. Apostle Heber J. Grant was also present.

Saturday, 10 a.m.

President Grover, of the Seventies, showed the great need of becoming conversant with the Gospel, and then living according to it.

Patriarch W. B. Corbet spoke of the intelligence of God, His power of creation, and the saving effects of the Gospel, which could not be valued by gold.

High Councilor Jesse Haven spoke of the pride existing among the people, and referred to the warning of God through Moses to ancient Israel not to follow in the fashions of the surrounding nations.

Saturday, 2 p.m.

Elder Nephi Anderson a returned missionary, related some of his experience while traveling and preaching the Gospel.

President W. G. Smith narrated some of his experience as a missionary to a foreign land. Spoke upon the principle of tithing, and other subjects of a nature calculated to advance the interests of the Stake.

Apostle Heber J. Grant touched upon a variety of subjects all of interest to the Latter day Saints. He showed that the reward of the faithful was not limited to this world as was that of those who knew not God. Riches he said were in many instances a curse to men, because they set their hearts upon them and thus became indifferent to the things of God.

Sunday, 10 a.m.

The Bishops or Counselors of the various wards reported their wards.

Elder R. R. Fry made some interesting remarks about keeping the Sabbath day.

Apostle Heber J. Grant then delivered a discourse full of interest.

2 p.m.

After the usual opening exercises and administration of the sacrament, the general and local authorities were presented and sustained unanimously.

Apostle Heber J. Grant occupied the remaining time exhorting the Saints to faithfulness. The Christian world were trying to overthrow the kingdom of God, but instead were assisting in building it up. A perfect mania had taken hold of many of the people of this country, causing them to spend thousands of dollars in hunting up their genealogical records which were of inestimable value to the Latter-day Saints. The conference was highly interesting and enjoyable.

The choir deserve praise for their part which they so well performed.

The missionaries for the last half year were honorably released and others for the ensuing half year were called and sustained. The conference was adjourned for three months.

Benediction by Patriarch Alma Porter.

CHAS. KINGSTON, Stake Clerk.

SANPETE STAKE CONFERENCE.

The conference of the Sanpete Stake was held at Ephraim on the 13th and 14th of November, 1886, commencing at 10 a. m. on the 13th.

We were favored with the presence of Apostle F. D. Richards, and President Peterson and Counselors, members of the High Council, and the Bishops of the several wards were in attendance.

Opening remarks were made by President Peterson, who congratulated the Saints upon the present opportunity of meeting in conference under favorable circumstances.

Apostle Richards said he thought the Saints in this valley were greatly blessed temporally. He condemned the spirit of extravagance sought to be introduced among the Saints, and urged them to redeem their dead.

On Monday afternoon the statistical report was read, and the Bishops reported their respective wards.

President Beal said he would like to have the various quorums reported, and spoke upon the duties of the Priesthood.

On Sunday forenoon Prest. Malben read the financial report of the Manti Temple, and Supt. Folsom spoke upon its financial condition.

Apostle F. D. Richards addressed the Conference upon a variety of subjects, and advised that efforts at intellectual culture by means of lectures, etc., be made.

On Sunday afternoon the general and local authorities were presented and sustained.

Apostle F. D. Richards delivered a discourse, treating upon the mission of the Savior.

President Peterson expressed his satisfaction with the proceedings of the conference, which was adjourned till Feb. 19th and 20th, 1887.

GEORGE TAYLOR, Clerk.

A Plague of Mice.

In the colony of Lourence, Brazil, in the months of May and June, 1876, mice suddenly appeared in enormous numbers, says Science. They invaded the grain fields in such large numbers that the corn seemed literally alive with them, destroying in a few days everything that was edible; and where, but a short time before, bushels of grain might have been harvested, not an ear remained, and the noise produced by their nibbling and climbing was audible for a considerable distance. After the corn-fields were devastated the potatoes next received their attention. Only the largest were eaten in the ground; such as were transportable were carried away and hidden in hollow trees or other retreats for future use. Gourds and pumpkins, even the hardest, were gnawed through and eaten. Of green food, such as clover, oats, barley, not a leaf was left standing; even weeds were cut down and the inner part eaten out.

In the house the struggle for existence of these long-tailed invaders was truly amazing. In many of the dwellings hundreds were killed in a single day. The cats would contribute but little aid in fighting such a plague; for not only were many of the rats so large that it would have been an unequal contest, but by their great number they drove the cats actually from the houses, not to return until the plague was passed. Nothing except what was composed of iron, stone, or glass was spared from their destructiveness. Furniture, clothes, hats, books—everything—bore the traces of their teeth. They gnawed the hoofs of the cows and horses in the stables, literally ate up the fatted hogs, and often bit away the hair of persons during sleep. They penetrated all apartments and gnawed their way through boards and walls of houses. Ditches that were dug about granaries did not suffice; the mice would climb over each other and reach the top.

The foregoing account of one occurrence in Lourence will suffice to show to what an extent the plague reached. The same province had suffered similarly in 1843 and 1863, and in all probability will again in 1889. Similar plagues, though far less in extent, have occured in Europe, in which the field mice unaccountably appeared in greatly increased numbers. One may well think what would be the result were these little, insignificant, creatures, everywhere in such wise to take the ascendancy. When one considers that an average of every one or two months from five to eight young are born, and that these young become mature in a few months themselves, he will not be surprised to know that a single pair of common field mice in the course of a single summer would increase to 25,000 rodents. Could all the conditions which now keep them in check be removed, every living thing on earth would be consumed in half a dozen years.

Bartholdi's Fountain.

Few visitors to the national capital know that this city has the first specimen of the sculptor Bartholdi's work ever seen in this country. It is not to be wondered at that this fact is not generally known, for the work was stupidly hidden away in the low, flat grounds adjoining the botanic gardens, where it is never seen. It is in the shape of a magnificent bronze fountain, and was brought to this country to be exhibited at the Centennial Exhibition at Philadelphia. The government purchased it, and it was sent to Washington and stowed away for several years in the basement of the capital. Finally somebody discovered it, and it was set up on the low ground, where it now stands, hidden by a great iron fence and out of harmony with its surroundings. The water supply in that part of the city is so feeble that the fountain is never kept playing. The dust has accumulated upon it, and the grand work is now in such a sad state of neglect that it is to be hoped that the liberty and American loving Bartholdi, if he should chance to visit Washington, may pass on without discovering its hiding place.—Buffalo Courier.

They Got the License.

While Judge Lamkin was peacefully dreaming this morning, between 2 and 3 o'clock, he was suddenly startled with a crash on his door, like somebody had struck it with an ax.

"Hello! Hello, here I say!"

"Hello, yourself," replied the Judge, as he rubbed his eyes to see whether he was dreaming, or an earthquake had come, "what do you want?"

"I want you to go to the Court House and fix up some papers."

"What sort of papers do you want this time o' night?"

"Wall, yer see, Jedge, there's a feller an a gal what wants ter marry."

"This time of night! Well, there must be something wrong about it?"

"No, its all right. The girl is an orphan and 19 years old, and the boy, he's a man—but sorter modest and don't want ter ax fer the papers."

"Well, wait till I couple up my leg and I will fix 'em. But don't you come back here any more at this time of night."

It is probable that before the morning sun gilded the eastern sky with its rosy hue, Joseph Fincher and Miss Iola B. Blackstock were made one.—Gwinnett (Ga.) Herald.

MISTRESS AND MAID.—"Where have you been, Jane?"

"I've been to a meeting of the Girls' Friendly society, ma'am."

"Well, and what did the lady say to you?"

"Please, ma'am, she said I wasn't to give you warning, as I meant to. She said I was to look upon you as my thorn—and bear it!"

Once when Mr. Justice Byles was trying a prisoner for stealing, a medical witness was called, who said that, in his opinion the accused was suffering from kleptomania, "and your lordship, of course knows what that is."

"Yes," said Byles, quietly, "it is what I am sent here to cure.
