ERNEST SETON THOMPSON

The Celebrated Lecturer to Appear in the Tabernacle.

An Inimitable Mimic—An Amusing
as well as Touching Incident Connected With His Lectures.

Ernest Seton Thompson, one of the most celebrated lecturers of the day, will deliver his lecture on wild animals in this city next Saturday. It was at first arranged to have him speak in the Assembly hall, but fearing that that building was inadequate to seat the number of children that will want to attend, the place was changed to the Tabernacle. Therefore Saturday afternoon he will lecture for the children at the Tabernacle and for the adults in the evening.

The lectures are illustrated with stereoscopic views and are designed for the instruction and amusement of children. Mr. Thompson is a born story teller and a natural mimic and among the features of the lectures are his many laughable and pathetic anecdotes, and his inimitable imitations of the cries and calls of animals to their young.

Speaking of Mr. Thompson, the following amusing as well as touching episode in connection with one of his lectures, might be taken from the Boston Transcript:

Here is a story that came in the mail. I like it so well for its real human interest that I can't resist the temptation to tell it. It is a story, my correspondent; "Even the most stony hearted citizen of this 'Modern Athens' could not have failed to be deeply stirred as he gazed into the eyes of the happy children passing into the hall last Saturday morning to see Ernest Seton Thompson, and hear about his forest friends. A small boy standing alone and forlorn in a corner attracted a bystander's attention. His thin little figure seemed to shiver occasionally, his eyes and a far-away, tired look, and his hollow cheeks showed a sad lack of roast beef. In strong contrast with this urchin came a lady and her handsome, healthy boy. They passed by the ticket-taker and were lost among the others; but in a moment the little fellow came running back to the man and said, 'Mamma wants me to catch the coachman. Will you let me in afterwards?' I couldn't stop for a check from mamma. The man assented hesitatingly, and the boy darted up the stairs. In a few moments the first little fellow moved forward from his corner, adjusted his cap, stretched his lean figure to its utmost, and rushed to the ticket-taker. 'Say, I got him all right, but I had a chase. Was way up Massachusetts avenue. The people closed about me as was entertaining as ever. The lecture was as interesting as the chase. I was all through it the hollow eyes haunted the witness of the incident, and she wondered if his keen wit had found him a vacant seat. But what of the rich boy? Did he get in, too?'

"As the crowd was leaving the hall the mother and her son were seen at the entrance. 'I was nearly frightened to death,' she said, 'when you didn't come back. Harry, I'm so glad you're safe,' and she drew him to her. Just then a thin hand touched the soft fur of her coat, and she turned to see what it was. 'Lady,' he began, 'I hope you'll give a feller, I didn't mean no harm by it. I knowed you'd be seen when he didn't come to yer, but I wanted to hear that man awful. I seen his picture in a whiner. The whiner in an him, I was awful wet and hungry. I wanted to see somebody that loves animals. I loves all the cats and dogs; I didn't got nothin' else to love.' Tears were stealing from the lady's eyes and she stooped and lifted the little homeless boy and carried him to her carriage. The door closed and they drove away."

AS TO NEXT MONDAY.

Half Holiday Will be a Mixed Proposition, Apparently.

So far as next Monday, Arbor Day, being observed as a holiday is concerned, it is pretty much of a mixed proposition. Yesterday afternoon several members of the Retail Clerks' association suggested to the "News" the desire on their part to have a half-holiday on Monday, and the names of a number of business houses said to be favorable to the idea were given.

President Cottle, of the association, in speaking of the matter this afternoon, however, said that the suggestion had come entirely too late to be of any avail, and that all business houses so far as he knew would be open the whole of Monday. The banks of the city will remain closed all day. These are the only commercial institutions to observe the day by a suspension of business. The schools of the city and county building will all plant trees.

PEOPLE WHO ARE PASSING

Ed Greenway, general western agent for Munson's Wine company, and president of the Bohemian club of San Francisco, left for the coast at noon today.

"Attending to some mining litigation there. Everything in the west seems to be prosperous, and the mining industry is rapidly developing the country," Judge Valle left on the afternoon train for Denver.

CLASH ON UVADA GRADE EXPECTED

San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake Railroad Company Sending Determined Men, "Who Have Been in Tight Places Before," to the Front to Hold the Property.

The ancient theory regarding "the irresistible force coming up against the immovable post" bids fair to be materialized in the form of a demonstration down on the disputed grade beyond Uvada, within the next few hours. Inquiry at the Short Line offices this morning elicited the information that tracklaying was proceeding apace and would continue to be in active operation until the last rail had been laid. A visit over to the local headquarters of the San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake Railroad company was productive of the statement that explicit orders had been given to the men now working for that company to hold the grade at any cost. Mr. Whittemore was explicit in regard to the matter of any little physical misunderstanding that might arise between the rival gangs. He stated that he did not anticipate any serious trouble, but at the same time, the class of men who were now working on the grade were accustomed to obey orders, and were level headed individuals, who, while they would not precipitate any trouble, nevertheless were perfectly able to look after the interests of their employers and give a good account of themselves.

CLOSE TOGETHER.

This afternoon the rival gangs were but 400 yards apart, and if the Short Line tracklayers keep up their record, they will catch up to the Clark graders before the sun goes down. The graders, who are said to be receiving 45¢ a day, have received instructions to widen the grade, and are doing so in a methodical manner with their teams and shovels. They are scattered down the track at stated intervals in small knots wherever there is water. In the meantime, Mr. Whittemore states that he is being flooded with applications from the farmers and others in the region of the grade and from a distance of fifty miles on either side. He is living all the time in the office of the General Manager, Barker, of the Oregon Short Line, who will be one of the party which will start from Salt Lake on Wednesday. It is said that the expedition is for the purpose of determining the better route from Puyup or Clover Valley Junction on towards the coast. Mr. Lund has made all his arrangements and will have a relay of horses at various points along the route to be traversed. In addition to Mr. Barker, General Superintendent R. E. Calvin and Resident Engineer Ashton will accompany the party. It is further intimated that President Burt of the Union Pacific and Engineer Berry will be on hand to participate in the trip.

GOING OVER THE ROUTE.

Hon. R. C. Lund of St. George is in this city getting ready for a trip over the grade and down across the arid portion of southern Nevada. He is acting under instructions from General Manager Barker, of the Oregon Short Line, who will be one of the party which will start from Salt Lake on Wednesday. It is said that the expedition is for the purpose of determining the better route from Puyup or Clover Valley Junction on towards the coast. Mr. Lund has made all his arrangements and will have a relay of horses at various points along the route to be traversed. In addition to Mr. Barker, General Superintendent R. E. Calvin and Resident Engineer Ashton will accompany the party. It is further intimated that President Burt of the Union Pacific and Engineer Berry will be on hand to participate in the trip.

CONFESSED TO EMBEZZLEMENT.

St. Louis, April 12.—Wm. H. Hussman, an office employee of the Barrett manufacturing company for 13 years, confessed today to having embezzled $1,000 and forger to the extent of $4,000. His wrongdoing was due, he said, to his infatuation for a woman not his wife. He is under arrest.

AMERICAN JOCKEYS IN ENGLAND

Their Friends Badly Disappointed at the Season's Work.

London, April 12.—The friends of the American jockeys now in England are so far badly disappointed at the season's work. Not a single American called at Leicester yesterday. L. Reiff has lost six out of 20 races. J. Reiff 21 out of 25. Mable 16 out of 20. These failures are variously attributed to the fact that most of the English jockeys have adopted the American style of riding, and to the immature condition of the American mounts.

One of the interesting results of the American invasion is the disappearance on the turf of a new racing saddle with sliding stirrups, which is warranted to give a jockey an American seat without effort on a race horse. The stirrups straps are on much the same principle as the V shaped American suspender fasteners, and the inventor of the new saddle claims that it automatically changes the rider's weight from front to rear, and vice versa, giving all the advantage of the American style of riding.

IN WESTMINSTER ABBEY.

The Fall of a Pillar Caused Some Alarm.

London, April 12.—Some alarm has been caused by the fall of an 18 foot pillar in Westminster abbey. The pillar stood in the side chapel northeast of the chancel. It fell with a tremendous crash, was shattered into small pieces and damaged the tomb of Lord Norreys. Investigation showed that a similar column in the same chapel was very unsafe. Steps have been taken to assure stability.

CONSUL MCCOOK.

Rumor of His Death at Dawson is Unconfirmed.

Washington, April 12.—The state department has heard nothing to confirm the rumor of the death of United States Consul McCook, at Dawson City. On the contrary, the last advice received by the department, while showing the consul had been very ill from an attack of pneumonia, stated that the chances were favorable for his recovery. This message came to the state department directly from the doctor in charge of the hospital at Dawson City where Consul McCook was lying, and it was dated the first of April. The officials doubt whether any later advice have come out of Dawson at this season of the year.

I sought no medical aid until the disease had taken so strong a hold on my system that the doctor felt doubtful of a cure. As I found that several of my army comrades had been suffering with kidney trouble and had been cured by Warner's Safe Cure, I decided to try that and soon found that I had decided wisely.

I used the medicine for nearly seven months before I was entirely cured, but I am glad to say that I have had no relapse.

JERSEY CENTRAL TROUBLE.

Probability is that an Agreement Will be Reached Tonight.

New York, April 12.—There is a strong probability that the Communipaw conference between the representatives of the company and officials of the Central Railroad of New Jersey will reach an agreement tonight as to the wage schedule of the engineers and firemen.

Vice President Warren, who is directing the railroad's end of the conference, was uncommunicative. It is known, however, that the contending sides are quite close together and the points of variance are, it is understood, not material.

At 4:40 p. m. this afternoon the conference between the Central Railroad of New Jersey and its employees for lunch, on having the office of Superintendent Olsen, Timothy Shea, the representative of the firemen, said there would be no strike. This had been definitely decided upon, he said.

In the electrical features of the Pan-American Exposition there will be much for the members of farming communities to study, and they may see where the toll of the farm may be greatly lessened.
