Local hardware men report a lively sale of garden tools, as the frost is out of the soil, and garden owners are getting ready for spring flower and vegetable cultivation.

William F. Bell, a gas and steam fitter, was arrested last night by Patrolman Seaton on a charge of "rolling" a drunken man named J. F. Horne, to the extent of $10.

As the lease held on the Elk saloon at the corner of First South and 2nd East does not expire until the latter part of April, construction of the B. Y. Trust company's new building there can not begin until after that date.

A colored soldier's reunion was held last night at 55 Commercial street, in honor of the fifty-seventh birthday of William Holland, a veteran of the Civil war. There was a large attendance of colored people.

Druehl & Franken have bought the Theater pharmacy at the corner of First South and State streets, formerly owned by the late E. L. Dodge. It will be known hereafter as the Red Cross Drug company, with F. E. Swartz in charge.

Hereafter all eastbound registered mail will be pouches through from the Salt Lake postoffice instead of being delayed at Ogden for transfer. This concession is in response to requests from Postmaster Thomas for the above mentioned improvement of the service.

Mal Myton has returned from his extended absence in Washington and the east. He says that Congressman Howell is an indefatigable worker, one of the hardest working men in fact, in the house of representatives. Mr. Howell has very little to say, but does a whole lot.

Harry Harrison, the state prison guard whose left forearm was badly wounded by the premature discharge of a revolver, is in St. Mark's hospital, where it is feared he may lose his arm. It was not at first thought that the bullet had injured the bone, but examination at the hospital shows them to have been shattered.

Dr. Mattie Hughes Cannon read a paper yesterday afternoon, on "Colonial Times" before the Women's Democratic club, and there were informal talks on the work of the Daughters of the Confederacy, by Mrs. Tom D. Pitt and Mrs. K. B. Anderson. The club will unite with the club in celebrating Jefferson day, April 13.

Katharine F., the little daughter of Lawrence Green, the mining man, died Tuesday, from after effects of measles, aged 2 years and five months. The funeral was held from the family residence, 156 First street, today at 2 p. m. Dean Eddie of St. Mark's cathedral conducting the service. The interment will be private.

An examination is being held today, at department headquarters for candidates for positions with the fire department. Running up and down ladders, hauling hose lines to the top of the roof, and various other feats of agility are included in the program, followed by mental tests in the chief's office, and then a medical qualification. Politics don't count.

Prof. Evan Stephens sends the following to the "News," addressed to Granite state singing class: "Owl go to the sad calamity that has overtaken us, in the fearful accident at Granger ward, we do not feel that we can meet and enjoy the dance we anticipated holding next Saturday. The class will meet as usual, but the dancing party will be postponed until a more suitable time."

The masquerade last evening in Federation hall of the Danish Social society, Utah, No. 62, was well attended, and the costumes were unique and attractive. The prizes were awarded to Miss H. Hylander as Queen of Hearts, Miss M. Brandt as an Indian, E. Williams as a Highlander, Earl Nelson as a tramp and Wilford Nielsen as a Chinaman. Dancing continued until midnight.

Secy. Beatty of the state board of health made an address last evening at Springville, on the importance of establishing a waterworks system under municipal ownership. Dr. Beatty spoke before the mayor and city council, and quite a number of prominent citizens of Springville. The doctor will speak on "Public Health" Saturday afternoon next before the Cache County Teachers' Institute.

A car of marble, six weeks in coming from Vermont, was found the other day as an stray at Cheyenne, having been wandering over the northwestern road. The car was sent west in double quick time, arriving here yesterday, and the marble is now being placed in position at the Federal building. There is another car lost track of somewhere, and yet to be discovered. The granite for the granolithic sidewalks is being crushed preparatory to mixing with cement.

O. H. Barber is in the city after a plant with which to start a second newspaper, the Times, at Twin Falls. He states that when he left the city there were 125 teams hauling lumber there from the railroad, and it is Impossible to supply the demand for building material. Mr. Barber says over 300 sets of logs have been made, calling for settlement on or before May 1, and the farm tracts average about eight acres, 160 acres being the limit for any one person to file on. A house and barn must be built within 60 days from date of filing.

Members of the Retail Butchers & Grocers' association claimed at last night's meeting that there is an inequality in the matter of licenses that should be straightened out. For instance it is not right for a butcher to pay $50, while a grocer pays but $25; and then on general principles it is not fair that a small establishment should pay 50 cents license as a larger one. So the association proposes to draft a bill for an ordinance establishing a new schedule of licenses, including a reduction of butchers' licenses to $25. President Thomas Homer of the Salt Lake Real Estate association made a brief address on the benefits of unionism as applied to butchers and grocers.

HIS MIND DERANGED.

Old Man Who Flagged and Stopped Passenger Train to Get a Ride.

As a Union Pacific train was nearing Echo, the engineer and fireman were startled by a man excitedly waving a signal on the ahead. With visions of a broken rail, a burned bridge, a washout, or some other threatened danger, the engineer quickly brought the train to a standstill. It was soon ascertained that the man, a disheveled having been averted, the man by the track only wanted to ride. He had been chased by two men, so he said, for a long distance, and as the only means of escape he had taken was to jump on the train. He was allowed to ride to Park City, where he was put in care of the officers, as it was apparent that his mind was deranged. The name of the man is Robert Angus, and he is well advanced in years. He tells a story of having loaned money to various persons, without taking security therefor, and on most subjects talks quite rationally, but it is believed that he is at least a bit "queer." Angus says he has a son at Bingham and other relations in London, Canada, to which place he desires to go. He was examined by a physician at the instance of Sheriff Mall of Summit county, who brought him to this city to see whether he should be sent to the asylum. The old man's relatives will doubtless be asked to care for him.

STATE SCHOOLS
BIENNIAL REPORT

Superintendent Nelson Sets Forth Some Interesting Data on Education in Utah.

$2,662,414 IN BUILDINGS.

Representing Value of 606 Structures—Eighty-Seven Additional Ones Are Rented.

The estimated value of all of the public school buildings in the state, according to the biennial report of State Superintendent Nelson for the years 1903-1904, is $2,662,414. At the close of the school year, June 30, 1904, there were 606 school buildings in the state, of which number 606 are owned by the school districts in which they are located and 87 are rented for school purposes. The financial condition of the schools, the report states, is on the increase. At the close of the school year of 1904 the state school fund showed an increase of $55,653.55 over that of the years 1901-1902, and the county school fund showed an increase of $200,884.17 over the previous biennial period. In regard to the salaries paid teachers, Superintendent Nelson has the following to say in his report:

"It is encouraging to note that in the larger cities and in the most progressive districts teachers' salaries are steadily increasing, and that the life of the teacher is extending over a longer period of years. In 1904, the average monthly salary of male teachers in the county schools was $74.85, of female teachers $54.65. During the same year in Salt Lake City, where the highest salaries are paid and where the greatest inducements to remain in the teaching profession are to be found, such as an annual increase in salary for a number of years for meritorious work, male teachers receive an average monthly salary of $115, female teachers $65.

"It is needless to state that the best school work is done in cities and districts having the largest percentage of specially trained and experienced teachers. It is hoped for the sake of the children of the district and also for the welfare of the community at large that hereafter no school board will endeavor to secure the services of the cheapest available teacher. Every dollar expended on the best available teacher will be returned many fold."

The superintendent also urges that higher salaries should be paid the county superintendents of schools. To the more efficient services may be rendered and a just compensation may be received for such labors.

The salaries of the different county superintendents are as follows: Beaver, $250; Boxelder, $200; Cache, $300; Carbon, $416.50; Davis, $750; Emery, $400; Garfield, $200; Grand, $500; Iron, $150; Juab, $275; Kane, $75; Millard, $200; Morgan, $275; Piute, $150; Rich, $125; Salt Lake, $1,200; San Juan, $100; Sanpete, $725.50; Sevier, $500.10; Summit, $400; Tooele, $500; Uintah, $300; Utah, $1,200; Wasatch, $250; Washington, $225; Wayne, $150.

More high schools are needed in the state in order that the poorer classes may receive more than an eighth grade education. On that subject the report says:

"To some the high school question may seem trite, yet Utah will never reach its educational possibilities until it establishes efficient high schools in all the larger towns of the state to enter which the thousands of students who otherwise will never re-enter school after leaving the eighth grade. The high school, he says, is the poor man's college."

Another urgent need of the schools is suitable libraries for the pupils. In relation to that question, Superintendent Nelson says: "My observations while traveling among the schools in all parts of the state have convinced me that some definite action should be taken to get suitable library books into the schools. There are but few good school libraries in any of the districts. The books which are owned by the various districts too often consist of reading matter which bears no relation to the needs of the pupils, or to child life in any of its interesting phases. The reading habit does not prevail to any marked extent among pupils of schools devoid of interesting juvenile literature. To remedy this condition, this department has undertaken on a somewhat thorough plan, the task of selecting books adapted to the requirements of different grades and of arranging with publishing houses to have these books obtainable by our school boards at the lowest possible prices."

The University of Utah, the Agricultural college and the institution for the deaf, dumb and blind are highly commended in the report for their efficient work. The superintendent recommends that the state be set aside for the use of the University and the Agricultural college. Such a tax would bring in $140,000 annually, which would be sufficient to defray all of the expenses of these institutions.

Are You Engaged?

Engaged people should remember, that, after marriage, many quarrels can be avoided, by keeping their digestion in good condition with Electric Bitters. S. A. Brown, of Bennettsville, S. C., writes: "For years, my wife suffered intensely from dyspepsia, complicated with a torpid liver, until she lost her strength and vigor, and became a mere wreck of her former self. Then she tried Electric Bitters, which helped her at once, and finally made her entirely well. She is now strong and healthy." Z. C. M. I. Drug Dept. sells and guarantees them, at 6c a bottle.

SHE MARRIED TO AVERT VIOLENCE.

Sensational Romance Combs to Light in the County Attorney's Office.

ITALIAN GIRL'S TWO LOVERS.

She Sought Protection and Officials Suggested She Wed One of The Men.

A romance containing all of the essential features of a sensational affair of the heart was brought to light early this week when two of sunny Italy's young natives were married in this city. It had its beginning in Italy several years ago and the various stages through which it passed before its happy culmination on Tuesday are interesting enough for the foundation of a romantic novel.

In 1880 a certain young Italian resident in Florence, Colo., who saved enough money with which to visit his native country. He went to Italy in 1884 and remained for eight years. During his stay in the town of Mad Damado, a beautiful type of Italian womanhood who was then only a young girl. The two became attached to each other and were betrothed. In 1902 the young lover returned to the United States and again secured employment in the smelters at Florence. He had secured the promise of his sweetheart to come to him as soon as he could get enough means to bring her to this country.

By frugal saving he obtained the sufficient amount of money and at once set out for the girl to come. She arrived here in 1903 and made her home at Florence. The man, however, postponed the wedding for some time on the plea that he did not have sufficient means. He finally left Florence and went to Lafayette, Colo., and secured employment. The girl followed him to the latter place, still having implicit faith in his love.

While at Lafayette another man appeared on the scene and became enamored of the girl. His name is Francesco Mazza. He won the girl's heart from lover No. 1, and about a week ago they eloped and came to this city. They were followed by the deserted lover and were closely watched by him. Fearing that the man in a fit of jealousy might harm her, Marie called at the county attorney's office yesterday with Francesco and with the assistance of an interpreter, she asked that her former lover be placed under bonds to keep the peace.

Assistant County Atty. Lyon, who was in the office at the time, suggested that they get married at once and then her husband would have the right to use forcible means if necessary to protect her. She decided to take his advice and, accompanied by the interpreter and the assistant attorney, they went to the county clerk's office and secured the necessary license and were married late in the day.

An hour or so after the couple had left the attorney's office, lover No. 1 appeared and wanted the girl arrested, saying that she was his wife and had stolen away from him. He had with her some money belonging to him. Mr. Lyon told him that the girl had already been married in company with her other lover and had secured a marriage license. He also charged the deserted lover that he had promised to marry the girl and had not done so hence she married the other fellow. He was warned not to give her or her husband any more trouble and he was ordered to leave. The fellow went to the county clerk's office to see whether or not a marriage license had been secured by the young couple and when he found that such was the case he retired from the office in a state of despair.

Mazza said that he would take his bride to one of the coal camps of this state, where he would secure employment and that they would live happy ever afterwards.

Cured Consumption.

Mrs. B. W. Evans, Charwater, Kan., writes: "My husband lay sick for three months. The doctors said he had quick consumption. I procured a bottle of Ballard's Horehound Syrup, and it cured him. That was six years ago and since we have always kept a bottle in the house. We cannot do without it. For coughs and colds it has no equal." Sold by Z. C. M. I. Drug Dept.
