TEN ING TO SDATE AFRICE TO STATE

DESERET EVENING NEWS: THURSDAY, APRIL 25, 1901.

Is Much Worse Today in That Part of Ohio Valley.

58 FEET STAGE IS PASSED.

Great Distress Around Hautington, Catlettsburg and other Towns-| River Rising at Louisville.

Cincinnati, O., April 25,-The flood situation in this part of the Ohio valley is much worse today. It was expected that it would reach its limit to. day here, and up the valley, and that it would not exceed 58 feet at Cincinnati, or 8 feet above the danger line. It passed the stage of 58 feet here last midnight and the conditions for almost 200 miles up the river are equally bad. The rise here yesterday afternoon was at the average rate of one-half inch per hour, but during the night the average rate of rising increased owing to rising tributaries below the Kanawha, especially the Big Sandy, which had previously been falling. While the limit of the present flood may be reached today it is feared the new conditions may keep the river about stationary until there might be a second flood. The worst conditions are reported at Huntington, Catlettsburg, Ironton, and Portsmouth, and the smaller places in that district have reached the point of great distress. Since midnight the Ohio river here has risen seven-teeths of a foot. The stage at noon was 58.7 feet. As the river is still rising as far up as Ca-tleitsburg, and as the Kanawha at Charleston is again rising, the infer-ence is reasonable that the rise here cannot be checked before tomorrow by which time it may reach a stage of 60 feet or over. The weather here is clear. Contrary to expectations, the Ohio river is still rising slowly at Ironton.

RISING AT LOUISVILLE.

Louisville, Ky., April 25.—The river at Louisville at 12 o'clock today register-ed 29.5 feet in the canal, according to the government gauge, this being 15 feet above the danger line. The river is still rising at about an inch an hour, but is expected to come to a standstill some time Friday afternoon or night. Kentucky river is failing all the way down

DISTRICT COURT HEARING. Jost Case Given to Jury - Board of Education-Teachers' Institute.

Special Correspondence.

Provo, Utah County, April 25 .- In the case of the State vs Jost, in the Fourth district court, Solomon G. Sly, husband of the complaining, witness, testified Nat Goodwin did with Maxine Elliott in regard to the relation between himself and his wife since his return from versed, and the heroine bearing off the De Lamar, Nevada, in July, 1900, different from his testimony given at the former trial, when he testified that the relation of husband and wife had not existed between them since his return. At this time he testified that the recomes back now a matured, charming, lation had existed in July.

The prosecution introduced a new witness, Mrs. Harriet Fontyn of Salt Lake, who testified that she was a most effective actress, equally strong few things more moving than her acting in the agonizing moments when she is forced to separate from her lover. Its effect on the audience was almost painful. In the playful portions of her role, she was delightfully natural. The trance medium or a "minister of the spiritual gospel," or, as some people called her a clairvoyant. She, however, indignantly denied being a fortune teller. Objections to her testifying was made by the defense on the ground that the communication between perself and defendant was confidential, but this ob-jection was overruled. She testified that Mr. Jost had told her in October of 1990 the between the two years supporting cast throughout was strong-1900 that he was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary for the offense. She had asked him why he was so nervous if he was not guilty. He then said "My God! I am guilty of the crime and I feel sorry for myself and my married Children." Mrs. Fontyn's testimony in regard to this statement on the part of defendant was not shaken on cross-examination. The defense offered the records of the court in the former case showing that defendant had been convicted and sen-fenced on October 20, 1900, and appealed to the supreme court, the bill of excep-tions not yet having been fixed and tions not yet having been fixed and the transcript not yet transsmitted to the supreme court. The introduction was objected to by the prosecution, on the grounds that the proceedings in the former trial were void, the information taving been filed by the district at-
