In this regard there must he no one-sided line of prosecution. The late springing of the question of the extended applicability of the provisions of the Edmunds law and its supplementary elactment, is but the initiatory Indication of the danger of one-sided or class legislation. One community .or people cannot be improperly or unconstitutionally treated without others being liable to be drawn into the vortex. Whatever applies in this regard to criminal matters dues so equally in reference to the rights of property. There are, in this connection, some dangerous provisions in the Edmunds Tucker ac. Any extreme steps taken under them would imperil the proprietary rights of other relig lous communities. As the question upon the criminal features of the itgislation Las been sprung in the District of Columbia, so, in certain coptingencies, would questions doubtless arise regarding the rights of property. VICTORIA AND BUFFALO BILL On Wednesday of last week Queen Victoria visited Buffalo Bill's Wild West show and witnessed the performance, now exhibiting in London. An interesting episode connected with the incident was the presentation to Her Majesty of several members of the company. The correspondent of the New York World thus describes it:

"The Queen advanced to the open-ing of the box and stood upon the floor, which is about six inches above the level of the track. "Red Shirt" advanced and stood upon the tan bark. When he was presented by the bark. When he was presented by the interpreter the latter was very much overcome, but "Red Shirt" re-mained as self-possessed as the Queen herself. He half nodded and smiled. The Queen directed the interpreter to say to him that she was glad to see him, that she had admired his riding very much, and bade him welcome to England. "Red Shirt's' face lighted up when this was com-municated to him in husky whispers by the interpreter. He responded in the the interpreter. He responded in the gutturals of his native language, which the bashful interpreter translated in such a feeble tone of voice that the Queen could not understand. Orator Richmond, however, repeated the phrase so that the Queen heard it. It was as follows: 'I have come many thousand mill s to see you. Now that I have seen you, my heart is glad." The Queen nodded at this flowery sentence, and "Red Shirt" stepped back. Then "Yellow Striped Face," the half-breed interpreter, was presented, and then came two squaws, mothers of the two pappooses in the camp. The little girl pappoose was first presented. The Queen patted her cheek with her black-slik gloved hand, and then the little thing stuck out her brown paw, and the Queen shook it. After this
