GALVESTON, 16.-There was a collision between the steamships and the criminal abusiveness of collision between the steamange Clyde and Morgan, in the lower bay at 5 p.m.; the Clyde is at the wharf, her bow torn out. The car-go is uninjured. The Morgan was put into abaft her paddles; her freight is reported to be injured, but the extent is unknown. She anchored near the Point. The veshusbands, many of the women in that portion of the Union east of the Rocky Mountains are obliged to do virtually without husbands, and are to be commiserated accordingly. Yet, with these ugly and stubborn facts before their eyes, sels were passing in opposite direc-tions, and the collision is supposed certain parties are extremely angry with the men of Utah for gento have been caused by a stiff north erously stepping forth and endea-
