WHEELS WENT OVER NECK.

Which was Found to Have Been Broken—Left Wife and Three Children.

About 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon a teamster named Louis Sinclair was killed at the corner of State and Ninth South streets, by being run over by his own wagon. Sinclair was driving along at a trot when his wagon ran into a drain ditch which had been recently dug to carry off the surplus rain water. The shock threw the teamster out under the front wheel. By some means Sinclair was dragged along for a short distance until a rock was encountered in the road, when the wheel passed over his neck. Eugene, the year-old son of the unfortunate man, stopped the horses and drove them to their stable, returning to the place where the accident occurred. Undertaker O'Donnell took charge of the body and removed it to his establishment on School street. It was found that Sinclair's neck had been broken and that the lower part of the head was badly bruised.

Judge Lochrie enquired into the circumstances surrounding the accident and concluded that no inquest need be held.

Some time ago Sinclair had a leg amputated and at the time of his death was wearing an artificial limb, which perhaps prevented his helping himself as he ordinarily would have been able to do. He was 38 years old and leaves a widow and three children.

NOW DOCTOR RICH.

Young Utahans who Graduated at Chattanooga, Tenn.

The Chattanooga (Tenn.) News of April 25, 1901, contains the following item of interest:

Among the graduates of the medical class of Grant University last night was Lorin Farr Rich, second son of President Ben E. Rich, of the Southern Mormon mission of this city. He was the youngest member of the graduating class, and the obtaining of his diploma was the realization of a long cherished ambition to be a physician. He carried off his share of the honors of his class, being declared worthy of honorable mention.

Lorin Farr Rich was born in Ogden, Utah, twenty-one years ago, but now resides in Rexburg, Idaho. He has been desirous of entering the medical profession since his early childhood, and when a boy worked in a drug store for four years without compensation simply for the purpose of learning all possible about the profession of pharmacy.

In 1888 he entered the medical department of U. S. Grant University and graduated last night. He is a young man of pleasing address and personal appearance. No other member of the graduating class has more friends in the class or the faculty than he. He has labored studiously, earnestly and honestly, thereby earning the friendship of his professors and classmates.

Dr. Lorin Rich leaves Monday for Philadelphia and New York, where he will spend the summer months in some of the hospitals in those cities. Dr. Rich intends to take a post-graduate course during the fall and winter at either the Jefferson College of Philadelphia or the Rush College at Chicago. The young gentleman realizes on account of his youth he has plenty of time to spare, and therefore intends to enter the profession of medicine before entering his professional career.

During his stay in this city Dr. Rich has made friends of every one he has come in contact with. His departure from Chattanooga will be deeply regretted by his friends.
