ROAD TO BOISE.

That Huntington and Yoakum may parallel the Moffat road and that sur-veyors are now working on the rival line to Boise from Denver is the state-ment of the Denver Post which dis-cusses the proposition as follows: Secrecy regarding the identity of their employers is being maintained by two parties of surveyors who are running a line for a railroad over Cam-eron pass, north of Rollins pass, where the Moffat road cross the Continental divide. Denver railroad men believe divide. Denver railroad men believe they are employed by the Colorado, Wyoming & Idaho Railway company and that the company is backed by H. E. Huntington and B. F. Yoakum of the Colorado & Southern. The surveyors say they are running a line for a road to be built from Denver to Bolse, Idaho, and perhaps to Seattle, Wash. The Colorado, Wyom-ing & Idaho's charter snid the line would extend from Denver to Bolse. Colorado & Southern officials deny all knowledge of the presence of the sur-evyors in the mountains, but it is believed the engineers are trying to find a way for the Colorado & Southern to extend its line to the northwestern For years projects to build a straight line to Seattle from Denver have been born and killed. Several companies ware incorporated for that purpose, but none of them, with the exception of the Colorado, Wyoming & Idaho rallway, ever did as much as put sur-veyors in the field. Now, it is believed gomething tangible will be accomplished. A Denver mining engineer who has been working in the vicinity of Cam-eron pass gives the information that the men are rushing work to finish the survey before winter sets in. They are, the engineer says, in constant com-munication with a Mr. Montgomery of Test Colling and with Denver betties Fort Collins and with Denver parties. The headquarters of one party is at Zimmerman's ranch, North park, and the other party is camped at Rawdon, Chambers lake. All supplies are near thambers lake. An supplies are sent from Denver. The line being surveyed is expected to commence at the Fort Collins end of the Colorado & Southern rallway, go through North park and northwest to Boise, Ida. This would make a new territory tributury to Denver and the merchants of this city will have new markets for their goods. At Fort Collins it is said the line At Port Comms it is said the inte-would bring mineral and coal from North park. A dispatch from there also says an electric line is planned from Eaton to Fort Collins and then to Denver.

If one passed Elbert Hubbard on the street he could be pardoned for think-ing him something of a "freak." and yet as one sizes up his variations from idards of the mode, he sees that th in measures his extremes only by hes. He is said to be entirely out joint with the times, and yet he has caught the ear of the world as few m out of joint with his era ever did. " our work we find our religion" is his creed, and "our joy is to do it well" is his statement of his source of happl-ness. If one wishes to class him with the notorious instead of the famous men, he must stop a minute to recall that all the while Edgar Allan Poe was writing the poems America is now gradually moving up to the highest poltion in American letters, the cou-cemed with critics who declared as three-fourths buncombe and fake It is even said that he was criticized to death, and after his critics died he be-gan to live first in France, and then in his own country, where his work is gradually acquiring the place to which the French elevated it a decade ago,

The measure of Mr. Hubbard cannot The measure of Mr. Hubbard cannot be taken by any of the known stand-ards, but he seems to be one of those men who know a good deal more of their generation than the generation knows of them. He has established a "gallery of immortals" for those who believe in his principles, and it is get-ting to be a rather long list. What place he will take is still unforecasted by the regulation critics who try to place the egulation critics who try to place the literary men of today in relation to hose of yesterday. Certain it is that dince his Philistine began, book mak-ng and printing have been altered and styles in furniture have hanged.

CRY IT DOWN!

Another Citizen Speaks Out in Beha'f Of Clean Amusement.

To the Editor:

I read with interest the article in the News" last evening on Theatrical Vulgarity by "Citizen," and "Another Citisen," desires to raise his voice in helping to cry down the immorality of some of our public playhouses. If it be true that out of the abundance of the hear! the mouth speaketh, then the theatrical performers who disgrace the boards of some of the Salt Lake theaters have very unclean hearts. I was pained a few evenings ago at hearing a boy re-late some of the vulgar jokes that had been told during a performance the evening before. On the street cars, in the restaurants and on street corners young men are heard telling their com-panions the smutty yarns spun in some of our playhouses. They in turn tell their companions, and thus the vulgar jokes are carried from one end of the sity to the other; and when once a vulgar story gets into a young man's head it stays there for a long, long the mouth speaketh, then the theatric end it stays there for a long, long Movement on Foot to Stop Cutting of Prices and Improve City Rates.

There will be an interesting session this afternoon of the grain and flour dealers of this city. There is a proposition on foot to organize the millers of the city and vicinity into a stock company which shall handle all of their grain and flour, and thus effectually put a stop to the cutting that has been disquieting the local markets for the past six months or more. The organ-ization of the company will also assure the millers a fair and steady price for their flour, and it is proposed further to ship no more local grain out of the state, but grind it all here, and ship out the flour as may be advisable,

It is also believed that by this move the railroads will give a better rate on flour exports, so that all of the surplus stock here can readily find a market.

TRI-STATE TOUR.

J. E. Cosgriff Reports Conditions in Idaho, Oregon and Wyoming.

J. E. Cosgriff has returned from a month's absence in Idaho, Oregon and Wyoming. While in the latter state, Mr. Cosgriff attended the state fair at Douglas, where the great attraction was a relay race of three days-six half miles each day-for women, and the way these riders would stop, change saddles and then get away again, was to circus performers. caution The prize was $1,800. But Douglas is something of an out-of-the-way place, and reaching it is attended with discom-

Mr. Cosgriff found the southern part of Idaho enjoying continued prosperi-ty, and says it is but the matter of a short time before the arid belt will be a thing of ancient history, as the irri-gation plants move towards the central point from the eastern and western sec-tions of the state. When this is ac-complished the entire waters of the Snake will be used up in Idaho. There is a tendency poward the same thing in Wyoming, but the land there is higher, rockler, and more difficult of manipulation than further west, and it will be a long time before irrigation schemes are matured there as contemplated. The situation in Oregon was found to be satisfactory from a busistandpoint, and on the whole Mr.

Cosgriff felt repaid for his trip.

AMUSEMENTS.

With the present, future and past plethora of amusements, somebody was bound to run into a frost at the Theater, sooner or later, and the evidences of a chill were very visible yesterday afternoon and evening when Mme. Herrmann appeared. The two perform-ances, though slightly attended, gave a great deal of pleasure. The madam herself gave many new feats in slight of hand performances as weal as some of the old ones culled from the reper-toire of her husband and nephew. The other features were also attractive.

Tonight at the Theater, George Ade's new comedy "Peggy from Parls," will be seen for the first time.

The new play entitled "A Thorough-bred Tramp," will be seen at the Grand tonight.

The engagement of "The Merrymakers" concludes at the Lyric with tonight and tomorrow night's performances.
