

WILL BE THREE
TICKETS IN FIELD

Preparations Being Made for Forthcoming Judicial Conventions.

"AMERICANS" WILL BE IN RACE

Republican Call is Already Out While
That of Democrats is in Process of Formation—Possible Candidates.

From present indications there will be at least three tickets in the field, when the coming judiciary conventions are over, the Third judicial district.

As to whether there will be an "American" ticket there has been some doubt, but District Chairman J. E. Darmer, said today when asked about this situation: "While I have not called my committee together, and the matter has not been discussed, still I can say almost with certainty, judging from present party sentiment, that there will be an "American" party judicial convention.

The Republican call for the convention is already out, while the Democrats are planning to put a full ticket in the field, unless a non-partisan movement comes into being. This movement is favored by local members of the Bar association, and opposed by politicians who declare that the heads of the Bar association represent the corporations, and that this association therefore ought not to have any hold on nominations that would make judges look to it, rather than to the people through their regular conventions.

FAVORS NON-PARTISAN

Judge William H. King declared today that he favored a non-partisan convention, with a ticket composed of the best men obtainable regardless of politics and all other matters.

The Republican are taking steadily for the day of judicial nominations. The voting will be in Salt Lake county, Boone county, and Summit county, and about judges, Morse, Ritchie, Lewis, and Arnsperg are in the nomination. So far Morse and Ritchie have little or no opposition, and their places are conceded to them by politicians.

On Armstrong a fight will be made, but the organization working for him throughout the section where the votes will be polled, is doing making for Armstrong's "stiff sentences" his reputation for giving "stiff sentences" a burglar and thieves such as the business district fears. Judge Whitaker of the city county is mentioned as a possibility for a place on the ticket, and H. A. Smith, of the law firm of Edwards, Smith & Price, is also named as a possible candidate.

Whether Dist. Atty. Loofbourow will land the renomination is doubtful.

ward the reformation is doubtful, and on this office at least one good political fight is preparing for Job Lyon has been out on a long, "still hunt" for the place, and is already well enough entrenched to make it interesting for Mr. Loofbourow. H. A. Smith is also being boosted for the place, as well as for a judgeship.

Ogden Hiles is almost certain to be nominated on the "American" ticket as one of the four, but few other names are definitely mentioned as yet.

Among the Democrats Charles Baldwin, at present U. S. commissioner, is almost certain to be named for one of the places, with three places open to a field, none of them yet showing winning colors.

FOR NATIONAL CONVENTION

Besides the judicial conventions, another set will be due in May or early June. There will be to select six Republicans for the Chicago convention and six Democrats for the Denver convention. In addition the Democrats will name a national committee and the candidates for this place at present being Judge Frank B. Stephens, Joel L. Priest, Judge W. H. King and Judge O. W. Powers. Mr. Stephens and Judge Powers seem to have the larger size booms and the probability is that the final choice will be between them.

PRISON LIFE CHILD'S PLAY.

Deputy Ure Thinks Western Convicts Have Easy Time.

Deputy Warden Ure has returned from Ohio where he took a prisoner wanted there for burglary, he having just served a term in the Utah state prison for forgery. Mr. Ure took him to the Reformatory at Mansfield, where first sentence prisoners are sent, though this man may be transferred to Columbia on the score of his having been in prison here. The chief officer was astonished at the casual character of the Mansfield prison, where everything is fully up to date, and where not a blow is struck by any of those who are not engaged in hard work, while labor are put through a military drill in the yard. Not only at Mansfield, but at other prisons in the east visited by Mr. Ure, he noted prisoners were not allowed to be at large in the prison yards, and were not allowed to be at large in the houses together, smoking and playing various games among themselves. Prisoners are marched from their cells in the morning, to the breakfast table then back to their cells. In the afternoon, the work day begins. At 12 noon, the prisoners are marched to the dining hall to get their dinner, and then to their cells until the inmates have their dinner. They are then marched to the afternoon work, afterwards to their cells, then to supper, and back to their cells. Marching and drilling under guard is all the exercise the prisoners receive, outside of the regular daily tasks. Letter writing may be indulged in once in five weeks, and each convict may receive a call from friend or relative.

Mr. Ure says prison life in Utah, Wyoming, and some other western states is mere child's play compared with the restricted life in eastern prisons. The principal trouble with convicts in western prisons is to keep them from "dope."

In the east, there is no opium from this source. It is largely due here to so many convicts having served time in California where opium is smuggled in from Asiatic countries and distributed among so many people. These, after once acquiring a taste for the stuff are bent on giving it to others.
