DESERET EVENING NEWS: SATURDAY MAY 5, 1906.

IF YOU DON'T

by what it has done for my family." Sold by Z. C. M. I. Drug Dept., 113 and 114 South Main Street. B

Tea Leaves Used Again.

HE Ruggleses of Salt Lake were to have their pictures taken. A started off with the baggage in high family group. The departure of glee--sure enough going the back way. an elder son upon a long journey Arrived at the gallery, another wait.

24

caused Father and Mother In the desperate struggle to get the The day was appointed, to so decide. family ready. Mother, of course, had and in order to avoid all possible misfound no time to properly arrange her understandings, delays and hitches at hair. And now, at the eleventh hour the last moment, every precaution was and past, her pompadour became imtaken in selecting and voting upon the possible-the rat refused absolutely to most convenient hour in the whole 24. pose itself at a graceful angle. She when shining and looking pleasant, fussed and fumed, growing crimson in clothed in their proper minds and their the face and more and more nervous. "Sunday-go-to-meetin's," the family for the family, one after another kept should sally forth to the photographup a series of wild calls for haste. Finally in despair, she gave up and went

The hour arrived. In a desperate hurforth to take her position in the family ry, and hard pressed on all sides by group. countless business appointments, Father Ruggles appeared; on time to the dot, and fully expecting Mother and the hope I may never feel like this.' entire Ruggles regiment lined up for Whereupon Youngster made answer: march. But alas! Elder Son madly ondeavoring to meet a thousand engagements beforehand, was late. Father crucial moment-Youngster could not began to stride about, vainly calling or would not be posed: one last wail upon memory to supply him with every from him known joy of his youth, to keep his expression pleasant, when Elder Son appeared and the atmosphere cleared.

At this precise happy moment it was learned, however, that the Misses Ruggles were far from ready; they had been killing two birds with one stone, or trying to, in making candy and dressing for their picture at the same time: flying wildly from kitchen steve to mirror and back again to kitchen stove, with but sad success in the end -the candy had spoiled and likewise their countenances.

Clouds were gathering. Father was saying things. Elder Son was crunching imaginary Hazel nuts in his teeth as an outlet to impatience, while Mother was growing frantic over the fact that The Littlest's clothes could not be found anywhere. The family was turned loose throughout the house, searching from cellar to garret. At length the small wardrobe was gathered together piece by piece and held firmly in one spot by loving hands still the small one was surely dressed.

The sun was beginning to glimmer once more, when it was borne in upon every separate consciousness of that chaotic household, that Youngster Ruggles was missing. Himself forgetting, he had been entirely forgotten. Pandemonium broke loose. Every home in the neighborhood was communicated with by telephone. No Youngster! The different members of the family were dispatched here, there and everywhere, with but one result-no one had reen Youngster that day. All were about to give up in utter hopelessness when a small boy loomed up at the Ruggles gate with the glad word that Youngster was "up at the cave." The "cave" proved to be a dugout on an empty ter a few days ago, and I am now going square, given to the dignified use of a to answer it, I have heard that in San club house for the baseball nine calling Francisco, Oakland, Alameda, Santa itself the "Lafayette Bulldogs." On this Rosa and Lonsangels, Berkley and in

'spacious times of great Elizabeth' was condemned to make 'bells, beads and copper' for the tender-hearted Indian princess." To make the picture more complete, the writer gives this sketch of the Inlian princess as drawn by Esten Cooke, Virginia historian: "Her dress was a robe of doeskin, lined with down from the breast of the wood pigeon, and she wore coral brace-lets on wrists and ankles and a white plume in her hair, the badge of royal blocd. It must have been a very inblocd. It must have been a very in-teresting woodland picture-the soldier, with tanned face and sweeping mus-"Oh joy!" exclaimed Youngster and tache, shaping trinkets for the small slip of Virginia royalty in her plumes and bracelets."

"Smith spent the last half of Decem. bet, 1607, with Powhatan on the York river," continues Mr. Bright, "and we can now picture the hardy campaigner of the Turkish wars trying to teach the innocent little maiden of the wigwam something of the Child of the Manger, telling her that, though Palestine was far from Virginia, the star of Bethle WDB and when the colonists were suffering from lack of food, relief came from the Indians themselves, and "at the head of the wild train was Pocahon-tas." whose kind heart had prompted her to succor the perishing colony. "The colonists were much touched by this gracious act," the chronicler re-lates, "and years afterward, in recom-mending her to the favor of the queen, my picture again," she groaned, "I Smith wrote: "During the time of two or three years she, next under God, was still the instrument to preserve this colony from death, familie and utter confusion, which, if in chose days had once been dissolved Virginia might have lain as it was at our first control to this dear."

low brought his small charge to Salt Lake, took a house and furnished it and set up housekeeping; the little brother attending the Lafayette schoof. After a time, however, Fort Douglas offering more work to the young tailor, he moved up to that quarter, leaving the little one to keep house alone. Seemingly fearless and happy, Little Jap in the 'Red Deeps' about Jamestown, and the little chrysalis of love was tenderly nurtured behind the palisades of the old capital until spring, with its birds and blossoms, brought it to per-fect flower. As Rolfe won her heart, so the old English clergyman at Jamestown won her soul, and, re-nouncing the few 'pomps and vanities of this wicked world' that she had known, she was christened Rebecca, possibly after Rebekah of Genesis. "The marriage was solemnized in kept the house scrupulously clean, prepared his own meals and attended school. Because of his utter loneliness and bravery, Little Jap soon appealed to another little boy attending the same school, and who has the name of taking in hand and brothering any little boys who have not the joys he knows in his own home. Little Jap was so clean and such a thorough little gentleman, that he quite won the hearts of his little white friend's family, and it was not long before he was taking his meals and two brothers to represent him. The Apostle of Virginia, the devout and getting his lessons there altogethand two brothers to represent him. The Apostle of Virginia, the devout Whitaker, performed the ceremony. The scene is picturesque and new to the world's eyes. The small church is decorated with arbutus, dogwood blossoms and spring's first flowers. The little sylvan princess tremblingly stands by the side of her big English lover: on her left the colonies from er; but always going home at nights to By and by, Little Jap's brother took him away to Ogden, much to the sorrow and regret of his little comrade, who has since received the following lover; on her left the colonists from far and near stand hushed and expect-ant in best bib and tucker; on her right the delegation from her father's court in plume and feather, headed letter, and kindly allows it to be published. The letter is typewritten by by her uncle Opechancanough, who, Clad from head to foot in Wampum. Armed with all his warlike weapons, Painted like the sky of morning.

Crested with great eagle feathers,

5

33996

"A child of nature, with and untrain-ed as the vines over her father's sylvan court, the birds and flowers were her friends and companions, but in her heart was a kindness and sympathy un-known and unfait by many a royal known and unfelt by many a royal pricess surrounded by the refinement and softening influences of an emperor's palace. IF YOU DON'T Succeed the first time use Herbins and you will get instant relief. The greatest liver regulater. A positive cure for Con-stipation, Dyspepsia, Malaris, Chilis and all liver complaints. Mr. C-. of Emery, Texas, writes: "My wife has been using Herbine for herself and children for five years, it is a sure cure for constipation and malaris fever, which is substantiated by what it has done for one family: "Sold hem shone on both.'

PACAHONTAS TO THE RECUE.

After Smith's return to Jamestown night have lain as it was at our first arrival to this day." Then the story of the Indians' treachery is told and of Pocahontas' warning of impending danger, saving the English from massacre at the hands of the would-be assassins. Smith's recall to England, following soon afterward, it is shown how Poca-hontas' visits to Jamestown were dis-continued and how she did not return ply his trade as a tailor. He had not been long before his family sent a tender little brother of nine years to continued and how she did not return there until carried prisoner as a hostage for the good behavior of her fathdo well in the coast city, the young fel-

She arrived at Jamestown in the "She arrived at Jamestown in the fall of 1612 in tears but they were soon followed by smiles," the story goes. "Master Rolfe, a young colon-ist of good behavior, was soon looking with melting eyes on the little wood-land beauty, who coyly shot back a glance of notice now and then. The autumn in scarlet and purple gathered new warmth for the winter siege from the two hearts that roomed together the two hearts that roamed together in the 'Red Deeps' about Jamestown,

S S S "The marriage was solemnized in April 1613, in the church at James-town. The old emperor gave his con-sent, and though he would not attend the wedding, he sent the bride's uncle (5)(5) (5 333

Streaked with crimson, blue and yel-10%

vancement, and the crafty, dignified In-dian ruler of the Virginia woods, bent upon his country's protection. They in their way inspire us with admira-Antiquity Came in a Day To Dear Old San Francisco.

> N a day antiquity came to San Francisco.

One builds a romance of the last days of Pompell. These were 2,000 years ago. The giamour of another age hangs over them; but what reaches the heart in the story are the things that do not change and are never buried-youth and love, the sweetness of life and its pathos.

One saw all these in San Francisco The city may be rebuilt; love and youth and gavety will again inhabit it. But they will not animate the former places; they will create new memories. The San Francisco of yesterday will

The San Francisco of yesterday will not again arise. It has passed forever, It has vanished as completely as the doomed cities of Vesuvius. The romance of the first vessel around the "Horn" seemed always to have stayed in the San Francisco that was. You felt the inspiration of the first gold discovery. Maybe something of the same spirit will cling to the ruins to haves the new city, away the "There are some men," said a health officer, "who buy from hotels all their used tea leaves. These they dry, and put on the market again as fresh tea. "As a matter of fact, there is still a good deal of very strong tea-plus a good deal of tannin---in these used leaves. They make as black and bitruins to invest the new city, says the Kansas City Star. But of the old city it was the life. The veneer of eastern manners could not hide it. The great stone buildings, the steel skyscrapers. a good deal of the make as black and bit-leaves. They make as black and bit-ter a brew as the greatest tea fiend would want to drink. But such a brew in unwholescme, for the percentage of made obelsance to it. The mysticism of the orient that dwelt in Chinatown, tannin in it is much larger than in an ordinary cup of tea. "Used tea leaves are very easily did not that, too, come in ships? Did it not form a part of the early days? What were the palaces of art and amusement but a refinement of the early dance halls and of the exubermade to resemble fresh ones. They are dried on hot fron plates, the heat of which curls them up nicely, giving them a very natural appearance. "A cup of this second-table tea reance of unconventional life that came from the seas and the plains?

freshes you tremendously, but after-ward your mouth is drawn up as if you had been sucking alum." The love and the joy of living: the instinct-too buoyant to be the fruit Magnificent trip through the canyon. Go to Billy Wilson's at the Hermitage of conscious effort-to get the most and get a good chicken dinner.

out of life in its passing, was that Parisian? A little, perhaps For of all men the Freechman has the most sophisticated exterior and is most ele-mental underneath—the most responmental underneath—the most respon-sive to natural impulse. But only in that sense was San Francisco the "Paris of the West." It was of the West, Western. The names that made it distinctive, told of quick fortunes gained and lost. You thought through them of the venturesome spirit of '49. Old melodramas, "Nobody's Claim, "The Danites" and "M'liss." seemed not out of place in the streets of the city ablaze with light, vibrant with music and splendid with their throng of gorgeous women.

of gorgeous women, When the new, more regal city when the new more real city arises, one feature of the old will come back with it. The ships from all the seas will glide into the Golden Gate. The forests of masts along the water front will present the old enchantment. front will present the old enchantment. The charm and the power that blow in with the sait smell of waves are in-separable from the place as God has made it and as man adapted it. But the city of remance that as born of discovery and luck: the city in whose blood were the mountains and the place what city has become the Rem. Doull Drug Co., plains, that city has become the Pom-pell of a modern age.

Owl corner, next foor to new Post-Cor. 1st Bo. and Main Sts., "where the cars stop." office. OGDEN AND RETURN, $1.00 Sole Agents. Via D. & R. G. May 6th.

DS [₩] Hous Our West window is filled with a lot of handy things, made especially to help the housewife and make her task easy. It will surprise you to see how many useful and convenient little helps you can get for a small outlay. Take this list for instance, you can get one of each item mentioned and the total cost would be only $18,60. Every article is useful and necessary to a properly furnished home. Ironing Boards Washing Machines Several good kinds, each one the best of Plain or folding-save more time, because of their convenience, than many its kind. Labor Savers and Clothes times their cost.

50c to $2.50 Clothes Bars

GG Some people don't know we carry Nearly every kind you can think of. Several sizes. Fold up out of the way We have some of the best brooms. you ever bought, any size or weight, at when not in use. 10 Standard Prices 75c to $1.50 3 Pastry or Bread Boards 366 Step Ladders Made of fine soft smooth wood-just All sizes. 4 ft. up to 10 ft. here you'll the finest thing out for kneading or find our prices the lowest. We carry cutting dough on. the best. ହାହାହାଓ 40c to $1.50 $2.00 to $5.00 HAT RACKS Feather Dusters Just about anything you can think of in 55 Long and short handles with good these. A lot of new and pretty oneslong feathers. and some good, strong ones for heavy 25c to $2.50 coats, etc. 25c and up 3333 CLOCKS Kitchen Cupboards Big and little, alarm or strike. We have some like your old Grandfather's A number of good ones in different which set on the floor. Really we are proud of our clock showing. We have kinds of wood with plain or glass doors the one you want no matter how much 966 or kitchen safes with bulls eye end for you want to pay. ventilation-$1.00 to $250. $6.00 to $25.00 555 CARPET BEATERS PORCH SHADES Curtain Stretchers Simple little wire affairs yet you can beat New Japanese porch shades. Made of Dry your Curtains perfectly and without a carpet or rug clean in less than half tearing or injuring them. Each $1.50 Bamboo Strips Dyed Green to rest the the time than if a stick is used. You Furniture Polish won't regret the price on one carpet, yet 63 they will last a number of years. Three We carry several of the best kinds and different sizes. . . . 15c, 25c, 35c recommend either as being good-600000 PORCH AND LAWN FURNITURE! JAPANESE CUSHIONS FOR SUMER FURNITURE. If H's summer comfort you're after get some of these for your porch furniture. So soft and comfortable, yet light, alry and cool. The reason we mention them so early is that if you want them 50C you must get them now. They won't last long, Each.....50C පතිතිතිනින 50c and stylish. Ask the salesman to show you a piece WALL

CICARETTE AND TOBACCO HABITS CURED BY TRIB

The price size of the second s

F. C. Schramm, particular day the Bulldogs were holding conclave in order to originate some new and startling twist in basebaliology, to down their rivals, the "Eastside Wildcats,"

Within this sacred haunt Youngster was discovered, calmly oblivious to all sensation produced by his absence from the family group. Almost before he was aware of it, he was hustled home to meet the reproaches

Father and Mother-almost driven to the verge of madness; while the remaining members of the family pleaded with the irate heads to not make Youngster cry lest they spoil him for the picture. Youngster, in turn, pleaded to be let out of the picture, altogether

"It isn't necessary," he wailed; "and I'd heaps rather be in the cave than on cardboard.'

"We'd be only too glad to let you out" if we could," said his mother hurriedly throwing his clothes upon him: "but you're in the family and have to line up with the rest.'

The family sallied forth to have its picture taken. Clothed in its right mind? It is left with the reader to On starting out, Youngster reguess. belled.

"Gee Whilikens!" he grumbled, "de we all have to go over there in a bunch?

"No: it is not necessary; we're only too glad to get rid to you," said mother with withering alacrity. "You're disgrace to the family, anyway; take the valise and go the back way."

HE interest aroused by the preparations for the Jamestown

Exposition in the colonial history of Virginia and the suggestion that has been made by the recently-organized Pocahontas society, that a day be set apart during the exposition as Pocahontas day, give particular timeliness to the delightfullywritten monograph on "Pocahontas and other Colonial Dames of Virginia,' recently prepared by Robert S. Bright, the well known attorney-at-law, of Philadelphia, and read before the Senoca Chapter of the Daughters of the fascinating idyl of this colonial dame of the Indian race (the daughter of the Indian ruler on the James,) it gives charming gilmpses into the lives of some of the colonial dames of the English-of Ellinor, the daughter of Gov. White, of Roanoke Island, and of his little granddaughter, Virginia Dare, the first, English child born in America; of Miss Burwell, who came near to breaking the heart of Gov, Francis Nichol-son when she refused his hand; of Catherine Willis, the wife of Achille Murat, who had the unique distinction of being the niece of both Washington and Napoleon, and of Mary Ball, the mother of Washington.

and of Mary Ball, the American Revolution at Geneva, N. Y. says the Baltimore American. While the paper deals especially with the ever-

LIFE STORY OF POCAHONTAS

Jamestown Exposition Arouses New Interest on Subject.

1617.

Stanford has bad a great earth-quake and it has caused to kill many. I have wrote a letter to my brother and to my sister and asked them if

Dear -----: I have received your let-

April 17, 1996. Ogden, Utah.

guard his own house.

Little Jap: 5

"If I am ever called upon to have

One or two more hitches before the

"I hope you won't, Mother,"

"Oh, I wish I were a statuary!"

. . .

A San Francisco a short time ago to be placed in his keeping. Failing to YOUNG Japanese lad landed in they were hert. It is terrible thing to have such thing as a earth-quake. You might think that it is time that you ought to get a letter from me but I did not received your letter but few days ago. I was waiting for a letter from you and at last I got one from

I knew it that it was from you before l opened the letter.

You need not send me the manual training plan for I do not need it. The school I am now going to is Central School. It is a small school, and we have two grades in one class. The room of the school is about half of our room in Salt Lake If your sister wants one of my ple-ture tell her I will send it in the hext etter. How are you and every body else?

I am now learning how to use typewriter now,

All the schools in Ogden had a p'rade and our School beat them in marching and uniforms.

I am glad to hear that the Lafayette beat the Oquirr in baseball.

I will now close this letter and a special love to you and your sister. Yours truly Goodbye

I have changed my address, so please be careful about it

I have made many mistakes. LADY BABBIE.

The daughter of Emperor Powhatan, of what is now Virginia, Pocahontas, who was destined to save the nucleus of the greatest republic on earth, was a royal princess." Mr. Bright writes. "No tablets and tombs attest the deeds and greatness of her line . . . Poca-nontas, Amonate and Matoax (for she had three names) was born at Wero-wacomoco, the capital of her father's empire, probably in 1595; married John Rolfe, one of the first Virginia settlers and an English gentleman, in March.

17, leaving one son, the known acts her life are few, but the scant frame holds a picture of rare beauty.

THE CAPTURE OF SMITH.

After speaking of the spirit of daring and adventure that were characteristic of the times, and of Capt. John Smith's journeyings, which led eventually to Virginia. Mr. Bright tells the story of the captain's capture by a band of or the capture scapture by a band of Indians and his being carried before the Emperor Powhatan, "a tall, gaunt old man with a sour look," whose flery spirit was unsubdued by the "menace of years," and 'whose idea of justice was condemnation first and trial after ward. And here the civilized world first met Pocahontas, who, when Smith about to be brained, had his head forced stands like an antlered stag, wild and attentive. TWO RACES JOINED.

"The day is warm, the windows of the church are open and the balmy breeze from the James nervously stirs plume and blossom just enough to give some morement to the picture of color and becaute The and picture of color and beauty. The voice of the old divine, as he invokes God's blessing on the union, lingers with the hushed assembly, and the Indian maiden, on the arm of her English lord, gracefully withdraws. The wedding guests follow to the church green, where among the violets and buttercups a feast is spread, and the gay assemblage in mirth and jollity on-joy the beauty of the scene until dispersed by a violent thunderstorm, har-binger of the stormy scenes that were to rend further apart the two races which this union sought to bring together.

"The rest of the well-known story of "The rest of the well-known story of the life of the Rolfes in this country for the next three years, of their visit to England, and of their reception at court and the immediate popularity of the Lady Rebecca, and of her death when but scarcely 22, as she was on the eve of returning to her own country, is told with scantible symmetry told with genuine sympathy. "Burled in the parish church at Gravesend, which was afterward burnt, ber grave today is unmarked and un-known. She left one son," the writer continues. "Themas Rolfe, who was educated in London, married a young English lady, and removed to Virginia, where he became a gentleman of note and fortune, commanding, as Lieut. and fortune, commanding, as Lieut, Rolfe. Some of Virginia's most respect-Rolfe. Rolle. Some of Virginia's most respect-able families are descended from him. John Randolph of Roanoke, proud of the fact that he came of a race that never forgot Fort James, on the Chick-ahominy river, or forgave an injury, was sixth in descent from Pocahontas through Jane Rolfe, her granddaugh-ter.

MEANING OF THE NAME.

"Pocabonias, meaning in the Indian tongue 'Bright Stream between Two Hills,' was a name uniquely appropri-ate for the gracious little woodland princess who held the scales between the bold, resourceful soldier of the Eliz-obsthen age been for the computer's adabethan age, keen for his country's ad-

Muffins that Fairly Melt in Your Mouth

Just the thing to tempt the appetite for breakfast, luncheon or supper. Light and dainty-with a flavor beyond compare. Made with

Carnation Cream

(Sterilized)

Nothing but puremilk and cream, minus the germs and water. Its high percentage of butter-fat gives to cooking that much desired richness and savoriness.

BBB

Carnation Muffins

pint four. 1 egg, 1 tablespeenful sugar. e full teaspeet baking powder. Dilute resugh Carration Cream wit al amount of water to make a batter when added. Sait 1 down upon two stones, ran in tears and took it in her arms, laying her own a amount of water to make a batter when a Pour into hot muffin tin which Pas been bake in a guick area. Try with a broom a is out dry, they are done.

upon his to save him from death. The tears of his favorite child softened the heart of the emperor, and he relented. Instead of death the chevaller of the