The house was packed and much discussion was visible on all sides and there was a disposition to view the defeat of the government as more serious than it was generally recognized in the early hours this morning. Immediately after the house had assembled, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the Liberal leader, moved his adjournment, declaring that it would be unseemly under the circumstances to proceed with business while the government was giving way to wireless telegraph early today. CHARITIES AND CORRECTIONS

Closing Day of the Conference a Very Busy One.

Portland, Ore., July 21.—The closing day of the conference of delegates and correspondents found scarcely any failing off in the attendance and none in the enthusiasm. Resisting all temptation to spend the last hours of the stay in Portland in sightseeing or exploring the exposition the delegates transplanted a busy business as great or greater than the busier days that have preceded "Public Interest Day" was the subject before the general session. The report of the committee by Chairman George S. Wilson, was followed by the address of Sherman C. Kingsley, superintendent of the Chicago Relief and Aid society, on "Public Dependents and the Future," and a lively discussion upon the duties of the states toward their dependents. He cited the many shortcomings of the usual state institution in the treatment of unfortunate and delinquent children in what manner this evil should be corrected. His address was appropriately followed by that of Harry McCormack, secretary to the county of Cook county, Ill., who advocated in strong terms remedial legislation for certain classes of dependent persons.
