

WOULD COST A GREAT FORTUNE.

Cheaper to Buy Beer Than to Install Nichol's Liberty Park Wells Pumping Plant.

EXPENSE OF WATER ENORMOUS

Says He Makes Offer Because He Wants To Make Money—Option on East Jordan Water.

Figures were brought out before the special water committee of the city council last evening in regard to the cost of pumping water from the Liberty park wells and springs into the city's system, which certainly should put such a scheme out of commission for many years to come. It was shown by calculations made by City Engineer Riter and Asst. Engineer Bacon that 1,000,000 gallons of water at the price asked for the water in the proposition made by G. H. Nichols, who wants to install a pumping plant in the park and furnish the city with water, would be 10 times greater than the cost of 1,000,000 gallons of water secured by the Big Cottonwood scheme. A million gallons of water under the proposed Big Cottonwood scheme will cost approximately $2000, while the total cost of 1,000,000 gallons of water under the Nichols scheme would be $20,000 according to the figures of the engineer.

NICHOLS' WILD SCHEME.

Mr. Nichols proposes to install a plant and pump the water from the Liberty park wells and springs into the city's system at a cost to the city of 30 cents per 100 gallons. He guarantees to have water in the city within 30 days after the date the contract is signed and to sell his plant to the city when it desires for $50,000. He also guarantees to furnish the city with water at a price of 30 cents per 100 gallons of water per day. Mr. Nichols was present at the meeting of the committee and was put under a fire of questions from the councilmen which at times made merry and at others quite freely. He said that he submitted his proposition as a business matter and not from philanthropic motives. He wanted to make money and at the same time furnish the city with water which was badly needed at present. He considered his scheme much cheaper than the present cost of water to the city.

"BETTER" OFFER COMING.

After a lengthy discussion of the matter he concluded that he could make a better proposition to the city and said that he would do so on next Monday night. Accordingly the committee took no action on his first proposition.

EXPERTS TAKE ISSUE.

Perenstrom, Mc.Doremus, consulting engineer on the water scheme, and several others took issue with Mr. Nichols in regard to his scheme being cheaper than the present cost of water to the city under the Big Cottonwood scheme. It was shown that the present cost of water is 14 cents per thousand gallons and that Mr. Nichols proposes to charge the city 30 cents per thousand gallons. The engineers also took issue with Mr. Nichols in his statement that the wells would produce from $30,000 to $50,000 gallons daily and stated that according to measurements taken over the wells were bored the flow would not average more than 2,000 gallons per day. On the matter of cost Perenstrom showed that the present price from the city's water users amounted to $125,000 per year and that if Mr. Nichols' scheme was put into effect the city would either have to triple its rates to consumers or levy a special tax of about 4 mills to meet the deficiency in the waterworks fund. He showed that the cost of the $20,000 per year above all expenses out of the waterworks system.

OLD AND OBT REJECTED.

The statement of Mr. Doremus, who was city engineer at the time the wells were bored, was very conclusive in regard to the unprofitability of using the Liberty park water in the city's system. He said in part: "When it comes out with the statement that always been found too expensive a proposition and we could get a supply of water from almost any other source much cheaper. Every once in a while somebody makes a discovery of these artesian wells in Liberty park and comes out with the statement that they produce 10,000 gallons daily and advance some scheme to put that water into the city's system. This is not a new one at all. The utilization of the water has been discussed for years and always with the same result, namely, that the cost was found to be too great."

WHAT MAY BE DONE.

"I predict that these wells will never be utilized by pumping into the present system as proposed by Mr. Nichols. In my opinion the only way to utilize these wells is to cut out a section in that particular neighborhood and install a small pump and just supply water to that small territory, and not attempt to pump that water to an elevation of 200 feet, and mingle it with the other water in the city's system. You can fix up the Liberty park wells and run them at a very small cost, and let it run into the city by gravity, and you can fix it up quicker than it can be fixed up by any other means. I believe that the city should allow the superintendent of waterworks to develop the water supply in that canyon."

EMIGRATION THE PLACE.

Tuition was of the opinion that the city is looking for immediate relief on the water question. He favored buying the plant from Mr. Nichols provided he could demonstrate that there was 250,000 gallons of water flowing from the Liberty park wells. He thought the city should have the water at once, no matter what the cost would be. Perenstrom assured the councilmen that there would be no trouble over the water question next year as the Big Cottonwood scheme was being pushed forward.

EAST TEMPLE PAVING.

The streets committee last night briefly considered the protests of property owners against paving East Temple street from Fourth to Ninth south street with asphalt. Some of the protesters wanted the district from Sixth to Ninth south cut out of the improvement, while others suggested that the width of the paving be reduced between Fifth and Ninth south streets, and that a bed of macadam six inches in depth with a top dressing of three inches of asphaltum be used. This would reduce the cost to $6 per front foot while the original plan would cost $10 per front foot. Any changes of this nature would necessitate the cost of readjusting the improvement. Owing to the absence of several members of the committee no action was taken in the matter but it will be considered again next Wednesday evening.

Quarters Fitted Up in New Armory by Colonel Geoghegan.

A library for National Guard headquarters is being built at the armory in Salt Lake. It is to be complete, especially with military papers and documents so that a soldier in his leisure hours about headquarters, may become acquainted with all available information about military service in America. A sunny room has been selected for the library and shelving has already been installed. A copy of war department papers on hand have been placed there for reference. The room adjoins the splendid new drill hall at the west end of the armory. A new elevator is being erected, connecting with the basement where the guns are located. It is large enough to allow a fleet of fully set up to be hoisted upon it for transfer to the ground floor or back. Capt. ERIN'S WOE.

(salutation to the Hon. W. H. K. Redmond, M.P., by an Irish Mormon.)

Again the voice of liberty
Is heard o'er earth's exalted plains,
And Erin wails in slavery's chains,
And seeks to break the galling chains
They may be strong as time itself hand
Which hurra to dust the strongest
But still a spirit floods the land,
Wild in unconquerable power.

Bright beams have risen up whose light
Gleams o'er the storm-tossed western
And lifted is an arm of might
Our bleeding native life to save.
O shall a tyrant's lash be laid
On the people's neck the tyrant's heel,
And sorrow's hand the annals trace
Of those who rather die than kneel?

Dear Erin, history's hand shall write
A brilliant chapter in thy life,
And glory crown the night.
The darkness night of slavery,
Thou rise the national and unshorn
A million swords to guard its fame.
Let Freedom have another wealth
And tyranny be bowed in shame.

MONTANA WOOL.

Advices Report That it is in Big Demand on the Boston Market.

In a long article on the wool market, the Boston Transcript of Aug. 24 says of Montana wools:

"Montana wools are arriving freely, are being shown and have the call so far as territory wool is concerned. What has not been disposed of previous to arrival is being absorbed steadily. The other kinds of territory wool are also moving freely, and transfers of Texas and California wool have been relatively large. In these wools the heaviest movement has been in medium grades and several million pounds of these are included in the week's business."

"Nearly all of the week's traffic in Montana wools has been in supplies in the original bales. The prices paid have been 27 and 28 cents on most of the transactions. Nothing, it is said, has been sold at less than 27 cents and in a few cases better than 28 cents has been obtained. The source of cost is not stated. It is certainly not under 70 cents, and according to good authorities, and in all probability is a good deal more. Sales of other kinds of territory wool have included Idaho and Wyoming in good-sized quantities at 24 cents for medium. Strictly fine clothing territory has been taken at a source cost of 35 cents in some instances and nothing has been bought at less than 35 cents. In fine medium business is at near the basis of 72 cents than 70 cents. Holders of half blooded stock in the territory are of customers willing to buy on the basis of 70 cents cash."

In summarizing the week's shipments, the Transcript says:

"The shipments for the week ended and including Aug. 23, 1905, are therefore 4,401,427 pounds less than the receipts for the same period. The aggregate of wools since Jan. 1, 1905, is 109,940,936 pounds larger than the shipments for the same period."

Richard Meagher Dead.

Herold Reporter Passes Away at the Hospital from Bright's Disease.

Richard Meagher, who for the past year has been a reporter on the Herald, doing the City and County building run for that paper, died at St. Mark's hospital at 4:30 this morning where he was taken a week ago suffering from Bright's disease.

Mr. Meagher was 56 years of age and a native of Maine. In his youth he was apprenticed to the printing trade, but later left that business to become a reporter on an eastern paper. For a number of years he was connected with the Kansas City Journal where he served in different capacities including the position of city editor. From Kansas City he went south and later to the Pacific coast, coming from there here a year ago. Mr. Meagher has many friends in this city, who will regret to hear of his demise.

The funeral will probably be held Sunday at the time and place to be announced later.

EVERY FORMER SALES RECORD BEATEN YESTESDAY

Many Grand Instruments Sacrificed At the Carstensen & Anson Co.'s Piano Sale.

Prices And Terms Such That Nearly Every Reader of This Paper Can Own a Piano.

Yesterday was truly a remarkable day with us in many respects. The sales record reached the highest mark in the history of the company and all indications point to an even greater number of closed contracts today.

The response to our publicity has outstripped our most sanguine expectations. Few, indeed, of the many purchasers who have visited this store, but have expressed an open commendation of our straightforwardness in throwing this elegant stock open to purchase at such remarkably low prices. Remember, this is not a stock collected from here, there and everywhere for the express purpose of a sale, but the regular showing of standard instruments—including the first few carloads of our purchases for fall trade.

When it is considered that the buying public can select from among this showing of fine instruments at will, it is any wonder that the store was comfortably filled with purchasers yesterday, and will be quite full in the evening? We will use every endeavor to wait upon you promptly, but we beg a little consideration if a salesman is not at your service immediately upon entering. We are now arranging for extra salesmen, and hope to be able to give prompt service to the many who call here daily.

Owing to a peculiar combination of locations, permit us to call your attention to our exact place of business, in order to avoid confusion; just north of the McCracken bank building on the west side of Main street.

We would ask you to call today if you can arrange to, as some exceptionally choice instruments will be placed on sale at discounts ranging from 10 to 60 per cent. Indeed, there are such some fine bargains in high grade instruments to be had—especially on the easy terms of sale that we have inaugurated within the week. Indeed, it must surely be a lack of comprehension or an inability to understand plain values, that would cause hesitancy at the purchase of any of these offerings. It is for you to know, in case, to understand the full import of this sale that we reiterate our advice—come today.

To you it means a broad economy in securing an instrument that will please and last a lifetime. It means that not alone the purchase price but the initial and subsequent payments will be of a figure that you would hardly miss—easily afforded.

Again we repeat, come today. For some of the uprights that have had some slight use are marked as low as $49—and there's a hundred old bar-ains awaiting you.
