

DESERET EVENING NEWS.

Wednesday, August 31, 1892.

SALT LAKE STAKE CONFERENCE.

The Semi-annual Conference of the Salt Lake Stake of Zion will convene in the Assembly Hall, Salt Lake City, on Saturday, September 3d, 1892. Meetings will be held as follows: Saturday at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m., and Sunday at 10 a.m., 2 p.m., and 3 p.m.

A general assembly of the priesthood and people is desired.

The Stake organizations of the Relief Society, Sabbath Schools, Young Men's and Young Ladies' Mutual Improvement Associations, and the Primary organizations are requested to have their reports ready in time for the Conference.

ANGUS C. MCANISTER,
JOSEPH E. TAYLOR,
CHARLES W. PEARSON,
Stake Presidency.

FRAGMENTS.

Notes ministering among us.

The stewardship of the Salt Lake Stake has been submitted to the Stake Council for consideration.

Several services of Mrs. Allen Miller will take place in the Townhall Hall, 11th and Main Streets, on Saturday at 2 o'clock, P.M. Friends are invited.

The Utah World's Fair examinations are now over and from estimates for the duration of the fair it is expected that about $12,000 will be received.

No bids from Salt Lake contractors have been received. Most of those to hand are from Chicago.

Arrangements of transportation of the Westward-bound companies have been filed with Secretary St. George.

There was an exciting runaway on Fifth East street last night. A motor-car, driven by a man, and carrying three young children was being driven in a southerly direction when the horse became uncontrollable and dashed away. The car was stopped by Mr. Bert Fox, without any damage being done. The occupants of the vehicle were badly frightened.

The stockholders of the Great Miners Company met yesterday and elected a new board of directors. The board made Edward Weston president, James Thompson vice-president, W. H. Thompson, and others members.

The company will commence taking out ore at once and is good reason to believe that the company will be a great property. At least, so any one who has been over it said through it has away.

This remains of the nineteen miners and their dependents, John Q. and Anna Wallace, of Ogallala, and at the family residence at that time. Monday of several miners, including the two miners attached to the number 100 passenger train this morning. The bereaved parents and a number of relatives and friends were present when the body was conveyed directly to the city cemetery, where half services were held, consisting of appropriate readings by Bishop W. H. Williams and appropriate vocal selections by a male quartet composed of Messrs. Spencer, Fyger, James and Dunbar. The tiny casket and grave were covered with a white, a profusion of beautiful floral tributes.

A LADY named Martin was called at the police station this morning and informed his intention to sue over an amount of $1,000 which she alleged had been taken by her husband. She stated that he had been taken by her husband, who was charged with having taken $1,000, which was to secure him a situation as salt gatherer. On his arrival at the salt field he was found there, and according to his story he had been paid and accordingly came back and demanded the return of his money. The man refused to give his demands and threatened to sue him for damages. He was told that the only way he could recover his money was by instituting a civil suit.

Court News of Today.

In the case of Bailey & Sons v. S. W. Scott, tried in Justice Hall's court, where judgment was rendered for the plaintiff for $357 and costs, judgment accordingly has been entered in the Third District court.

The case of H. B. Price and H. N. Moore charged with keeping open the doors of the Statute Room come before Commissioner Norrell this morning, but has been continued until tomorrow at 2 p.m.

The Territorial Supreme Court will convene tomorrow. Ten o'clock is the hour set.

THE PARSONS RESIGNATION.

Captain Greenman says that he will not enter the race.

Nothing new is known with regard to the called-for resignation of United States Marshal Parsons, as reported in yesterday's news. Last evening the Marshal received another telegram from Washington, but it simply called upon him to forward his resignation by mail, and intimated that it should take effect immediately upon the receipt of the telegram.

Several more names as candidates have been introduced in a gossipy sort of way, among them those of Mr. J. A. Heron, an attorney from New York, who is the current thing for a man's name to be paraded before the public in a newspaper, in such a way, unless there is some sort of foundation for believing that he has an intention of becoming a candidate for any special office.

This morning Marshal Parsons had a lengthy interview with his legal adviser, Judge John C. Black, and after the interview he wired to the marshal in the telegraph office:

"The majority of the deputes appear to think that the chances of the services being stained are of a slender kind."

IT IS DISCREDITED.

A Rumor Circulated Affecting Judges Anderson and Blackburn.

THE FORMER INTERVIEWED.

He Gives a "No" Represents His Creditable Opinion of the Rater.

"It is said on reliable authority that Marshal Parsons will have company when he steps down and can from his high office into the crowded life of the established firms. They are Judges Anderson and Blackburn, the former a Cleveland appointee and the latter a nomination of President Harrison."

The foregoing appeared in a local newspaper last evening, but considerable disrepute seemed to prevail in legal circles as to the genuineness of the statement.

When approached by the Court reporter of the News this morning Judge Anderson was seated at his desk, in the Judge's private room in the City building, occupied in the preparation of Supreme Court opinions.

His attention was directed to the paragraph quoted above, and he said:

"It was a great surprise to me," he added voluntarily, "I have had no notice whatever of anything of the kind, and never heard a word about it until I read it in the paper this morning. I have not received the slightest intimation of such a thing from the Department at Washington or from any other official source." "You don't know whether it is true?" he asked. "I am afraid there is any truth at all in the rumor, and everyone to whom I have spoken on the subject has expressed the same opinion."

"Will you comment for a statement that is likely to print?" inquired the reporter.

"No, I am at a loss to do so," replied the judge, "but I am a member of the bar, and a member of the bar is entitled to say what he has in his mind."

Of course, his views are all his own, but the reporter asked him if he had any objection to his name being mentioned in the article.

"I am a member of the Democratic party, and while I might be thought frivolous for a man to speak so much time and thought as he has evidently devoted to the details of these for man does not seem to be a sufficient basis for his reasoning and action based upon them are valuable."

"Of course, his views are all his own, but the reporter asked him if he had any objection to his name being mentioned in the article.

"I am a member of the Democratic party, and while I might be thought frivolous for a man to speak so much time and thought as he has evidently devoted to the details of these for man does not seem to be a sufficient basis for his reasoning and action based upon them are valuable."

Judge Anderson expressed himself fully unconcerned, but said that he regarded the intelligence as very thin.

"Judge Blackburn is named in connection with yourself," remarked the reporter, "is that true?"

"Do you have any objection to his name being mentioned for the reference to him?" was asked.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."

Anderson showed the reporter the names of the bar to be in unison with his own.

Judge Anderson replied that he certainly did not, and said, "You know just as much about it as I do."