the Emery County Progress that he has established his headquarters in Joe's valley, pitching his tent in the north-east corner of Peter Johansen's pasture. There he will remain to receive applications for the various privileges the reserve affords until the last days of this month, when all the rangers leave the reserve until some time next spring. Applicants for firewood and slabs should take advantage of the re-maining days of this month to supply themselves with their needs in this line. Although several applications for lum-ber are pending, no permits have been issued this season so far for any in Mr. Bench's district, which is one of the best timbered on the reserve. Appreciating the fact that this has caused a great hardship and extreme annoyance in many instances, he states that the people generally have cheerfully ac-quiesced in the rules and regulations of the department and treated the rangers courtously
