1 Man Run Over by a Coal Wagon and Badly Crushed.

got INJURED BY A HORSE'S FALL.

1 Young Girl Kills Four Cows With a Link-as-Easy Cough—Station Rd.

The merchants of Casper, Wyo., have formed a committee whereby they will not open their doors to customers on the Sabbath.

A small pistol was called Jackson, and Evans, who is a young boy, had just bought a pistol with a gun of capes on Friday night.
While preparing to retire for the night, he was startled by the hideous yell of the stage driver, who had just attempted to kill a young girl in the rear of the house. Miss Evans, who is but 17 years of age, seized a club and commenced a raid on the uninvited guests. She succeeded in killing three of the drivers and cutting the balance of the band to flight.

Wheatland, Wyo., Wario Lee sheep, son of Mr. Henry Aune, was in a painful accident Sunday, which will keep him within doors for some time. While crossing the Bigelow or horseback his horse slipped on the ice and fell, and Lee suffered a severe contusion of his body.
The boy's collar bone was thrown out of place, the bones of one ankle dislocated and he was otherwise badly bruised.
Misses Bessie and Betty were also present and brought him to the hospital, where the wounds were treated by Dr. Clark, who reports his patient progressing nicely.

The quiet and peaceful town of Rawlton, Wyo., was shocked when it was learned that John Tribble, a village blacksmith, estate 19 years old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Tribble, and Jeanie, the youngest daughter of Mr.
Edward Gifford, had shopped. The young man had not been paying attention to the young girl, and his father would be most surprised if he had known of the transaction. This young man, who dressed in his best to go to the Gifford home and the two were decided to stop and go to San Francisco and get married. The girl took with her $50, and the mother upon missing the son became desperate and notified the police.

Archie Z. Veltz, who owns a fine team about which he has been talking, Wyo., who is industriously spending his time working in the Glendo coal mine during the winter months, met with a serious accident on Monday.
While working in the mine a large rock fell from above and from itself to sixteen inches thick suddenly gave way and fell towards him, knocking him down and partially covering him. It required the united efforts of four men to extricate him and remove the rock, but he was able to get up and walk home a weakened.
Why he was hit crushed is a mystery.
He is barely buried but no bones are broken and he expects to be up and around again in a few days.

About 8 o'clock Saturday night at Weston, Wyo., a mail train for Tet City, Colo., was held up in the spot by a masked man and the content of the cars, amounting to about $1000, was taken. The train got off the track and the robbers made their way westward through the mountains until they came to the office and commenced the assault at the point of a revolver to throw up his hands. He then went through the safe, after which he compelled the mail carrier to make up a bag and fill it with dishes. He suddenly disappeared in the darkness. The robber is described as about 5 ft 10 in height and weighing about 160 pounds. He wore blue clothes, with a red bandana and a black hat. He was wearing dark blue pants and a red and white handkerchief. This is the second hold-up of this kind that has occurred at the depot. The other one was Oct. 26, last, when the robber got away with about $60.

Lander, Wyo., Citizen: Charles Lyman, who lives on the Indiana creek, four miles below this city on the P. & P. River, was run over by a coal wagon loaded with 7,000 pounds of coal at an early hour Friday morning, while walking home from work. He was severely injured and is now in a coma. It appears that Charles came to town and was driving motor or less during the night, starting east bound, going toward Fort Washington, about noon yesterday morning, but being fatigued, stopped to rest in Lander. He then went to sleep. When he awoke light Ed. Pope was on his way to the Baptist agency with his immo-bile team, being gentle gave it a few strokes to disengage the team from the mire, when the wheels passed over him. Both legs were slightly crushed, the shattered bone penetrating through the skin and bleeding profusely. He was rapidly carried to the Fort Wash. hospital, where he was found to be in a critical condition, but with a good chance for recovery.
It is said that the outcome will be dependent upon the saving of both legs will undoubtedly be necessary.

Man's Bitter End.
"He is always man's bitter enemy," writes Dwight L. Moody in "Mr. Moody's Bible Class" in the Lakewood Home Journal. "It separates him from his Maker. It separates him from his fellow beings. No position is too high for it to debase; no place so low that it seeks to corrupt; no home so base that it seeks to destroy. Man like hollow wood, like rotten fruit, is distinguished only by the mass of the thousands of microbes which have covered every part of his body. It is the curse of the world, which makes a man loathe himself. It is sin which makes man's life become a burden from which he often sees no freedom by his own effort."

Origin of the Redheads.
The use of the name reddish for women is traced in the time of Anna of Bohemia, eldest daughter of the emperor of Germany, who married Richard II of England. Previous to this date all English women bore their names in the German, but on account of a family feud German bride was forced to use a new name, and the nation became general.—Pittsburg Dispatch.
