EUREKA SOCIAL.

On Wednesday, in the Salt Lake Temple, the marriage of Miss Blanche C. Whitehead to Mr. Orrin W. Spahn, two popular young people of Eureka, took place. The affair was very quiet, as the most intimate friends of the young people knew nothing of their intention when they left for Salt Lake on the afternoon train Tuesday, and the marriage was not made public until a few days later. Mr. and Mrs. Spahn are now spending their honeymoon among friends and this city within a couple of weeks to take up their residence, being at home to their friends after Dec. 10. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. James B. Whitehead and one of the most popular.

MINK SET IN STRAP EFFECT.

A very practical suggestion for the utilizing of old furs is the arrangement of fur in narrow strips, like ribbon strapings. Over a muff of shirred silk, the fur strips, smoothly lined, are laid loosely; a few stitches holding them in place at the top. The shoulder cape is made in the same manner, passementerie forming a rich alternating material.

escort him to the club. When Santa comes in all shall rise, and the president will say:

"Greeting, Santa Claus; the boys await you."

Santa may reply, "Greeting, my children."

Then Santa passes out the presents. It is best for the boys to form a line, and for Santa to reach in the bag with-out looking and pull out the first thing that comes to his hand. The last present in the bag is Santa Claus. A good deal of amusement can be had at the party if a committee of five boys is chosen to look after the entertainment. A good plan is to get up near one end of the room, about five feet from the wall. Behind the sheet, close to the wall and low down, is placed a strong light. The knights and others who are to be the audience all sit in front, and when everything is ready all lights except the one behind the sheet are put out. The boys who are to make the shadow pictures then go between the light and the sheet and cut up all sorts of antics, throwing large shadows on the sheet. If there is a boy who can make odd shadow pictures with his hands he can amuse the club for some time.

Another thing that makes fun at a Santa Claus party may be called the "boy orator." A large pair of boots is provided, and the boy orator puts his arms in these and stands back of a table, so that his booted arms may look like a pair of short legs and he appears to be a funny little man standing on the table. Another boy stands behind him, and puts his arms through the gestures while the orator delivers his speech. This can be made very funny if the orator learns a good speech and if the boy who makes the gestures waves his arms and makes very bad and inappropriate gestures. It is especially trying for the orator if the gesturer holds a handkerchief in his hands and waves it in triumph at inappropriate times.

If you have heard your father admire a verse in a magazine or a paragraph from a stirring speech, cut it out and mount it on a map of birch-bark or green Bristol-board and hang it over his desk or chair.

For a girl-friend cover a note-paper bag with crepe paper and tie it with ribbons and paper flowers of the same shade. Fill it with rudge. A box covered with violet paper and trimmed with violets of a deeper shade would be lovely.

The girl who cannot cook, or sew, or embroider, I'm sorry for. But her case isn't hopeless, by any means. Perhaps you know some one who is a chaffing-dish devotee. If you do, save up all the good chaffing-dish recipes you can find, write them out plainly, or have them type-written on heavy white paper, leaving some blank pages for later additions; then bind them together with a serviceable cover of rough gray or brown paper, which may be bought at any stationer's.

If you know of a shop where beads are sold you may make some fascinating strings of beads. One beautiful string I once saw was made of round green beads, of good size, strung with oblong black beads, which were roughly banded with iridescent gold and peacock colors. The string was about 16 inches long, and the clasp was gold plated and cost 19 cents.

If you are deft enough with your fingers to passpartie pictures neatly you have a wonderful opportunity, for the magazines are full of splendid reproductions, both in black and white and in color, well worth preserving. Some of the art magazines have especially good things. In some of the Japanese shops one can get prints for ten cents each, and though many of them are very crude and ugly, you will occasionally find a delicate "Fujiyama" or a clever illustration of some Japanese fairy-tale that is worth keeping, and looks surprisingly well under glass with the passe-partout finish.

A little fernery that will delight the person who receives it can be easily made from two crescents of birch-bark faced together with light green baby ribbon. Make loops of the ribbon by which it may be hung, and the day before Christmas fill your "cane" with moist earth, plant in it a tiny asparagus fern, and cover with a wider leaf. These may be bought for five cents each, and will keep fresh for weeks if moistened with a few drops of water each day.

CAN ONE BE RICH? YES, IF HE WORKS

"Is it true that anyone can become rich in this country?" The answer: "While there are many in this country who are rich, and who have become rich as the result of their own labor and saving, there are also many more who are poor, and who always will be poor. The possibility of becoming rich is open to all, but that condition will come only as the result of labor and industry and habits of economy. It is therefore dependent upon yourself and on no one else whether you become rich or continue poor."

This exclusive information is contained in a pamphlet issued in thirteen foreign languages by the United States immigration department and being distributed to foreigners in Cleveland by George R. Cullen, inspector in charge of the local immigration bureau.

The pamphlet contains eight pages and gives a quantity of information useful to newly arrived immigrants. It is desired that the newcomers get an accurate idea of America and its customs, and that false impressions be eradicated.

The religious of the country are also explained and the fact impressed that there is no state church and that all may worship as they please. It is maintained that children can secure better education in America than in the old lands. The methods of governing the states and the nation are set forth together with the part played by the voter in the selection of officials.

MOSLEM BELIEF IN JINN.

Mohammedans believe implicitly in the participation of spirits (Jinn), both good and evil, in most of the concerns of daily human life, explaining that Jinn become visible or invisible at will, either by rapid extension or retraction, and consequent diminution of the particles of which they are composed, and that good Jinn are immediately recognized by their resplendent beauty, the bad ones being correspondingly hideous and shocking. Many cultivated Mohammedans even in this twentieth century profess not only to have seen Jinn, but also to have held converse with them, and to possess certain talismans by which the services of good Jinn may be secured as well as formulae by which bad ones can be put to confusion.

Constant endeavors are made, except during the feast of Ramadan, when all evil spirits are supposed to be kept in strict bondage in the bowels of the earth by daily sprinkling the floors of rooms, especially empty ones, with salt or iron filings, for which bad Jinn are considered to have special aversion, to insure their exclusion from the dwelling place of the "sons of the faithful."

GRAY CARACUL AND SQUIRREL FUR.

The soft caracul cloth, which comes by the yard, is a very desirable fabric for little folks' winter wear. The inter or is warm, yet not heavy, and has the delightful "furry" feeling dear to childish hearts. Caracul cloth is so wide that a very small quantity will make a child's coat. With the silvery gray caracul cloth, gray squirrel is a particularly pretty and quite inexpensive fur.

The favorite abiding-places of Jinn are supposed to be empty houses, cross roads, baths, any uncovered jugs or basins or food receptacles and yawning mouths. So good Moslems not only lock their doors when obliged to leave their houses, but besprinkle and cover up in so far as they can every article of domestic use whose emptiness would tempt a roving evil spirit to enter into possession, besides making use of the special prayers ordered by the Koran to keep such visitants at bay.

The words "I seek refuge with God from Satan, the stoned," or "In the name of God the compassionate, the merciful, are constantly upon the lips of Moslems, for without previous pious ejaculations of the kind to dissipate evil presences they dare not undertake even the most ordinary business of their life, neither enter nor leave a house, meet with or part from a friend, partake of a meal, commence or complete any commercial matter, or journey, take a bath nor even kill any animal for food, lest the bad Jinn take possession of the life essences and work mischief or destruction upon the sac-

CLEVER CRABS.

The tree crab of the South Sea islands is akin to the hermit crab, but it is larger and it has its hind quarters sheathed in a shell. It is also known as the palm crab, because it climbs the coconut palm and picks the fruit, which it nips off close to the stem. It always takes care to choose a palm tree with plenty of stones at the foot, so that the coconut may be broken by the fall. When the natives see that a crab is in a tree they tie a ruff of grass around the trunk. When the crab comes down again he is upset by the grass, and falls heavily to the ground, where he lies stunned. He is then killed with a stone axe, his nippers are tied together and he is slung upon a spear to be carried to camp. The South Sea Islanders roast the palm crab between two flat stones and consider the flesh a great delicacy—London Illustrated News.

What Does Your Mirror Say?

Does it cheerfully report an abundance of beautiful, well kept hair, or does it regretfully tell the story of hair neglect?

Your mirror may be anxious to please, but if you permit your friends to see dull, brittle and lusterless hair with possibly dandruff and falling hair, your mirror will have to reflect the same condition.

All of these unfortunate effects can be overcome by destroying their cause with

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

The Original Remedy that "Kills the Dandruff Germ"

Dandruff, with its consequent hair injury and hair loss, is now known to be a highly contagious germ disease. It is caused by an invisible growth of vegetable character that finds lodgment in the sebaceous glands of the scalp. This growth disturbs the functions of the sebaceous glands, causing excessive oiliness or extreme dryness of the hair. It also sets up an inflammatory process that extends down the follicle to the papilla, where the adhesions are loosened and the hair slips out. The value of Newbro's Herpicide in such cases is quite extraordinary. Its intelligent use will correct every condition short of chronic baldness and thus permit the hair to resume its natural luster and abundance.

MISS EDNA IRVINE

A noted Theatrical Star whose photograph is here reproduced WRITES AS FOLLOWS: "I can most heartily endorse Newbro's Herpicide. It is delightful for the hair and I could not do without it." (Signed) EDNA IRVINE Hotel Westminster, Irvine Place, New York.

More men and women have gotten positive results from the use of NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE than from all other hair remedies combined.

Following are some useful Christmas suggestions made in the December Declinator:

A CHRISTMAS PARTY FOR A BOYS' CLUB.

The biggest boy in the club should provide one present for Santa's bag. The presents should not cost over 5 cents each, while it would be better if each boy should make the present himself. Good things for such presents are bean bags, marbles, bats, shiny sticks, tops, party blowers, jack-in-the-box, soap-bubbles, pipe, jackstones, match-safes, candy, chewing-gum, and so on.

All the presents for the Santa Claus party should be handed to a committee of three knights, whose duty it is to pack them all neatly in Santa Claus' bag. At the time of the party, the member of the club should gather together in the meeting room, and the committee may meet in a room near by with the big boy who is to be Santa Claus. They must dress him up and
