STRICT.—The ordinance relating to nuisances, passed by the City Council last evening, is somewhat strict, though none too much so, in some of its provisions, and we would respectfully call public attention to it, and recommend that all should "read, study and inwardly digest" the fact that any person convicted of fostering any kind of nuisance, detrimental to health, is liable to a severe penalty. Read the ordinance, which appears in another column.

COMING INTO DISREPUTE.—The free-delivery system, adopted by some of our merchants in order to secure custom, is not giving entire satisfaction to customers, they being frequently obliged to wait a day or two before goods, ordered and paid for, are delivered. The delay is doubtless caused by the inability of the merchants to send their delivery wagons to so many different places in a day; and if they would candidly inform customers when they cannot deliver goods immediately, it would save many disappointments.

GRADED.—We learn from a gentleman just in from Tooele, that the grade of the Salt Lake, Sevier Valley, and Pioche Railroad is finished to a point within one mile of Clinton's. There are a number of culverts to make where the track crosses the saleratus beds, but the stone for their construction is on the ground.

It was formerly the intention to lay the track some distance below Tooele city, on the way to Stockton, but it is now determined to have the track run through the town much to the gratification of the inhabitants.

A BIG LAUNDRY.—E. M. Caste, of the Twentieth Ward, has leased his premises there to a couple of gentlemen who will establish a laundry there on a large scale. The lessees are preparing to erect, on the south end of the present building, an addition which will be fitted up with all the new and improved apparatus for carrying on the laundry business on an extensive scale. John Chinaman will have to look to his laurels when this proposed establishment gets agoing, as the proprietors have the reputation of being men of experience in the line. This new laundry will, we learn, is known as the "big water wheel" building. To obviate the possibility of fouling the ditch by refuse water, a huge cesspool is being constructed in which all the filthy water will be absorbed.

CLEAN UP.—If farmers want a good price for their grain they should clean it. Splendid wheat, oats and barley are raised in this Territory, and it is disgraceful to see grain brought into market in such a mixed condition that it might be pronounced as any or none of these three cereals, or it might be called straw. This may be a hyperbolical way of speaking on the subject, but a gentleman went into a grain dealing establishment not long since and, putting his hand into a bin of grain, said, "What do you call this—is it wheat, oats, barley or straw?" The grain had been purchased for barley, but was largely mixed with other cereals, with a considerable sprinkling of straw. Said he with grain, when people buy oats, they are not desirous that they should be necessitated to take a proportion of barley, etc.

Those who are not acquainted with the slovenly way in which some of our farmers prepare their grain and send it to market, can get a little information by talking with some of our produce dealers, and by examining the grain frequently brought to this city.

On the other hand there are careful, cleanly farmers in Utah, who are rewarded for their pains by always receiving a higher price for their grain than those do who are less particular.

CHEAP AS DIRT.—The City Council met last evening, Mayor Wells presiding.

Petition of G. W. Cooperson, asking a lease of the southeast corner of the market lot 36, which to erect a building for a fish and poultry market; referred to committee on markets.

Petition of the Deseret Agricultural and Manufacturing Society, asking the Council to assist in the coming exhibition of the interest and interest manual, discussed, and five hundred dollars appropriated.

Petition of B. Y. Hampton, asking the council to amend the portion of the ordinance relating to licenses, which has reference to job wagons, so as to have every wagon numbered; referred to committee on licenses.

Petition of Wm. Shutz, jun., butcher, asking that his license be changed from the meat market to Price's green grocery stand, First South St.; was tabled.

The committee to whom was referred the petition of Walker Bros. and nine others, praying for certain alterations at the crossings of the petitioners, reported that they had examined the street complained of and found all just as it is better condition than the average of our streets; that the crossings as planted and graded by the petitioners themselves, which the street surveyor wanted removed, were done according to instructions to the surveyor, which really needed attention; to confluse the flume complained of by private parties, Mesdames Smith, front of the market lot; and to repair the sidewalk complained of in the petition of Mrs. Haywood and others.

The report was adopted by unanimous vote.

One or two minor reports and bills received attention, when an ordinance relating to nuisances was read the first time, a few corrections made and it was passed.

Council adjourned till Tuesday evening next, Sept. 30.

SUFFERING.—Numerous friends will join us in sincere regrets to learn that Mr. Wm. Hendricks, of Logan, Cache Co., is suffering severely from a very painful affliction of the eyes.

IRON FOR THE U. N. R. R.—Iron for seven miles of this road has been received from the East, and is being laid north of Logan. Iron for twenty additional miles is en route, and is being received daily.

OGDEN DIVISION OF THE U. N. R. R.—A gentleman from the north informed us, this morning, that the work of grading and tieing on the Ogden Division of the Utah Northern line, extending from Ogden to Brigham City, is progressing rapidly under the direction of Hon. Lorin Farr, Superintendent of Construction.

"FULL MOON."—The mine known by this name is situated between the Emma and Flagstaff and is now being steadily developed. Up till three weeks ago only ninety-one feet of tunnelling had been done, but a force of hands are at work who will excavate a hundred feet further. The indications are said to be favorable for richness.

NO MORE MAIL IRREGULARITIES NORTH.—The mail irregularities northward, which have caused so much complaint lately, will, there is the best of reason to believe, be heard of no more. Col. Wickizer, Special Mail Agent, has, we are informed, cleared up as far as Logan, over the U. N. R. R. and has made arrangements with Moses Thatcher, Esq., General Superintendent of the Utah Northern Railroad, for a daily mail between Logan and Corinne, commencing yesterday, and hereafter no trouble is need be anticipated because of a lack of mail facilities in that region of country.

SUICIDE.—The wild-fowl from the railroad depot across South Temple Street to the coal house of the Wasatch Company was to be finished this evening. A force of hands were busy constructing it to-day, under the direction of Mr. George Lewis, Superintendent of the Company. The weighing scale, to be constructed in front of the coal house, will probably be ready for use in about a week.

Gravel is being hauled, ties got in readiness and other preparations are being made by the Rocky Mountain Coal and Iron Mining Company for a similar switch to that of the Wasatch Coal Company. Their weighing scale is already constructed and in operation.

FRACTIOUS MULES.—Immediately after the arrival of the southern train this afternoon, four small black mules attached to one of the street cars got "frisky and wonderfully inclined." They insisted for a time in attempting to go in every other direction but the one in which the driver desired them to. One of the animals got a hind leg over one of the tugs and considerable caution was exercised by human who tried to put the matter right, when a tall bystander stepped up and dexterously pulled up the limb and freed the tug, without being kicked. The passengers and others manifested a lively interest in the scene and the driver remarked that those same mules were in the habit of performing those same antics in starting from the depot.

INDIAN MOUNDS.—The following extract, from the forthcoming work of Professor J. F. Hartfoot, of the Deseret Museum, entitled "Guide to Salt Lake and Neighborhood, for 1874," will be read with interest by many:

"Those mounds to the [illegible] west of the city, [illegible] rains. They certainly defy the conclusions some have arrived at, that they were [illegible] years ago, covered by the lake. That these mounds were burial places of a former race of Indians who dwelt here for many generations is probable, that man acquainted with the manufacture and use of implements, such as are now in vogue in Mexico and other places, were the makers of the numerous "metates," or grinding mills, flint and obsidian knives, arrowheads, spears, pestles and mortars, and especially the pottery, testify. Out of these mounds was originally made many feet long by fifty in width, with a hight of twenty feet; others were smaller, but they are so drifted it is even difficult to conjecture their form-
