RETURN OF SENATOR KEARNS

Says the Late Session of Congress Was a Hard One.

COL. HAYES' APPOINTMENT.

The Senator Views It as a Handsome Compliment to Utah—Panama Canal and Cuban Treaties.

Senator Thomas Kearns arrived home from the east yesterday afternoon. An effort by the "News" to have a talk with him today in time for publication in tonight's paper, proved futile, as the senator was indisposed and did not appear at his office. So the "News" presents herewith the interview furnished his own paper, the Tribune, believing that it contains the senator's views on the matters touched upon. The senator says: "Yes, I am glad to get back to Utah, for the session of Congress has been a hard one, notwithstanding its brevity. Taken all in all, I think it has been the most important session of Congress for Utah since the state was admitted. In saying this I am reminded of the bills, now laws, throwing open the Uintah and Uncompagnie Indian reservations, which were reviewed by Haynes from Washington in Wednesday's Tribune. It has always been a pet scheme of mine to throw open these reservations, for I was convinced that the Indians were not making the proper use of the land. And then again, I was opposed to such a large tract of land being practically unoccupied. You know a great deal of the best land in the state is embraced in these reservations, and we cannot well afford to keep out settlers."

"HAYES' APPOINTMENT. The senator observed that Utah was handsomely recognized by the appointment of Col. A. B. Hayes of Ogden as solicitor of the Internal Revenue, and that he was somewhat disappointed at the failure of the bill to establish Salt Lake City a port of entry. "But this will come next year," said he, "I have no doubt. The rush of business and the priority of the statehood bill put the consideration of that measure out of the question. Speaking of statehood, I have been represented as being not in favor of statehood for the territories. This is absolutely untrue. I am for statehood, and have always been, and I take the position that I cannot afford to ally myself with the Democracy upon any proposition. Next year I have little doubt there will be statehood for the territories, and it will be a Republican measure."

PANAMA CANAL TREATY. Senator Kearns spoke of the Panama canal treaty, which will mean so much commercially to the United States, and the Cuban reciprocity treaty, which will have to be acted upon by the house again, for the senate amended it. "I am not a candidate for the office of senator," he said, "but I am a candidate for the office of citizen."

Asked as to the San Pedro Road, Los Angeles & Salt Lake railroad, in which he is largely interested, he said: "I am not a candidate for the office of senator, but I am a candidate for the office of citizen."

Won't Recognize Sheets As Chief.

City Auditor Affirms That He Has Not Been Legally Confirmed by the City Council and Returns the Pay-Roll of the Police Department to be Certified to by Captain Burbridge—Meantime City Attorney's Opinion is Sought.

The first move on the part of George A. Sheets to secure recognition from the city council and city officials as the duly confirmed chief of police was made today and resulted disastrously for the would-be chief. This morning the pay-roll for the police department for the month of March was submitted to City Auditor Reiser. The payroll was certified to by "George A. Sheets, chief of police."

Mr. Reiser immediately returned the same to the police department with the following indorsement, which is self-explanatory: "Respectfully returned to be certified to by John B. Burbridge, captain of police, who is the ranking officer of the police department, George A. Sheets not having been legally confirmed by the city council."

Mr. Kelsey stated today that no definite plans would be drawn for the paving of South Temple street until his return. The paving of that street to Tenth East is now assured, as the city engineer has secured the necessary funds. The street car company will put in a double track in the entire distance on that street and a retaining wall will separate the high and low portions of the street. The council has already authorized the publication of notice to do the paving. By the city engineer's investigations it is expected that South Temple street will be the prettiest thoroughfare of the city.

TO BEAUTIFY SOUTH TEMPLE

City Engineer Kelsey Says the Paving of That Thoroughfare to Tenth East is Now Assured—Street Car Company Will Double Track Its Roadbed.

Insurance Appraiser W. B. Honeyman of Portland, arrived this noon from the coast, and with T. A. Williams, the appraiser, finally selected by the Salt Lake Hardware company, will in the course of a day or two decide upon an umpire to whom will be referred for final arbitration such differences as may not be agreed upon by the two appraisers. Mr. Honeyman is an old-timer in this country, and 30 years ago went from Denver to the Pacific coast over the old trail. He is an experienced machinery and foundry man, and has shown such excellent knowledge and fairness in appraisal, that his services have been frequently sought by the insurance companies in just such instances as this. The management of the Hardware company claims the full amount of the insurance, $121,000, and would not be satisfied with less, while the insurance men refused to allow over $80,000. There was recently efforts made looking towards compromise, but this scheme finally fell through, and a board of appraisal was decided upon. Mr. Honeyman hopes to have the whole matter decided before the week is over, so that the hardware company may get the money to clean up the front two-story structure and erect a five or six story building. But this plan has been changed several times, and the structure will be restored to just what it was before the fire, unless the hardware company is willing to increase the height of the rear and main building.

THE BROKERS BOLT. Notable Scarcity of Mining Men at Services on the Exchange.

The first of the series of Lenten services conducted under the auspices of St. Mark's cathedral chapter, Brotherhood of St. Andrew, began today in the room of the mining exchange on Second South street.

The meeting was presided over by Dean Eddie, his subject being "Charity—An Acquisition." The service was called promptly at 12:05 o'clock.

There was a noticeable scarcity of brokers around the exchange pit immediately after the forenoon call ended, which was only a short while before the service began. The meetings will continue each week day until Easter Sunday.

ANOTHER IDAHO BANK. First National of Nez Perces Authorized To Begin Business.

(Special to the "News.") Washington, D. C., March 30.—The comptroller of the currency has authorized the First National bank of Nez Perces, Idaho, to begin business with a capital of $25,000. The Hanover National bank of New York has been approved as a reserve agent for First National bank of Nez Perces.

E. S. Esche, of New York, formerly of Salt Lake, is in the city with his family.

THE UTAH BEEKEEPERS. Will Meet on Monday Next to Consider St. Louis Fair Display.

President Lovejoy, of the Utah Beekeepers' association, stated this afternoon that the members of the organization would, at their meeting on Monday morning next, consider the question of being represented and making a display of Utah honey at the St. Louis exposition. He is of the opinion that Utah beekeepers can beat the world in that contest. In substantiation of his claim in this direction he exhibited a bottle of last year's product that he declares most positively cannot be equaled in any state of the Union. Certainly it was very fine. Another matter to be considered in the new law passed by the last Legislature in relation to the production of honey.

INTERVIEW WITH SENATOR SMOOT

Returns Home Pleased With His Experience at Washington.

WORK OF SPECIAL SESSION.

His Views on the Panama Canal and Cuban Reciprocity Treaties—Utah Lake Reservoir.

(Special to the "News.") Provo, March 30.—Senator Reed Smoot returned from Washington yesterday afternoon, feeling pleased with his experience and the reception he had received at the capital of the nation. The "News" representative called at his home last evening, and found Senator Smoot enjoying the society of his family, busy listening to the prattle of his little children, who had many interesting things to tell him.

THE PANAMA CANAL TREATY. Senator Smoot talked freely of his labors in the senate and of the questions which had been considered there during the extra session. He expressed particular satisfaction with the confirmation of the Panama canal treaty and that he had the privilege of voting for that measure, the necessity for which had always been evident to him, and had been particularly impressed upon his mind at the time of the Spanish war, when the Oregon made its trip around the Horn. He would have preferred some changes in the treaty, but philosophically remarked that in making a treaty you cannot always get just what you want. Senator Smoot expressed himself in favor of making the canal a tidal water canal. This would make it necessary to dig it 60 feet deeper than it is now, but the expense of maintaining it after completion would be much less than with locks.

CUBAN RECIPROCITY. On the matter of the Cuban reciprocity treaty he considered a future session of the senate, and he would like to see the tariff on Cuban sugar, while it would be of some disadvantage to the American beet sugar interest, to be less than that on annexation of Cuba, for then there was a strong sentiment in some quarters and he believed the reciprocity treaty, which he thought a special session of Congress would be called to approve, would attract an animated sentiment. In addition to this he believed the United States should help Cuba all she possibly could with safety to her own people and their interests.

UTAH LAKE RESERVOIR. Senator Smoot stated that the project of a reservoir at Utah Lake would be a great benefit to the state, and he would like to see it carried out.
