TRAGIC DEATH OF GORDON S. GRANT

Popular Clerk of the Reed Hotel Killed by Runaway Horse.

WEBER STAKE CONFERENCE.

Temperance Cause is Leading Theme—Elizabeth Kingsford, a Handicraft Pioneer, Summoned.

Ogden, Oct. 19.—Gordon Stuart Grant, chief clerk of the Reed hotel company for the past five years, met with a tragic death Saturday evening, which came as a great shock to the entire city. While crossing a street from the hotel at about 5:30 o'clock Saturday evening, Mr. Grant was struck by a runaway horse and hurled to the street fatally injuring and rendering him unconscious. Without regaining consciousness the unfortunate young man died at 7:45 o'clock that evening.

From a number of eye witnesses the deceased was crossing the street from the Reed hotel, the wind was blowing fiercely, rattling the sign and making a noise to such an extent that Mr. Grant could not hear the approach of the runaway horse which was coming down Twenty-fifth street hill. When the horse was about 10 feet from the young man he turned and saw it and jumped back about two feet and seemed to be clear of the path of the horse. Instead of passing the man the horse turned toward the man and was upon him in an instant, bearing him down to the ground.

Dr. G. A. Dickson, who was passing along the street at the time, assisted in removing Mr. Grant to his room at the hotel where he was attended by Drs. Dickson and Joyce. Upon examination it was found that all the ribs on the right side were broken, and there was a deep scalp wound at the back of the head. The deceased was in an unconscious condition until he died, death being caused by concussion of the brain.

The body was removed to Richer's undertaking parlors, where it will be held pending the receipt of word from the mother and brother of the deceased who reside in Boston.

Gordon Stuart Grant was born in Boston about thirty-two years ago. At the age of 15, he shipped to sea with an uncle, and for three years lived in Cairo, Egypt. After visiting other countries of Europe and Asia, Grant returned to the United States and went to work in a Boston hotel as check clerk. After two years he went to Illinois, where he worked in the Transient house in Chicago and the hotel in Champlain. Five years ago Grant came to Ogden to accept the position of chief clerk of the Reed hotel. During his residence here he has made innumerable friends and was known by the members of the traveling fraternity from one end of the country to the other as one of the most genial and most popular hotel men in the country.

Mr. Grant was a member of the local lodge of Elks, member of the Masonic order, the Mystic Shrine, and the Knights Templars. He was also a member of the Weber and Press clubs of Ogden.

Mr. Grant had only about three weeks ago returned from Boston, where he visited his mother and brother, whom he had not seen for fifteen years. He spent the entire time of his vacation in Boston, saying that he wanted to spend as much time as possible with his mother. On Saturday evening Mr. Grant was to give a little dinner to a few of his intimate friends in celebration of the anniversary of his five years' residence in Ogden, which was about four days ago.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Bigelow of the Reed hotel feel that in the death of Mr. Grant they have lost one of their most valued employees and one who has seemed more like a member of the family than that of an employee.

In the tragic death of Gordon Grant, in Ogden, Saturday evening readers of the "News" will recall to mind a number of similar deaths of prominent people of this city which have been caused by runaway horses. Three weeks ago in these columns the attention of the police department was called to the gross negligence that occurs daily by the drivers of delivery wagons and horses in crossing the intersection of streets at terrific paces as well as leaving horses unattended, while the drivers went into houses to make deliveries.

many more of the saints in attendance and after the usual opening exercises, the local and general authorities of the Church were unanimously sustained. President Hoodbrook of the organ fund committee made a short report, showing that the pipe organ fund had been installed and fully paid for. That committee was appointed May 14, 1894, and on account of so many of the wards having no money, the organ fund was in very slowly. The organ was installed in August, 1897, and at that time $710 had been collected, leaving a deficiency in the treasury, $10,233.92. It was finally collected, and after all expenses being paid, leaves a balance of $14.92, which was turned into the stake treasury. Now the committee was ready to turn the organ over to the stake authorities, which was accepted and the committee released. Elder George H. Brimhall, being the next speaker, made the announcement that the winter semester of the B. V. university, would commence Nov. 9. The missionary class would commence at the same time. The telegram was from Dr. Condon, coroner, and asked what was to be done with the body. The mother of the deceased was in Salt Lake, where she and son Henry will leave for Colorado. It is not known what caused the rash act, but it is supposed it might be due to this separation from his wife. About two years ago he married Fred Vickers of Silver City.
