GENERAL.

Washington.—Secretary Rawlins was sufficiently recovered to visit the War Department this morning.

It is thought that the forthcoming monthly statement of the public debt will show a reduction of about $2,000,000, notwithstanding the heavy payments of the Government during the current month.

Providence.—Miss Emma Gardner, daughter of Col. Harry W. Gardner, was seriously injured last night at Natick, her ball dress taking fire from a lamp on the floor of her dressing room; her recovery is doubtful.

New York.—The result of the boat race was received by the English cable, at the Associated Press Office, in this city, at four minutes past one, just 23 minutes and 13 seconds after the Oxford boat had arrived at Medlake, which was at 30 minutes and 36 seconds past five, the moment being obliged to carry the dispatch three-fourths of a mile on horseback, part of the way through dense woods, to the nearest telegraph station.

Memphis, Tenn., 27.—John Duffage, an old actor and journalist, and one of the founders of the Alta California, died here to-day. The city is remarkably healthy for this season, several sudden deaths from heat embrace nearly all the complaints.

Louisville.—A party of three men, were engaged in a quarrel at a picnic in Clark Co., Ind., yesterday, when Mike Cuddy, an Irishman, stepped up to one named John Held, a German, and stabbed him in the right side, inflicting, probably, a fatal wound. Cuddy escaped. A man named Stout killed one named Crowfoot, with an ice pick, at Clomming, Ind., on Tuesday last; a disagreement about cards was the cause.

Boston.—The citizens generally believe, that had the international race taken place on our own waters the result would have been different. The excitement was intense until it became known that the Oxford had only won by three lengths, when every body acquiesced in the result.

In the suits of the Republican against the Typographical Union for conspiracy and libel, the Grand Jury returned, "no true bill" in both cases.

St. Louis.—A new and costly Jewish synagogue, one of the finest in the country, was dedicated here to-night, with imposing ceremonies.

The society to which it belongs have adopted all the latest innovations in forms of worship. When a family of Jews are introduced, the men sit with their heads uncovered.

San Francisco, 27.—Professor Davidson, of the United States Coast Survey, reports the discovery, during his recent eclipse expedition in Alaska, of a mountain range of iron ore, extending from the mouth of the Chilkah river to far beyond his astronomical station. The range has an elevation of two thousand feet, and causes a local deviation in the compass of ten degrees. The professor also determined the geographical position of numerous points on the line of exploration. He found Chilkah Valley to possess soil, climate and productions far more favorable than those of the Alaskan arctic region.

The Supreme Court of the State of Nevada has decided that telegraphy is a branch of commerce, and is therefore under the control of Congress, in the same manner as other kinds of commercial intercourse, among the several States.

Legal tenders to.

Nashville.—Horace Maynard, H. Hamilton and other leading radicals, arrived this morning and had a meeting this afternoon, the object of which has not been ascertained. Various surmises are being made, one of which is that they are taking steps for a thorough reorganization of their party, and, as a preliminary, demand the removal of all the Senate office holders in the State. Another is, that they contemplate, during Senator's absence, the seizure of the State government, but this is hardly probable. The majority of those present were members of the late legislature.

FOREIGN.

Halifax.—Prince Arthur was entertained to-day on board the French frigate, Semiramis, by Rear Admiral Magate and his officers. The Prince goes to Charlottetown to-morrow, where a grand reception awaits him.

London.—The excitement to-day over the great international boat race has been intense: the banks of the Thames have been lined with spectators since early hour, and the city has been almost deserted and business quite neglected. Vehicles of all descriptions bearing the Harvard and Oxford colors, and heavily laden with people, crowded all the roads leading to the race course.

During the entire day the roads in the vicinity of Putney, Hammersmith, Chiswick, Barnes, Mortlake, &c., were thronged with pedestrians, and the railway companies found themselves almost unable to provide cars sufficient to carry the vast numbers waiting at the depots. There is no exaggeration in stating that probably a million of people witnessed the race. The Harvards won the toss for position, and chose the "middle" side, outside the semicircle. Both boats started at fourteen minutes and six and a half seconds past five. The tide at the start was sluggish; a light south-west breeze prevailed, with smooth water. The Harvards were first to catch the water and took the lead, gaining rapidly upon their opponents, making forty-five strokes per minute against the Oxford forty. At Bishop's Creek, three furlongs from the start, the Harvards half a length, gaining headway, they increased the lead as they passed the Willows. Their pace was subsequently slackened, and the Oxford pulled up, but the Harvards are still three quarters of a length ahead. At Craven Point, three quarters of a mile from the start, the Oxford won with steady drag, but the Americans rapidly increased the lead, and at Crab Tree Mile Post, they were a couple of lengths ahead. Beyond here the Harvards were taken wide, when the Oxford quickened their speed and reduced the gap. At the Soap Works, a mile and a half from the start, the Harvards pulled up with a magnificent burst to Hammersmith bridge, a mile and three-quarters from the start, but in shooting past the bridge they lost the distance they had gained. When opposite the middle wall the Oxford started and came up gradually to the Harvards, but when opposite Daves, the boats were found too close together and the Harvards gave way. At Chiswick, 2 1/2 miles from the start, three lengths ahead. The Oxford gained rapidly at Chiswick, where it became a close race, and apparently told on the Harvards, who were rather wild at this part of the race. From this point the Oxford rapidly drew ahead, and in a few strokes obtained a lead of two lengths. The Harvards rowing pluckily, held them there for half a mile, when they fell astern; the Oxford, at thirty eight strokes per minute, shot past Barnes' bridge, 3 1/2 miles from the start, three lengths ahead. Along Barnes' Reach, the Harvards refreshed their stroke, Loring, with some river water, thereby retarding boat; the Americans tried a spurt, but found their effort ineffectual, and the Oxford, getting more lead, eventually won the race by four lengths, easing up the last few strokes and pulling up fresh. The Oxford arrived at the ship at 5 o'clock, 36 minutes and 7 seconds, making 4 1/2 miles in 23 minutes, 40 seconds. The Americans were well received at the finish, and returning, landed at Barnes. The race was a good one, and excited a degree of enthusiasm along the banks of the river utterly unknown at races.

London.—The latest advices from Paraguay, by a Rio Janeiro steamer, show that a battle was imminent. The land and naval forces of the allies were in motion. An official dispatch, received from the Brazilian war department, announces that General Porfirio had commenced to march on Villa Rica, and that the Brazilian iron clad fleet was steaming up the February river to support the army and assist in the attack.

Lisbon.—Advices from Paraguayan sources contradict the official reports received from Rio Janeiro, and assert that the Allies are not strong enough to attack their position. Lopez is in the Cordillera and has remained in a state of complete inaction since the Allies appeared.

From rumors current in Paraguay, a revolution is imminent in the Argentine provinces, against the policy of President Sarmiento, who is accused of sacrificing the Republic to Brazil.

News has been received from Tripoli that Frantien Tinne, (the great German African traveler), and her two attendants had been murdered by their camel drivers, while traveling the Argoboush road, between Mousgroux and Ghat.

New York, 28.—Smalley telegraphs the Tribune that the morning opened bright and clear; the absence of the English drizzle increased the chances of the Harvards' success. The crew passed a good night, though this morning Simmons showed weakness, from a severe attack of diarrhea with which he has suffered several days. Loring, too, has been troubled by a boil, which is far from well, but most of the crew are in splendid condition and full of confidence. When the word was given the Harvards made a start, came into play for their oars and took water first making forty-three strokes a minute; the Oxford made only forty. For a mile and a half the race was splendid. The Harvards soon drew away from the Oxford, and kept the lead to Craven Cottage, a distance of three-fourths of a mile. The Oxford drew up at the level just beyond Hammersmith bridge. When on Chiswick, two miles and a half from the start, they gained the lead, after that they won as they liked. The Oxford crew never changed the stroke during the whole race. The stroke of the Harvards was irregular. They lost from wholly above Hammersmith. When off Chiswick they were rowed to the pier, though they pulled to the end of the hopeless race with magnificent pluck, and that long after their strength and endurance had been exhausted. For the last two miles they had pluck and that only, the coxswain steering wide and the stroke being fatally quick. The superiority of the Oxford was manifested throughout the whole race, which was never doubtful after the first half mile, though the Harvards retained the lead sometime after that point. The Oxford won by four lengths; time 21 minutes and 20 seconds.

The World's London special says the race conceded, universally, to have been perfectly fair and honorable on both sides. The time occupied by the Oxford was twenty-two minutes and forty seconds, being more than they took for the course a few days ago. The distance rowed was a little less than four miles and three furlongs. The day was fair but the tide was unfavorable. During the first mile of the race the Harvards were ahead by more than a length, rowing forty-two strokes per minute, to the Oxford's thirty-nine. The Harvards' rowing was most brilliant, and many believe that the race might have been gained by them had the coxswain made better efforts to take the Oxford's water. As Hammersmith Bridge was passed the advantage was still with the Harvards, but it was perceived that the pace at which they had started could not be sustained, as they had sunk from forty-three to forty-two and over; the Oxford's rowing was maintained without alteration to the end. A little before Chiswick was reached, about half way, the splendid manoeuvres of the coxswain of the Oxford took the Harvards' water, and all Burnham's efforts to escape the Oxford were in vain. As Chiswick church was passed the Harvards were visibly depressed, Burnham throwing the water over his stroke, and Simmons, on whom the labor and swiftness told heavy, was almost paralyzed. The race was lost by Harvards, though on more heroic efforts was made to gain it. When the gun sounded the Harvard crew, after a moment's rest, drew up by the side of the Oxford's boat, and applauded the victors very warmly by clapping their hands; the Oxfordians acknowledged this by taking off their hats. There are various theories as to the cause of the Harvards' failure. It is rumored that their diet lately has been vegetarian; but that is not true. Loring is criticized for not having the English coxswain, and Burnham for bad steering, but many good judges declare the race was almost a repetition of the race between the English universities, and that the Harvards failed because their style is like that of Cambridge.

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

MASS MEETING.—At a meeting of numerous citizens this afternoon, it was motioned to hold an indignation meeting at the New Tabernacle, at one o'clock, on Monday, Sept. 6th, to take into consideration various subjects, amongst which the conduct of the Union Pacific Railroad company in withholding the pay from the men who built their road and other topics will be discussed.

HISTORICAL DISCOVERY.—The discovery of President George A. Smith, delivered in the Tabernacle, last Sunday afternoon, which appears in to-day's paper, will be found interesting to all who wish to peruse a brief account of the sufferings and persecutions endured by the Latter-day Saints in the year 1830, and emigrated to this territory with her husband and family the same year. She lived and died a faithful member of the church and leaves a large circle of relatives and friends to mourn her departure. (Cont.)

FATAL ACCIDENT TO A U. P. R. R. CONDUCTOR.—The Cheyenne Leader of Wednesday last says:

"Mr. Thomas Green, conductor on the U. P. R. R., met with his death yesterday, while on his train. It appears that two men had endeavored to beat their way on the train, when Mr. Green ordered them off at Bitter Creek. Fearing that they would again attempt to get on the train, Mr. Green kept leaning too far over the platform, when he was struck on the head while passing over the bridge. His neck was broken, killing him instantly."

THE MINSTRELS.—Last night the performance was very excellent. The singing, dancing, and "goats," as Artemus has it, were all calculated to satisfy and please the most fastidious and critical. Joe Murphy's "Combonian" solo was immense; the "Combonian" being, in form, like a trombone, but very small, Joe having, as he said, "plucked it before it was ripe." His imitation of the bagpipes was very correct, but to all, save highly educated Scotch ears, it must have sounded very discordant. At the close of the solo Mr. Murphy was called to the footlights, and in a very humorous style returned thanks on behalf of himself and the troupe for the reception they had met with in this city. Ben Cotton, in "Love among the Roses" was immense, and was encored. Master Bennie's clog dancing was the best piece of clog dancing we ever had the pleasure of witnessing. The concertina solo by Michael Kohler, evinced a clever hand, and gave some idea of what can be done on the instrument. His "Banks and Braes," with variations, was executed in masterly style. His imitations of the bagpipes were very good.

The cornet duet by Croxall and Kohler was well played and received a very hearty and well deserved applause.

The faro of the "Irish Tinker" caused a deal of fun, and gave an opportunity to Joe to "spread" himself, an opportunity which he made the most of.

To-night is the last appearance of this talented troupe, and an overflowing house should honor their farewell.

REVERSING GRAIN REGISTER, ETC.—Bro. Sidney Hudson, who has arrived in this city from Michigan, is the inventor of a Grain Register, which he claims will, by a short motion of the hand, reverse grain from a full measure into an empty one, and correctly count, by means of the register plate, the number of bushels threshed. It also avoids spilling grain, and while relieving the mind of all apprehension of mistakes, it saves the labor of one hand in bagging grain, and threshing rapidly. He is also the inventor of a pointed fruit and farm ladder, which, it is said, has taken the premium over all ladders for fruit purposes. Both the above implements are patented, and may be seen by farmers, gardeners, and others interested, at the farm store of Kohler, corner of Temple street. They can be manufactured at low rates, and of real value to agriculturists and fruit raisers. Bro. Hudson may be enabled to carry out his desire of making a home for himself and family here, and the same time be the means of introducing into the territory a branch of manufacturing industry.

"WAR WHOOFS: A GOOD JOKE.—The Omaha Herald, of the 20th inst., says a young gentleman of Jewish extraction keeps a little shop on Farnham street, for the sale of Indian goods, which he has on hand in endless variety. His knowledge of United States gab is very limited, but he has a "pardner" who can "speak" right. Last evening two young gentlemen were walking down the street, when they halted in front of his shop. He lost no time in informing them that he had all kinds of Indian goods for sale "sheep." One of the gentlemen asked him if he had any "Indian War Whoofs for sale." The dealer scratched his head and looked over his bill of goods, but could not find any "War Whoofs." After conversing awhile with his "pardner," he informed the anxious customers, "No, we don't got some."

THE WHITE PINE MINES.—The Inland Empire, published at Hamilton, White Pine, Nevada, gives statistics, drawn from the Assessor's returns, of the total yield of bullion of thirty-four mines, scattered over an extent of country, six miles long by three wide, for the quarter ending July 1st, 1899. The total yield was $412,314.10. The lowest average yield was over $30 per ton, the highest $4,364.36; while the grand average of all was reduced for the quarter in the district was $66.62.

STRIKING TIMES IN WYOMING.—According to the Cheyenne Leader of the 24th inst., the people of Wyoming Territory are having a rather lively time just now, over the election of a Delegate to the House of Representatives. As is usual, on such occasions, almost everywhere outside of Utah Territory, there is an opposition ticket, and Democrats, Republicans and "roughs" are having a good time, the two foremost agreeing to oppose each other in the most vigorous and determined manner; while the "roughs" are ready to strike a blow for whichever will pay best. Utah must seem terribly namby-pamby place to some folks when compared with places outside, so advanced in the higher (v) primeval civilization. Only to think, even at election times, positive carnivals elsewhere for the rowdies and "roughs." Utah is perfectly quiet and orderly! But then, tastes differ, and the people of this Territory, having a higher respect for law and the maintenance of peace and good order than the people anywhere else, choose rather to be united than otherwise, even at election times, if by so doing they can preserve peace and quietness; and they are sufficiently egoistic to believe their system is the best. In the meantime we wish success to both the candidates in Wyoming, namely, Mr. W. W. Corlett, Republican, and Mr. Nuckolls, Democrat.

Special Notices.

STATEMENT BLANKS furnished this Office, for our advertisement in another column.

In lever and ague, and all intermittent fevers, according to the statements of countless witnesses, the Red Jacket Bitters break up the paroxysms with absolute certainty, and speedily restore the strength of the patient.

Have You Ever Heard of It? THEN acquire at once at your grocer for DOOLEY'S CHEMICAL YEAST BAKING POWDER, the only strictly pure and heretofore baking powder in market, from which good, sweet, palatable biscuits, rolls, cakes or pastry can be made, uniformly with the same success. This article has been steadily increasing in demand and is public favor, and stands to-day the most reliable baking powder in use. Ask your grocer for Dooley's Baking Powder.

Burnett's Articles have extended their reputation every where, and they give the utmost satisfaction.—Frank Leslie's Newspaper.
Prejudice Vanquished.—Burnett's Cologne Water is admitted to be equal to the foreign brands.

Burnett's Florinol has none of the peculiar sickening sweetness so common in French Extracts.

Burnett's Preparations are sold in Europe and patronized by the Nobility.

Burnett's Extract of Lemon imparts a flavor equal to the fruit itself.
