

SENATE WILL PASS THE SUBSIDY BILL

Measure That is a Seesaw Because House Will Defeat It.

SAME AT EVERY CONGRESS.

Senator Gallinger is Responsible for Getting the Bill to a Vote—Grosser up in the Air.

Special Correspondence.

Washington, Feb. 16.—Against the senate will pass a ship subsidy bill which will sleep for weeks and then die in the house. To the persistence of Senator Gallinger is due all credit there may be in getting the shipping bill to a vote. He has achieved this result without resorting to the powerful steering committee of the Republican side, which usually determines which bills shall first be considered. He introduced the bill early, secured a favorable report before the holidays and slipped the bill into the "undisputed business" notch, where he kept it until the senate agreed to vote on the measure. There are many public measures which the house sends to the senate knowing that they will be strangled, but the subsidy bill is the exception. The senate votes this measure through, everybody being aware that it cannot pass the house.

DOES HIS OWN THINKING.

Representative McCall of Massachusetts is a man who does his own thinking and forms his own conclusions. He is not swayed by influences of any kind, either by fear of going contrary to the wishes of his constituents or by having federal patronage taken away from him. He does what he believes to be right, no matter what other men may say. There is nothing of the coward in McCall. He has opposed the whole insular programme and especially has opposed the principle that the United States can build a tariff barrier between itself and its possessions. McCall's latest action in opposing the rail road rate legislation is an example of independence that is characteristic of him. Many men who supported the bill said privately that McCall was right, but that it would be political suicide for them to follow him.

ENGAGED IN CONVERSATION.

The statehood bill was reached on the calendar one day and Senator Lodge objected to its consideration. Soon after Senator Beveridge was on his feet and in quite a long explanation said that he was engaged in conversation with Senator Foraker or he would have asked that a time be fixed for voting on the bill.

TO RAISE A FLAGSHIP.

While Secy. Baughman and some others would like to destroy the old frigate Constitution, Representative Bates of Pennsylvania would spend $20,000 of the public funds to raise the flagship of Commodore Perry, the Niagara, which was sunk in Lake Erie during the war of 1812. It is quite likely that the Constitution will be preserved, and that the Niagara will remain under water, at least for some time to come.

WERE SO FEW OF THEM.

"There are so few of us," said Representative Stibbs of Pennsylvania when Representative Littlefield of Maine was discussing the rate bill, "that hold the same views as the gentleman is expressing that I ask the gentleman from Iowa to allow him as much time as he may wish and even let the debate be lengthened another day if necessary."

CANADA AND PROTECTION.

Pounding away at the citadel of protection one day in the house, John Sharp Williams read from a statement showing that of the 154,000 immigrants who had gone to Canada in 1904, 50,000 were American citizens of the United States. "Where were they from?" asked Williams, and, replying, said, "They are American farmers from the Dakotas, Iowa, Missouri and the great west. He insisted that those men were not fools and were going to a country where they expected greater prosperity, and that Canada was as prosperous as the United States, though not surrounded by a protective wall. He showed that the railroads were being built in Canada, although the Dominion was without the gates of high protection.

"WHERE DID YOU LIGHT?"

When General Grosvenor was making his speech on the railroad rate bill he "solved around" more or less. Colonel Pete Hopburn, who has a seat beside the brilliant Ohio man, did not remain throughout his speech, but returned later in the day and met Grosvenor down in front of the desks and said:

"By the way, Grosvenor, where did you light? I was somewhat in doubt about you when I left the hall."

"I was in doubt myself," replied Grosvenor. "I am still in doubt."

"That reminds me of a reply Grosvenor made to a senator who asked him what he was going to do about the rate bill and received this answer: 'I'll make a speech against it and vote for it.'"

CLUB CHAT.

On Thursday the Daughters of the Revolution met and listened to interesting papers read by Mrs. Julia F. Lund and Mrs. E. A. Wright, respectively. Mrs. Lund giving a sketch of "The Life and Career of Robert Morris," and Mrs. Wright one of "George

Mrs. James Fisk

WIDOW OF "JIM" FISK NOW LIVES ON $6 A WEEK.

With an income of only $6.00 a week, Mrs. Lucy D. Fisk, widow of Col. James Fisk, former associate of Jay Gould, and "King of the Erie Railroad," is now living in a furnished room at No. 328 K street, South Boston, in comparative privation.

From the moment the shot from the pistol of Edward S. Stokes struck the breast of James Fisk, on the stairs of the Grand Central Hotel took away her mountain home in Vermont to reside over his mansion in America's metropolis. According to a friend, the misfortunes that followed the death of her husband came faster than the widow could combat. To this friend Mrs. Fisk said: "We were turned out three times in Harlem and then lost the property on Fifth Avenue, New York. My sister does the cooking and I do the remainder of the work including the washing."

Misfortune has not brought a bitter thought against any one to the mind of the widow of James Fisk. Even the slayer of her husband was forgiven.

all had a part in the extensive program, but this half hour was a feature of the occasion.

One of the most important subjects brought up was that of the establishment of the Mills hotel for women and of lodging houses throughout the city where the underpaid working woman may find a suitable home.

There are thousands of working girls in the city who are obliged to board in unfit places, and who are literally in a pitiable condition, and although the time to state the cases to the federation was very short, it is hoped that the plan was made sufficiently plain to insure its endorsement, not only by the individual clubs which make up the federation, but with the ultimate result that the project be floated through the aid of wealthy men and women.

The second important subject presented was that of housing. Much interest is evinced by the clubs in this matter, and several of them have sent resolutions of protest to the various colleges of the country, and what is more to the point, have received replies in which the respective presidents expressed not only encouragement but gratitude for the stand taken.

Much of the work of the Women's Industrial Council of Great Britain is accomplished in this country by organizations such as the Consumers' League, the Women's Trade Union league, and others, but it has fallen to the General Federation of Women's Clubs to secure the investigation, so badly needed, into industrial conditions of women. The plan for asking for the investigation, however, did not originate in the clubs. Credit should be given to individuals, most of them club members, who first conceived the idea of putting the matter in the hands of the United States department of labor.

When it was found that an special appropriation for the purpose would have to be obtained from Congress it was agreed by all interested that the General Federation of Women's Clubs was the only organization of women strong enough to undertake the work with any prospect of success. How gladly the general federation accepted the responsibility was an indication of the growing interest in practical matters among all club women. No enterprise of the clubs ever met with a heartier or more generous mode of approval from men and women outside the federation. The best newspapers in the country have published editorial paragraphs endorsing the bill, and congratulating the club women on their work in its behalf.

REV. DR. W. S. RAINFORD

DR. RAINFORD, LATE OF ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH.

Dr. W. S. Rainford who was rector of St. George's Protestant Episcopal church in New York, has died. He is in Cairo, Egypt, at present, having gone there to regain his health. The letter of resignation was addressed to J. Pierpont Morgan, who is senior warden of St. George's, and was read with much feeling of regret from the pulpit by Robert Fulton Cutting, chairman of the vestrymen of this wealthy congregation. Dr. Rainford became famous for the boldness of his utterances and the merciless manner in which he denounced the indolent rich.

MRS. BROWNING'S HOME.

The cut shows the London house in which Mrs. Elizabeth Barrett Browning, the famous English poet, lived when she was young and from which she eloped to marry Robert Browning. The young woman's father would not permit her to receive male callers, and she used to meet Browning at Arthur Hallam's next door. This locality, Valpolet street, was famous as a literary center, but the writers who once lived in it are all gone. The Barrett house is now occupied by a surgeon.

ITCH—RINGWORM.

E. T. Lucas, Wingo, Ky., writes, April 25th, 1902: "For 10 to 12 years I had been afflicted with a malady known as the 'itch.' The itching was most unbearable. I had tried for years to find relief, having tried all remedies I could hear of. Besides a number of doctors. I want to state that one single application of Ballard's Cream-Lotion cured me of my complaint permanently. Since then I have used the liniment on two separate occasions for ring worm and it cured completely. 25c and $1.00 bottle. Sold by Z. C. M. I. Drug Dept., 112-114 South Main Street, B.

What He Used It For.

Wine-tasting was his business, and he was reputed to be one of the best who followed that somewhat peculiar means of making a livelihood, so when the bet had been made and the money poised, his "backers" were sure of winning. Incidentally, they did.

The subject, blindfolded, was to taste, one after another, the contents of 25 wine glasses, and—if he would win the stakes—name correctly the liquor in each. From one to 24 he went down the line, never hesitating, and always right. At the last one he stopped. It was filled with water only.

He sipped it, turned it over and over with his tongue, asked for a second mouthful, considered it with a most perplexed expression, and then had an inspiration. "Of course," he exclaimed, "it's the stuff I clean my teeth with."—Harper's Weekly.

CURES RHEUMATISM LUMBAGO, SCIATICA NEURALGIA and KIDNEY TROUBLE

"5-DROPS" taken internally, ride the blood of the poisonous matter and acids which are the direct cause of these diseases. Applied externally it affords almost instant relief from pain, while a permanent cure is being effected by purifying the blood, dissolving the poisonous substance and removing it from the system.

DR. S. D. BLAND

"I had been suffering for a number of years with Lumbago and Rheumatism in my arms and legs, and tried all the remedies that I could get from medical works, and also consulted with a number of the best physicians, but found nothing that gave the relief I needed from '5-DROPS.' I shall prescribe it in my practice for rheumatism and kindred diseases."

Just a little thing may cause a lot of trouble. It's by watching the smallest details of manufacture (of course starting with sound wheat) that we are able to turn out such a fine flour as the Fawn brand. Ask any user of Fawn flour what success we have attained in furnishing a capital bread, cake and pie baker.
