

jealous" was one in question by A. Tottenham (conservative) member for Leitrim attributing murders Galway to the action of the land league. The whole proceeding in the House showed a growing friction between the government and the Irish members. Gladstone, in the course of his reply to a question defended the threats of tenants on the Kenmore property on the ground that most immoral doctrines have been preached concerning rent. Arnell defended his advice to withhold unjust rents, and said Foster is not restraining the land lords had violated the solemn pledges of the government and thrown its whole weight on the side of the landlords but the tenants, he declared, would continue to fight the question of rents and he believed they would win, even against bayonets and the police.

Dublin.—Following are the details of the affray between people and police in County Clare yesterday. Eighty policemen proceeded to Bodyke for the purpose of assisting in the eviction of tenants. Bodyke is a small village between Scariff and Tulla, where some military are at present garrisoned. The police while proceeding in small parties to the place of assembly were attacked in detail by the people. Ambulance wagons conveyed the police from Ennis. They were under the command of the County Inspectors. On the way from Ennis a hive of bees was let loose, and the stings of the insects caused the horses to become unmanageable. One maddened beast dashed itself against the wagon and was killed. Mounted orderlies were dispatched to Tulla for the assistance of the military, while in the meantime the police in a united force proceeded to the house where eviction was to take place. It was situated on a hill, and as they ascended toward it, they were attacked by armed men, who from a covert of fences at each side of the road poured a galling fire into the ranks of the constabulary. The latter were immediately deployed in skirmishing order and returned the fire with effect, killing one man and wounding several. The police succeeded in reaching the house and broke in the front door. The rioters rushed through the back door, but several were arrested. Some who attacked the constabulary from behind fences were also taken. The house was taken possession of and the family inhabiting cleared out. While returning with their prisoners the police were attacked and fired upon a second time, one of their horses being shot dead. Mounted men despatched for military aid had to run severe gauntlets, a determined effort being made to prevent their reaching Tulla. They, however, rode into the town through all obstacles. The flying column at Ternoys is under orders to be ready at a moment's notice. The troops even going from Cork to New Pallas.

DUBLIN, 4.—A large meeting under the auspices of the land league was held in the Rotunda. The force which went to New Pallas, nearly 1,000 strong, charged and dispersed the crowd after crossing the bridge. Evictions will be continued to morrow.

New York, 3.—Herald's Limerick: The most imposing military display in Ireland, since the Boycott expedition, was made to day in the eviction of three tenants of Col. Hase, near New Pallas, Limerick County. A large military force, consisting of 350 Coldstream Guards, 100 Scott's guards in an ambulance corps, headed by Surgeon Major Pelly, and six of the engineer corps, arrived at six o'clock this morning, in New Pallas. This place is a small country village, but it is so turbulent that it boasts of the best police barracks in Ireland outside of Dublin. The column was within two hours joined by nearly 300 of the Royal Irish constabulary. At 9 o'clock marching orders were given. A detachment of police going first, then the guards and then more police. In this order they proceeded towards Col. Hase's estate, just outside of New Pallas. Fifty of the guards and a tent wagon was detached, and a camp formed in the green fields, while the main body passed on. After an hour's brisk march under a broiling sun, Gurlabella Bridge was reached, when inspectors went across to examine the bridge, having heard reports that it had been destroyed. It was found to be so, and the engineer thought it could not be repaired without serious delay. The soldiers and police therefore managed to cross in single file along the parapets of the bridge, which were left standing, while the horses went about half a mile down the river, and found an easy ford. This detour caused an hour's delay to the resident magistrate and newspaper correspondents, who were on jaunting cars, and could not cross. About 1,000 men, women and boys who met the expedition at this point, hooted the troops and police, but no violence was offered. Chapel bells were, however, ringing and signal fires were burning. The alarms and smoke of fires gathered people from miles around. While the troops were crossing the river, Canon O'Donnell arrived on the scene and made a speech to the excited people. He urged them vehemently to abstain from giving the soldiers and police an excuse for firing on them. He begged them not to throw stones. The first evicted farm was soon reached after leaving the bridge. It was that of James Kennedy, who had offered the government valuation, as he could pay no more. The guards halted and rested on their arms, while 100 police, with Captain Hatchell and sub-Sheriff Nash and Mr. Goddard, of the emergency committee, with two bailiffs and a nephew of Col. Hare, agent of the estate, entered Kennedy's holding. About 1,000 people congregated in the adjoining fields and closely invested the premises. They yelled and shouted themselves hoarse at the sheriff and bailiffs. The eviction then began. A few broken-legged chairs, some bedding, some plates, a wash bowl and table, and other household furniture, a well-worn Bible, and a few children's copy books were thrown into a heap in the yard and it was all done. But during the progress of the work there were many moments when there was imminent danger of a collision. It appears that a proclamation had been issued the night before by Secy. Foster, warning the people of New Pallas that any assembling for the purpose of obstructing the process of the law would be dispersed by force. With this proclamation, Capt. Hatchell, the resident magistrate, received stringent orders to disperse all such assemblies, and to fire if any stones were thrown. This he was prepared to do, but he begged Canon O'Donnell, who was now reinforced by three other priests, to keep the people quiet and at a safe distance. The people throughout the day, except with their tongues, were perfectly peaceful. There was no doubt, however, that the sub-sheriff and the agent of the estate of Mr. Goddards, of the emergency committee, were desirous of precipitating a conflict. Most angry encounters occurred between these gentlemen and Captain Hatchell, the latter of whom was repeatedly insulted by the sheriff and agent because he refused to scatter the crowd which had gathered outside the yard. The sub-sheriff, a young man who was frightened nearly to death repeatedly, insisted on the crowd being driven further away and kept quiet, though they were as quiet as possible. He threatened to complain to Secretary Foster. Captain Hatchell told the agent and sheriff that he would take note of their impudence. They might write what they pleased. He would give the people such latitude as he could so long as they did nothing offensive. Both the agent and Mr. Goddard left the yard during the eviction and exposed themselves to the people. They seemed to wish to provoke them to some act of violence. The magistrate angrily ordered them not to do so again and told off a personal escort to accompany them wherever they went. He informed them that if they stirred without it he would not be responsible. The conduct of the sheriff was otherwise most reprehensible. It is undoubtedly due to Captain Hatchell and the priests that a collision was averted during the day. The government, by the publication of the proclamation, has taken the first determined step in dealing with the disturbances in Ireland. The real meaning of the action is that the troops and police can fire on the people without incurring any responsibility. It now remains to be seen how the government will act after giving warning of what they intend. The proclamation was posted upon prominent buildings in County Limerick and elsewhere, in the usual terms. In opposition to the above, a "Rory of the hills" has posted up at Loughre, a notice reading as follows: "Liberate the men in prison for the murder of Dempsey and Connors, as the real offender is at liberty. He is an offender only in the eye of the law. The writer of these lines is a man who was engaged and paid for ridding Galway of land grabbers and landlords, which work he will do at any sacrifice. Too long these tyrants have been allowed to trample on the poor people of persecuted Galway. The men to be shot are five in number, three protestant landlords and two Catholics. Does Her Majesty's government think to frighten by coercion or any such means? Coercion has no terrors for me. Rest assured I will do my work before I stop. Away with tyrants. Too long has the country been robbed of its natural wealth to feed the lazy few who call themselves landlords."

The statement comes from Cork that men who have been witnesses of the three great agitations during the last 40 years, describe the present one as far more formidable and difficult to grapple with than that of O'Connell or of the Fenians. It is believed, from the universality of the movement, its widespread ramifications and perfect organization, that the mere suppression of the Land League, a means of public meeting, would not stop the agitation.

Yesterday a party of men assaulted a servant of Farmer Dempsey, who was murderously attacked in County Galway recently. Two farmers have been arrested, charged with being implicated in the assault.

O'Mahoney, a prominent member of Belay Dehob Land League, has been arrested under the coercion act. In spite of a large force of armed constabulary, the people twice succeeded in rescuing O'Mahoney, when finally he was captured. A portion of the mob has started to endeavor to intercept the escort at Skibberein, County Cork.

A serious riot occurred in Cork last evening, houses in two streets were completely wrecked.

James Mannix and son, the latter secretary of Michael Sloanbrough, of the Land League, have been arrested under the coercion act, charged with inciting to riot.

A large party of military went to Milchtown to-day, to aid in evictions. Five persons have been arrested under the coercion act, charged with inciting to riot. Five persons were arrested near Killarney for attacking a house and cutting off tenants.

The following message has been telegraphed to President Garfield by Ryan, from Kilmainham prison: I hope the American government will never submit me, nor the honor of the republic I fought to maintain, to the degradation of an appeal to the benevolence of the cowardly British government, which is incapable of extending to my countrymen the commonest justice.

Limerick, 4.—It is a sad sight to watch the evictions carried on with the assistance of Her Majesty's troops. After Kennedy and his family and household goods were turned out of their home near this city, the door barred up and the police departed, a correspondent returned to the spot where the eviction had taken place. A mother and six little children were sitting or walking about the ruins of their once happy home. There was nothing between them and the blue sky; night was coming on, they had nowhere to go, and thus they were left without a ray of hope to cheer them.

The Coldstream Guards and police proceeded to the next tenant to be evicted, and as these magnificent looking soldiers, the flower of Her Majesty's troops, filed down by the little cabin, one could not resist calling to mind their exploits in England's greatest wars, and comparing them with their present service. They certainly do not look as if they fancy their work.

Saturday evening a disorderly scene occurred at the railway station here, the panic stricken police attacking a quiet crowd of people with the butts of rifles, and afterwards charging them with fixed bayonets.

THE OLD FOLKS' EXCURSION TO OGDEN, JUNE 22d, 1881.

The undersigned committee hereby tender to the old folks of Salt Lake City, aged 70 years and upwards, a free ride to Ogden City and back.

This invitation is extended to person of both sexes of the above age, and of all sects and parties, without regard to faith, race or color.

The Presidency of the Stake and citizens of Ogden have kindly tendered a warm and generous welcome to the excursionists. The Hon. Lorin Farr has offered the free use of his splendid grove for their accommodation. Vehicles will be on hand on the arrival of the train to convey them to it; the Ogden brass bands taking the lead. It is also expected that the aged people of Weber and Box Elder Counties will meet us at the Grove and fraternize with those from Salt Lake City. On the way north, ample time will be given at Bountiful, Centerville, Farmington and Kaysville for the aged residents of each town to meet with and enjoy a friendly shake of the hand with their old friends from Salt Lake City. A limited number of those under 70 years of age will be allowed to accompany the excursionists from each place.

Every effort will be used to render the excursion one of pleasure and enjoyment, not only while traveling but also at the Grove.

The Bishops will please see that the aged poor in their respective wards are provided with picnic and other comforts their condition may require, also with vehicles to convey them to and from the depot, where the street cars are not available.

The crippled and blind are entitled to a companion to assist them on the trip, and this class only.

This is purely an aged or "old folks" excursion, gotten up for the express purpose of giving them a few hours relaxation from their monotonous life, and not for the object of making money. The committee therefore rely upon the generosity of those who appreciate the enterprise to help them out in the matter.

Those disposed to do so will please hand their contributions to the Bishop of each Ward, or to the ministers of either of the denominations to which they belong, and if they are neutral on religious matters, to George Goddard at the Tithing Office, or to C. R. Savage, at the Art Bazar.

The committee announce that 100 tickets will be sold at $1 each to persons between the ages of 60 and 70. More than these will not be sold; first come first served. Parties not provided with tickets will not be allowed to enter the cars. The programme of proceedings at the Grove will be published before the day of the excursion.

W. H. Foster and the Seventh Ward Choral Society will accompany the train.

The Ogden bands have kindly volunteered their musical services during the stay of the excursionists in their city.

All persons over 70, irrespective of creed, circumstance or color, will be entitled to a complimentary ticket, which not only frees them to Ogden and return, but all other extra attentions usually bestowed on such occasions.

The committee are very anxious that no one should be neglected, having an invitation whose age entitles them to one. The lists of names should be sent in not later than June 16th, so as to secure tickets in time, to avoid uncertainty.

E. HUNTER,
In behalf of Committee.
