NEW YORK.—The Herald says, it de-tailed Henderson to ascertain the exact condition of affairs in Cuba and ascondition of affairs in Cuba and ascribes his prompt release to telegrams sent to Havana by Admiral Pazo. Though Henderson is now, it says, in danger of assassination as a suspected person, he will push shead with his impartial mission, for he is a picked man of nerve and is irrepressible.

Sergeant Bates sailed for Europe yeaterday, after flapping his flag through the streets on his way to the steamer, surrounded by a large secont of boothiscks. The Sergeant said he was robbed of $185 at the theatre in this city a few nights ago, which will render him pennyless when he lands in England. He depends now on British hospitality. "I am in good health," he remark-"I am in good health," he remarked, "and expect to win a wager, and when I finish I will raise money some way. I have to dance the highland fling under the flag. I will go from Glasgow to Edinburgh. I will then go to the English border near Carlisle
