RIGHTS OF WITNESSES IN THE SMOOT CASE.

Editor Deseret News-In the investigation of the Smoot case it appears that unless the bonorable committee of the senate is very careful, it will establish a more dangerous precedent than the alleged wrongs it is inquiring into

In speaking thus, I wish to state, what is well known to my friends, that I have been, and am still opposed, owing to the peculiar duties of an Apostle, to uniting the same and the office of senator in one person, so that I am not discussing specially the junior senator's fortunes in one way or another, but beyond his personality, and still more fundamental than the question of his seat, are the other phases of the case, which deal with the committee's right to investigate and inquire into the home life of individuals, and which apparently tend to set aside well known constitutional rights. Whether Senator Smoot consents to President Smith and other witnesses testifying or not, it seems to me that the committee ought to establish a rule that protects witnesses in their consti-tutional right to not be compelled to answer incriminating and privileged questions. Many of the questions ask-ed President Smith tended to violate his personal rights, and the wonder is, un-less there was some desire to expedite the hearing, that the committee did not Work Commenced on Laying Rails On the Sanpete Branch Again.

Old Metals Taken up Now Being Shipped to Crevasse for Road to Asphaltum Beds.

Work has once more been commenced on the laying of heavy steel between Manti and Salina on the Sanpete branch of the Rio Grande Western and this time it is to be pushed through until completed. The steel between Axtel and Salina is now being taken up and shipped to Crevasse on the main line where it is to be laid next week on the new branch road to the asphaltum beds. The light rails that were taken up last year were stacked at Salina for use on the Salina cutoff; however, when that long-discussed piece of grading is finished to connect with the Salt Lake Route the entire cut-off will undoubt-edly be laid with heavy 80-pound steel, to conform with the balance of the trans continental system.

NO NEW CONTRACT.

Grading on the 85 miles, below Callentes on the San Pedro is practically cleaned up and the sub-contractors are moving their outfits out of the coun try. Yesterday two carloads of scrap-ers arrived from the front in Sait Lake and will be dispatched north where oth-er contracts on the Short Line have been secured.

Today Asst. Chief Engineer H. M. McCartney stated that there was now 51 miles of track laid below Callentes and the work of grading was to all intents and purposes completed. Despite the rumer that bids had been asked for for another 50 miles at either end of the existing grade, inquiry at the offices of General Manager Wells and Engineer McCartney today elicited the statement that there had been no bids called for and that there was no immediate probability of construction being Talks of Conditions Encountered in Chicago and the East Generally.

C. A. QUIGLEY HOME.

Manager C. A. Quigley of the Studebaker company returned home yesterday from an extended eastern business and pleasure tour, with Mrs. Quigley. He says that in the far east, business is quiet, if not positively dull, largely on account of its being presidential year, and in New York he does not remember ever having seen it so quiet at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel as well as at the great cafes. However, the middle west is fairly booming, and there is no complaint about its being quiet times there. But in Chicago, the unusually long, very cold spell has badly upset things, and no attempt has apparently been made to clear up the rubbish accumulations of the dreary, arctic winter. Mr. Quigley said the terrible Iro-quois theater horror is still the talk of the town, and Manager Will J. Davis is 20 years older now than he was before the fire. Whether he will be sent to Joliet is a matter of speculation. The great ice blockades in Chicago harbor were something to be wondered at, and the ice was piled so high in the vicinity of the Crib, that the Crib could not be seen at all

Mr. Quigley does not think that the far west will ever be susceptible again to reflex action from commercial panics in the far east, and in the matter of the present stress of financial weather down east, the prosperity of the middle west is too strong a barrier for the wave of depression from the Atlantic coast to reach over into this country. He looks for a good year in the inter mountain region, and on the strength of the outlook he has ordered some large shipments of goods for the Salt Lake establishment.

BERGERMAN GETS LAGOON.

Will Run the Resort Next Summer-Fare Reduced to Twenty-Five Cents.

That ideal pleasure resort at Farmington the Lagoon, has been leased to Jake Bergerman, manager of the Utah Liquor company of this city. This announcement was made this afternoon by General Manager Simon Bamberger, who stated also that while Mr. Bergerman's lease gives him general supervision over the entire property, the La-goon company retains the right to cancel his contract at any time, should he fail to enforce the proper regulations concerning order, or otherwise become lax in preserving the reputation of the Lagoon. Mindful of the general welfare of the public Mr. Bamberger insisted in the contract entered into that all con-cessions in the shape of restaurants bar, etc., must be conduct in first class

Subsequently to this an arrangement was made between the lessee and Mr. Bamberger, as president of the Salt Lake & Ogden Railway company, whereby the fare from Salt Lake to agoon thd return will be reduced to 25 cents during the season of 1904 which opens May 30 and continues until Sept. 15 advise him of his rights. Of what practical value is the right to the writ of habeas corpus, if, rather than to invoke it, we allow our most precious and sacred rights to be infringed.

Another phase of the inquiry is as to the rights of individuals to have their home rights, and the rights of property and liberty sacredly protectand it has been well said of the great common law doctrine of one's right to his home, and the sacredness and pri-vacy thereof, that "Every man's house is called his castle. Why? Because it is surrounded by a moat, or defend-ed by a wall? No. It may be a straw hut; the wind may whistle through it, and the rain may enter it, but the king cannot." So, as above stated, if we drift too far from those established with the rain and of liberty rights of citizenship and of liberty in any inquiry, such a course may do more harm to the public policy of the ration and the state than the alleged offenses that may exist. Personally, too, I desire to say that the fact that some of the witnesses in this case are "Mormons." may tend to cause undue prejudice to exist in the investigation, but being a "Mormon" myself, I desire to say that I allow no men the more than the pression man to go before me on the questions of loyalty and particitism to the instiof loyalty and pawforsh to the hist tutions of my country. The lessons of American liberty, and the growth of freedom in the world are endearing subjects to me, and always have been. Such themes are always inspiring to every freeman, whether he be "Mor-Jew or Gentile, and anything that would tend to interfere with them, would meet with resistance from any spirited man, is said, 'Montineer semper libre," (Mountaineers are always freemen) and this is true with reference to the peo-ple of the state of Utah and the Rocky Mountains, as well as of other parts of the Union. Summer said that the first of rights is equality of rights, and James G. Blaine aptly said, "The first impulse of an American is equality." and so I say that this idea of equality should be maintained in every investi-gation, and before every tribunal. It should be so, or else, as Lincoln says: "All of liberty will be lost, and we cannot "keep the jewel, freedom, in the family of nations." Believing that the committee in in vestigating this matter will view broad. ly the rights of all concerned in it, and consider the great conquests made by Pioneers and settlers of the west as well as the rights of petitioners, I am,

HORRIBLE ROADS.

A Case That Needs the Attention of The Supervisor.

In the police-sourt Saturday Harry Hunter, driver of the Deseret News mail wagon was fined $2 for-driving upon the sidewalk between South Temple and First South Friday afternoon. Before he was fined he made a statement to the court telling of the deplorable condition of the street. Half of it is taken up by railroad tracks and the traveled portion is cut into such deep ruts that it is almost impassable for oaded teams.

Two drays, at the time the offense was committed, were stuck in the mud, hus leaving only a narrow roadway plear and that of course the worst part

On his next trip Hunter drove through the mud hole and his horse stumbled and fell, straining its leg so that it was hame as a result. While the aw should be respected, at the same time the road europuties, should be time the road supervisor should see that the roads are made passable and that drivers bound for the depot are not compelled to take the sidewalk o "make trains."

site for a Church building in Denver. This was only accomplished after se-lecting several locations thought to be suitable, the owners of which refused to be sell for "Mormon" Church purposes. The property secured consisted of two building lots 50x125 feet in total dimensions, situated on the southeast corner of South Water street and West Sixth avenue. On this land was an old building which was soon repaired for tem-porary occupancy. The property and repairs cost upwards of $2,200. All this was fully paid for by March 1, 1902. In 1903, again under the direction of the Elect Presidence, class for a bound of First Presidency, plans for a house de-signed to fill the requirements of a mission headquarters were adopted. The construction work was contracted and on Aug. 24 the ground was broken. Without delay the building was completed, being ready for occupancy on Dec. 1. The property to date has cost a little over $7,000. This amount, which is li-quidated, has been largely raised by the generous contributions of friends in Zion, Colorado and elsewhere.

The mission house is 45x42 feet, is two stories high and is built of red pressed brick. It contains a basement under one-half of the house. On the first floor is an auditorium with a seating capacity of about 200. There are four other rooms on this floor used for Sunday school and mission work. On the second floor are nine rooms used for liv-ing apartments for the missionaries. The whole is warmed by a hot air system and is lighted by gas and electri-city, provided with hot and cold water, sewer connections, etc.

WILL DEVELOP OREGON.

Construction on Columbia Southern Road to Commence Early in Spring.

Portland, Or., March 7 .- It is understood that the contract for the construction of the Columbia Southern railroad from Shaniko to Bend, Ore., will be lef early this month, and that active construction on the extension will commence within the next month and be pushed with all speed possible until the road is completed.

In an effort to avoid trouble from speculators who would obtain property along the right of way for the urpose of mulcting the company, the exact route has been kept a close secret. It has been definitely decided upon, nevertheless, and all rights-of-way, it is said have been secured. It is understood that orders for rails have already been placed in the east and will be on hand by the time sufficient grading has been done for track laying to begin. The completion of this road will mark the greatest step in the development of Oregon that has taken place since the completion of the trans-continental railroads, as it will open up thousands of square miles of territory in central Oregon, which on account of its inac-cessability has hitherto been of little or no value except for livestock purposes.
