TWO VETERANS CALLED HOME.

AT THEIR HOMES IN PROVO.

Former the Oldest Man in the City and Latter One of the Early Settlers of The State—Mrs. Maag Dead.

(Special to the "News.")

Provo, Utah, March 13.—William Harrison, the oldest man in the city, died here last night of general debility. He was born June 15, 1805, at Wheatley, Nottinghamshire, England, and after becoming a member of the Church, emigrated to Utah in 1855. He lived a year in Salt Lake, and then came to Provo, which has been his home ever since. Deceased was a man of strong personality, great force of character, and a useful citizen in the community in all that went to the development of the country. He took an active part in the Indian war, and in all practical affairs connected with the settlement of this part of the state. For many years he was engaged in the dray business, and it is only about three years since he gave it up. He was confined to his bed but two days before his death, although he has been feeble for a good while. Deceased was a faithful Latter-day Saint and leaves a wife, seven children and numerous grandchildren.

The funeral will be held on Sunday at 12 o'clock in the First ward meetinghouse.

AMUSEMENTS.

At the Grand last night the somewhat odd title of the play "Sandy Bottom" had the effect of drawing a good house, and one that voted at the close of the entertainment that its curiosity had been satisfied. Under the name of "Sandy Bottom" is concealed a play full of originality, cleverness, and naturalness. It is well interpreted by a company of more than average ability, a leading member of which is Miss Eva Earl French, whose part of the southern darky mammy was a clever characterization throughout. Edward Allen in the part of Zacchariah, was another amusing feature, while Miss Babcock in the part of the heroine won the sympathies of the audience. The same bill runs tonight and tomorrow afternoon and evening and should be assured a good attendance.

Next Monday's attraction at the Grand is "Human Hearts."

* * *

Another immense house greeted Florence Roberts at the Theater last night and with the rush that is going on for "Zaza," it looks as though her first phenomenal week would be fully duplicated. The bill last night was "The Unwelcome Mrs. Hatch," a play which has been fully reviewed before in these columns. It only needs to be said that Miss Roberts fully maintained her former reputation and that her acting was to the last degree artistic. She was very capably supported as before by Mr. Henderson, Miss Woodthorpe and the other members of her clever company. Tonight "Magda" will be the bill; tomorrow afternoon "Camille," and the engagement ends in the evening with "Zaza."

Young of the Rio Grande Western this morning announced that John Coughlin, roadmaster for the third division (Helper to Grand Junction) had resigned in order to accept a similar position with the Missouri Pacific out of Kansas City, and that Thomas Douglas tomorrow would be given the division.

Mr. Douglas is numbered among the oldest employes of the Oregon Short Line, having been in the employ of that company for the past 20 years. He was formerly roadmaster on the first and second divisions, having the entire track between Granger and McCammon to supervise.

DROPPED OUT OF SIGHT.

C. T. Scott of O. S. L. Missing and Cannot be Located.

The wife and friends of Charles T. Scott, a clerk in the auditor's office of the Oregon Short Line, are at a loss to know why he has suddenly dropped out of sight and from the nature of the disappearance they believe that there has been foul play at work. Scott, who is 26 years of age, left his home, No. 4 Kendall square, on Friday night, when he led his wife to understand that he was going out to meet some friends. Since that time he has not been heard from. The fact that he still has some money coming to him from the Oregon Short Line makes the theory that he has deserted his family one not to be considered seriously when it is taken into consideration that he is known to have but a small amount on him when he left home.

Scott is an Omaha man and came to this city about 18 months ago, when he went to work for the local agency of Armour & Co. He shortly afterwards left this position to go to the auditor's office, where he established the reputation of being industrious and steady in his habits.

Mrs. Scott is left here with her little child practically without funds. She is almost crazed with grief and anxiety and is at a loss to account for her husband's disappearance.

Anthony Sneve, formerly general freight agent of the Colorado Midland, and who for the past two years has been traveling in the Orient, has now gone into the cattle business. He has been staying in Salt Lake during the past week, looking over the situation. He has just returned from a trip to Nevada, where he purchased one of the finest bunches of yearlings in the country from Sam McIntyre. The bunch consists of 700 head of pure bred Galways, every one of them as black as a coal and all of about uniform size. He has made arrangements to have these steers graze this summer on the Colorado Midland prior to shipping them to the eastern market. The price paid for this bunch is not stated, but it is asserted that it is a big one.

BIG DAMAGE SUIT FILED.

Heignez Sisters Want $20,000 From the Rio Grande,

FOR INJURIES RECEIVED

In Sleighing Accident in Which One Of the Party Was Killed—Company Charged with Negligence.

Jean and Addie Hoignez, two of the victims of the bobsled accident on the night of February 15, in which a Rio Grande Western train crashed into their sled and killed one of the party, today filed suits against the Rio Grande Western Railway company, to recover the total sum of $20,000 as damages for personal injuries received by them in the accident.

The accident occurred at the crossing on Eighth South and Fifth West streets and in each complaint it is alleged that the company was negligent in that the said engine was running at an unusual rate of speed, to-wit: 40 miles per hour, and that it gave no signal by ringing the bell or sounding the whistle upon its approach to the crossing. It is also alleged that the defendant negligently allowed a number of box cars to stand on the track at the crossing in such a manner as to obscure the view of the track and approaching trains.

Each plaintiff alleges that she was thrown out of the sled and received cuts and bruises about the head and body and are permanently injured. They therefore ask judgment for $10,000 each.

The car was standing on the Burton switch. The affair occurred on Wednesday night. The boys will probably be arraigned before Judge Diehl tomorrow.

QUOTATION WAS WRONG.

Bingham Con. Stock Did Not Go to $40 in Boston Today.

An early dispatch received by several brokerage firms on Second South street today brought the startling information that Bingham Consolidated stock sold at $40 per share in Boston this morning. The message was twice repeated and confirmed. Upon the strength of this the story found on the mining page of today's "News" was set in type. This afternoon, another message was received, stating that the quotation was erroneous; that the stock should have been quoted at $35.37½, and closed at $35.50 bid. Consequently this correction.

BUSINESS NOTES.

* * *

The remarkable activity of Salt Lake builders in erecting small homes and terraces for people moderately off has so far provided houses that the demand is decreasing, and real estate men do not begin to do the business they did last fall. So landlords are reported as "coming down" in their rents, all of which have a tendency to decline. Leases are now quoted as available at more nearly reasonable prices, where last summer and fall many landlords would only rent from month to month, with the expectation of being able to raise steadily and reap rich returns. Some Salt Lake landlords are interesting studies in the line of human nature. An east side property owner built a house that might with profit rent at $30 per month. She insisted on $50, as the town was at the time short on houses, and people were over paying in order to have a roof over their heads. The house remained empty one year, and then the owner came down to $40. At that figure it was rented about eight months ago by a worthy citizen and his wife. They found the cesspool was built in the front yard directly in front of the house, and was so situated that the flood waters from the street above ran directly into it. Last month the cesspool overflowed into the cellar, and made life a burden for the tenant, but the owner steadily refused to take a step to remedy matters. Moreover, she had put in a furnace, and was making the tenant pay for the same by raising the rent $5 per month. The result is that the house is now vacant, and the chances are that it will remain so for some time.

The local office of the American Bridge company states that no embarrassment will be experienced in this part of the country by the company on account of the strikes in construction work in the east on account of the extensive subletting by the western offices for local contracts. In Chicago trade is dull owing to the strikes, and in New York millions of dollars are held up by people who want to invest in building operations, but are afraid of the labor unions. In New York structural iron workers are demanding 56¼ cents per hour on May 1. They now receive $4 per day for eight hours. In Buffalo the wage is 35 cents an hour; Pittsburg, 45 cents; Boston, 37½ cents and Cleveland, 47½ cents.

The threatened storm failed to materialize last night or today, and it has cleared off bright, and so warm that an overcoat is a burden. The mercury went up to 61 yesterday, the highest notch of the year, and today it is above that figure. ROMANCE NOT OF THE STAGE ALONE

Oakland—A part of the romantic life story of Jean Clara Walters, who was once one of the leading actresses of America, has been made public. The death of Mrs. Walters occurred in this city only a few days ago, and her only daughter, Mrs. A. Fine, did not attend the funeral. That the mother and daughter should be estranged during the last month of the life of the mother is regretted, but that fact only served to accentuate the romance of the noted actress' life and death.

As a girl, Mrs. Walters was a belle of Richmond, in which place she fell in love with and maried Jack Masten, a brother of N. K. Masten, who for many years resided in San Francisco. There were family objections to the marriage, but they were disregarded by the young people, who lived happily until the breaking out of the war, when the young husband cast his lot with the Confederacy and gave his life as the price of his devotion to "the lost cause."

Mrs. Masten, reduced to poverty like many other Southerners, cast about to find means of making a living for herself and her two children, and, going to New York, engaged in concert singing, later taking to the stage, where she met with remarkable success. Her children had been left with relatives and for a time correspondence was kept up. Then came the news that the little ones were dead.

This she believed for years to be true, and, in fact, knew no better until she came to San Francisco and met her husband's brother, from whom she learned that her son only was dead and that her daughter, who had grown to womanhood, was the wife of Dr. A. Fine, who was at that time practising medicine in Watsonville. At that time Mrs. Walters was playing at the old California theater, and a meting between mother and daughter was arranged.

The meeting was a happy one, but for some reason it was long afterward that the relationship was announced, and in the meantime Mrs. Walters kept up her stage work, it is said, against the wishes of her daughter, who years afterward undertook the care of the aged actress. The stay of Mrs. Walters in the Fine home was brief and several months ago she took up her residence in the home of Mrs. Shumate, an East Oakland nurse, who cared for her during her last illness and who will inherit Mrs. Walters' property, which is variously estimated and consists chiefly of money in bank. In Mrs. Walters' will, which was filed for probate a few days ago, Mrs. Fine is remembered with $5 and each of her sons was given $1. The Fines have expressed their willingness to allow Mrs. Shumate to inherit the money.

Strength and Endurance

Are factors of the greatest success. No person can do full justice to himself without them.

In no season of the year are they more easily exhausted than in the spring.

We need not discuss the reason for this here. It's enough to say there is one, and that Hood' Sarsaparilla gives strength and endurance, as thousands annually testify. 8

ABSTRACTS.

Three points to think of when you get Abstracts of Title to Real Estate.

1. Completeness.
2. Accuracy.
3. Responsibility.

The Utah Savings and Trust Co. invites an examination of its complete real estate records, of the methods adopted to secure accuracy, and of its ability to make good any loss caused by error or omission in its abstracts.

The value of an Abstract depends on these three vital points. Insist on an abstract from
