

SOCIETY

Very quiet and informal affairs have marked the week, and even those have been few and far between. Monday was almost totally empty, with the exception of a few of the regular club meetings.

On Tuesday Mrs. John C. Cutler, Jr., was hostess at a delightful Kensington in honor of Miss Antoinette Lambourne, whose engagement has been recently announced. The house was bright with a profusion of flowers, white and yellow chrysanthemums being used in the hall and parlors, and in the dining room red. Here strings of red hearts extended from the chandelier to the corners, the place cards at the various small tables were red hearts, and at the table at which sat the guest of honor, a red heart formed of carnations was the centerpiece, while red ribbon streamers were brought to the four corners. An amusing floral guessing game was enjoyed, the prize going to Miss Lambourne. A parcel shower for the prospective bride was one of the features of the afternoon. Miss Mabel Lambourne and Miss Daphne Bateman assisted the hostess, and 20 guests were present.

Another pretty affair of Tuesday was the tea party given by Mrs. D. R. Gray in honor of Mrs. Charles Wilkes. The rooms were decorated in carnations and chrysanthemums of different hues, and the dining room in pink carnations, the table in the dining room having an artistic arrangement of a basket of carnations as a centerpiece, and smilax strewn about it. A string orchestra rendered delightful music during the afternoon, and Mrs. W. P. Kiser and Miss Alice Goodwin assisted in serving refreshments. The guests of the afternoon were Mrs. David S. Murray, Mrs. Charles Fife, Mrs. T. G. Griffin, Mrs. A. C. Ewing, Mrs. Wing B. Allen, Mrs. W. C. Alexander, Mrs. Lewis Cecil Robinson, Mrs. Browne, Mrs. Clifford Pearsall, Mrs. Wilbur Flagg, Mrs. Margaret Zane Wither, Mrs. Joseph Gallagher, Mrs. Hoyt Sherman, Mrs. James Chambers Dick, Mrs. Allen Smith, Mrs. George Jay Gibson, Mrs. Samuel Adams of Denver, Mrs. Frances Bascom, Mrs. George Y. Wallace, Mrs. J. R. Walker, Mrs. George Downey, Mrs. John Weir, Mrs. Richard A. Keyes, Mrs. William C. Hall, Mrs. Arthur S. Bird, Mrs. William P. Kiser, Mrs. O. E. Cary, Miss Jessie Reinhart, Miss Katherine Geddes, Miss Lisa McMillan, Miss Alice Goodwin, Miss Addie Zane, Miss Holmes.

Mrs. Julian Knight, who was here for a few days this week from Montana on her way to California for the winter, received her friends informally on Tuesday at the home of her sister, Mrs. G. F. Putnam.

Mrs. George W. Lambourne entertained at a pretty affair this afternoon in honor of Miss Antoinette Lambourne, the rooms being effectively decorated, and a number of friends enjoying the affair.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Lynch entertained the Neighborhood club at their home on Monday night.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Baptist church was entertained at a pleasant social last night at the home of Mrs. Darms.

Mrs. Justus Jungk entertained the members of her club on Monday.

Mrs. Sol Siegel will give a tea next Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Allen M. Smith of Fort Douglas will give a bridge tea next Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. J. T. Smith, Jr., announces the engagement of her sister, Miss Edna Pope, to T. J. Tappee of Portland, Or.

The marriage will take place the latter part of this month.

News arrived this week from Chicago of the marriage there of Mrs. Nellie Rasche and Mathew Cullen, both of this city. The bride is a sister of the late Mrs. Cullen.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lee announced the engagement of their daughter Lottie to Mr. George Warr. The marriage will take place Nov. 23, 1905.

An affair which partook more of the social than club element was the meeting of the Daughters of the Revolution.

FUR-TRIMMED BEDINGOTE.

The redingote is a favorite mode. The fur-trimmed model is noted as some of the newest redingotes. An attractive model is fur-trimmed all about the edge and has a broad collar and a turnover collar of fur. The coat opens to show a very long fitted vest, which is ornamented with embroidery and handsome buttons. Some of the handsomest gowns of the season are being made with lace pelisses or redingotes. These are particularly light when worn over net dresses. A handsome model in heavy Irish lace is half length and has short sleeves. It is worn with a trained net dress.

tion on Thursday. The chief feature was an elaborate dinner in celebration of Thanksgiving. The members met at the home of Mrs. Phoebe Y. Beadle, which was effectively decorated in the national and club colors, flags being draped about, and yellow and blue flowers were used in profusion. The dinner was a most bounteous one and the table a picture with its huge pumpkin as centerpiece, cut in the shape of a basket and filled with fruit, while all about were tiny flags and flag napkins aiding in the effect. Covers were laid for 18. Two papers were given during the afternoon, one on General Heath by the hostess, and another on Patrick Henry by Mrs. Emmeline B. Wells. The affair was delightful in all details.

The Strollers' club will give its opening dance Friday evening, Nov. 24. The hall will be beautifully decorated in Japanese style.

On Thursday Miss Marge Miller entertained at bridge tea in honor of Mrs. John Miller of Trail B. C., and Miss Lella Trent of California, about 50 guests being present. The rooms were prettily decorated in autumn flowers, and prizes in the contest were awarded Miss Mary Kirkpatrick and Miss Minnie Sadler.

At the post on Thursday evening, Col. and Mrs. Lookwood entertained informally at dinner, covers being laid for seven, and the table prettily adorned with yellow chrysanthemums.

A pretty affair of yesterday was the anniversary dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Griffin, who celebrated their wedding date in an elaborate spread with eight guests present to enjoy the pleasant affair.

Next Wednesday night the officers of the National Guard will give a large reception and dance at the armory.

The marriage of Miss Josephine Eisenmann and Mr. Arthur Wilson took place last Tuesday, the ceremony being performed by President John M. Knight of the Episcopal stake. A reception followed later in the evening at an enjoyable program being rendered and about a dozen guests being present.

Capt. and Mrs. Brian H. Wells entertained informally at dinner at the post on Wednesday, their guests numbering Col. and Mrs. Lookwood, Capt. and Mrs. Sturges, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Caine.

On Tuesday Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Franklyn entertained at dinner in honor of Miss Charlotte Druehl of Chicago and Willard Donaldson of Colorado Springs.

Vines and autumn flowers were the decorations at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Druehl on Wednesday in honor of Willard Richardson of Colorado Springs. Covers were laid for eight.

Mrs. Charles Wilkes was guest of honor at a delightful luncheon on Thursday given by Mrs. Leonard M. Bailey.

Miss Ethel May Bishop and Mr. Paul F. Barton were married on Thursday at the home of the bride's parents the rooms being effectively decorated and a wedding supper being served later for the family and intimate friends. The bride was prettily gowned and the young couple were showered with good wishes for their future happiness.

Mrs. Henry W. Doscher was hostess at a pleasant affair yesterday afternoon, her function being a Kensington.

On Wednesday and Thursday Mrs. Del Wilson and Mrs. G. L. Clift were hostesses at two pleasant Kensingtons, about 15 guests being entertained on each day. The parties were given in honor of their aunt, Mrs. Clinton of San Francisco, who is visiting them, and were altogether enjoyable. The decorations were exceptionally pretty, the parlors having dark red and pale pink chrysanthemums combined with ferns, the library pine chrysanthemums alone, and the dining room yellow and white, the table having a centerpiece of flowers, with smilax strewn from the centerpieces to the corners. The hours were pleasantly spent with sewing and conversation.

Lieut. and Mrs. Goodwin will entertain at dinner at the post tonight.

The Ladies' Literary club was the scene of a delightful affair last night, the Doublet club giving their first dance of the season there, and scoring a social success.
