

BREACH OF THE CIVIL SERVICE LAW

Reform League Alleges a Violation on Part of Salt Lake Office.

THE POSTMASTER REPLIES.

Holds It to be His Paramount Duty to Get Nish Out in Emergencies and Use Entire Force.

The following appeared in the New York Mail and Express, which came to hand today:

The investigating committee of the Civil Service Reform league has made a third report on the practice of appointing as laborers, persons without examination, and later assigning them to clerical or other classified work. The report is the result of specific investigations into the present operation of the civil service law, made in Washington and other cities.

In the beginning the committee calls attention to civil service rule III, which provides that:

"No person who is appointed as laborer or workman without examination under the civil service rules shall be assigned to work of the same grade as that performed by classified employees."

Notwithstanding this rule, the committee found that in the patent office a considerable number of laborers are doing the work of classified clerks. Other violations of the rule were found in the postoffice department and in the postoffice in Philadelphia and at Salt Lake City. The report concludes with this recommendation:

There seems to be just one way in which this evil may be corrected, and that is to remove the motive for making appointments under section 1753 of the revised statutes, which authorizes the establishment of a registration system by which laborers may be appointed according to priority of application (modified by special facts showing adaptability for the work to be performed), as has already been done by the navy department. A similar system exists for the appointment of laborers in the city of Boston and other cities. It is understood that the war department favors a similar registration system, and there is no good reason why it may not be adopted throughout the entire government service. It is believed that such a measure would be of incalculable advantage to the civil service of this country. Although the civil service law does not require that laborers shall be included in the classified service, it does not prohibit their inclusion, and the President undoubtedly has the right to establish such a system under section 1753 of the revised statutes, which authorizes him to prescribe such regulations for the admission of persons into the civil service as may best promote the efficiency thereof.

The report is signed by William Dudley Foulke, Richard Henry Dana, William A. Aiken, Charles Richardson and George McAneny.

When seen in relation to the above so far as pertains to Salt Lake, Postmaster Thomas laughed and said, "Oh, those awful postal laws."

Mr. Thomas then proceeded to explain that the only breach, if it could be called a breach, of the postal laws, that his office had ever been guilty of was something that occurred in the winter of '98. As many will doubtless remember there was a lockout on all the eastern mails during that winter, and when the trains were held up, the mail was piled down in the Salt Lake office. The business men in the city had been on the point of nervous exhaustion waiting for their mails, and when it at last came Mr. Thomas used every man in the office to get it out as quickly as possible, and one of the men was a laborer about the office.

"There was a civil service examiner in the office at the time," continued Mr. Thomas, "and he made a mistake in the example of himself and reported the matter as a violation of the postal laws. But I also forwarded a report to Washington." Here Mr. Thomas turned over some files and old letters and read the following from the report: "I have the rapid dispatch of the work of the office has been the paramount duty. I conceive this to be imperative under the law. It has never occurred to me that to utilize all the force in emergencies was a breach of the law, and I concluded by the office that he would do the same thing again."

"I have never heard from the report since," said Mr. Thomas, "and I suppose I never will. I have an able bodied man here in the office whom I could use to advantage at times, yet I am not permitted to because he is only a laborer here, if I were to use him I would be breaking the law, and dealt with as a culprit, like I was trying to steal something."

THE UNION RELENTS.

Concludes to Cancel the Fine Against
T. G. Allen.

The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, local Union No. 57 of Salt Lake City, has evidently relented from the position it recently took in imposing a fine of $100 against Mr. T. G. "The fine of $100 levied by this union against you has been withdrawn. Trusting you will employ Union men in the future, we remain,

Respectfully,
"Union Men No. 57, I. B. E. W."

Joseph Seal, a man 61 years of age, was accused of allowing his express wagon to remain at a place at the Oregon Short Line depot otherwise than that designated by the police, where such vehicles shall stand. The defense was that the defendant had applied for a license which allowed him to stand on the disputed place. The court said there seemed to be no intent on Mr. Seal's part to violate the ordinance and he discharged the accused. Old man Seal wanted to know what he was going to do about the money he had paid in.

"Well," said the court, "you had bet-

JAMES IVERS IN BIG MINING SUIT

E. W. Griffiths and D. H. Peery Jr.
Undertake Legal Proceedings.

TO RECOVER $190,998.30 CASH

Allege That Defendant Failed to Deliver 6,000 Shares of Silver
King Stock as Agreed.

Suit was filed in the Third district court today by E. W. Griffiths and D. H. Peery, Jr., against James Ivers, to recover damages to the amount of $190,998.30, with interest at 8 per cent. The suit was brought against Mr. Ivers for alleged failure to deliver 6,000 shares of Silver King mining stock. The complaint alleges that on September 17, 1900, Ivers agreed to deliver to the plaintiffs within two weeks 6,000 shares of the Silver King stock for which plaintiffs were to pay $32 a share or $320,000. Plaintiffs say that they deposited the money in McCornick's bank to the credit of Ivers, but that he refused to keep his contract with regard to the option obtained on the stock. It is alleged that the stock has since increased in value and the damages prayed for cover the amount of dividends that have been paid on the stock since the date of the alleged option.

Mr. Ivers admits that Peery and Griffiths asked him to sell them a share, and that he told them that he was willing to do so if they would put up a $10,000 bonus as an evidence of their good faith. The money was not put up, he says, and the matter he left for California. There was never any agreement, he says.

The stock is now in a pool with heavy owners, and is held at $70 a share.

RICY H. JONES COMES BACK.

Returns to the Fray Armed With Affidavits from Box Elder.

Attorney Ricy H. Jones of Brigham City is attempting to get even with Attorney Charles Stanley Price for the charges made by Price against him during the arguments for a new trial in the case of the Western Loan & Savings company against Ludwig H. Berg and Elsie Berg, his wife, a few days ago.

Attorney Jones at that time drew down upon himself the censure of the Supreme Court for attacking the signed affidavits of Attorney Price. He is now in his bill of exceptions on an appeal in the case.

Now comes Ricy Jones armed with affidavits by George L. Graehl, ex-plaintiff of the Western Loan & Savings company, and county clerk of Box Elder county, and H. N. Bowring, the agent of the loan and savings company, which are duly filed with the clerk of the Supreme Court.

Graehl's affidavit is to the effect that on January 4, 1901, Charles Stanley Price, attorney for the Western Loan & Savings company, obtained an affidavit from him stating that he (Graehl) had received several letters from the loan and savings company, inquiring when the case against him would come up. Graehl says that the affidavit was made through a misapprehension as to the facts and that he only received one letter, dated Dec. 10, 1900, from the company's attorneys asking when the case against him would come up. He says that he did not answer, not being able to furnish the desired information.

Bowring, the company's agent, deposes that the information in the affidavit, which he made, but did not sign, was correct, and that he swore to it, but did not affix his signature as it occurred to him that his company might not like his doing so.

THE DOXEY TROUBLE.

Surprising Statements by Persons
Who Know Little of Utah Affairs.

In relation to the difficulties in which Samuel Doxey, the principal of the Hamilton school, finds himself, it is apparent that there is a discrepancy somewhere. Last evening three or four of the lady teachers of the Hamilton school went before the school board committee on teachers and school work and laid before it many real or imaginary grievances against Mr. Doxey. One young lady displayed particular animosity against the principal, and while talking to the committee she said that she went to school here when the schools were first established, "about ten years ago."

Mr. Moyle thought it was an exhibition of lamentable ignorance on the part of a school teacher, who knows so little about the history of Salt Lake, that she would say that the public schools opened here ten years ago, and he expressed himself to the young lady about in that way. Then she hotly replied:

"I mean when Dr. Millsbaugh opened the schools here," Mr. Moyle said, "or members of the committee had not the impression that Dr. Millsbaugh opened the public schools here, one member of the committee stated today that the grievances against Mr. Doxey seemed to him slight indeed, and the prejudices that had been manifested he thought he could account for in some other way than the alleged law discipline or any other personal defect of Mr. Doxey."

Several of the lady teachers of the Hamilton school were seen today, including Miss McManis, Miss Larsen and Miss Boyd, who said: "We have nothing of a detrimental nature to say of Mr. Doxey. His attitude towards us has been that of a gentleman, and so far as we have seen his discipline has been excellent. We relate that because of certain conditions that prevail at the Hamilton, Mr. Doxey has had to put up with much more than we have been used to. He has been patient under conditions that we would not submit to, and our only surprise is that he has borne it so long without saying anything."

A number of the leading patrons of the Hamilton school were also seen and they stated that they had no fault whatever to find with Mr. Doxey in any particular.

President Newman of the school board stated this afternoon that the board stated to him that some of the teachers were trying to make a mountain out of a mole-hill. So far as he had been able to observe there was no occasion to find fault with Mr. Doxey.
