PROBABLY FATAL ACCIDENT.

Joseph Bryan Run Over by a Wagon Loaded With Two Tons of Ore at Tooele today.

A special to the News by telegraph states that Joseph Bryan, a young man, twenty-three years of age, met with a severe and perhaps fatal accident this afternoon. He was riding a mule between Ogden and Rockwood. He was driving a four horse team attached to a heavy wagon loaded with four tons of ore. The horses became frightened and ran away, pulling the wagon over the hill chain, to which the mule was attached, broke, and he was pulled off the spring seat and over the dashboard by the lines of the team. He fell on the double track and was crushed to a minute himself. In the attempt he fell to the ground and it is reported that two of the wheels passed over his body. His condition is now critical. He was also badly bruised.

Later in the day he was brought to Tooele and Dr. Davis was sent for an examination of the time of receiving the injury. The physician is unanimous and it is thought that recovery is impossible.

THE GRAND JURY REPORT.

They Go After the City Coal Dealers in Good Shape.

WHAT WORK HAS BEEN DONE.

Committee's Statement as to the Condition of Various Public Institutions.

The grand jury came into court this afternoon at 2:30, headed in their first report and were discharged for the term. It was as follows:

Hon. Charles H. Zane, judge of the Third judicial district of the Territory of Utah.

The grand jury, convened for the September term, recommended the following:

"We find that September 12, have been issued twenty-eight dry cases, of which forty are hereinafter set out under the laws of the United States. On the territorial laws enacted we find that fifty cases have been issued. Of the United States cases we have received twenty judgments and ignored four cases.

"We have examined one hundred and sixteen cases in territorial cases and one hundred and United States cases, a total of two hundred and thirty-two.

On September 26, a committee of five, selected by the foreman, visited the county jail and the city jail and the state prison, and in the grand jury, in a body, visited the penitentiary. The reports on the four above named institutions are attached hereto.

Having concluded our labor, we respectfully ask to be discharged.

Respectfully submitted,

C. H. BARNARD, FOREMAN.

HALF-LAKE CITY, Nov. 18, 1892.

The report as to the penitentiary was generally of a satisfactory character, the only suggestion being as to an improvement in the matter of sevengrass and other vegetation.

That as to the county jail was likewise favorable in most respects.

The city prison was not commended upon favorably. The ground floor of the old stone jail building, the entrance, stairs, and platform were found entirely unfit for use. This is positively no ventilation, and the heavy stone walls make them damp and clammy to an extent that utterly unfit them for human habitation. This jail has been condemned, but has not been demolished. On every street corner that had visited it in many years the committee, therefore, suggested without waiting further words on the part of the jailor, that the same be now brought down, the entire structure of the district court, and its influence levered out, and the further use of the building as a city jail.

The county poor farm, as the committee found it, existed after and the county was asked to furnish what was desired. There was an present eighty inmates—a larger number than the present buildings should be required to accommodate, crowding the capacity of the inmates. In the opinion of the committee, the present accommodations are entirely inadequate, a farm comprising not less than 100 acres should be provided, and buildings constructed thereon, "the proper comfort of those unfortunate."

The next and last report is one of considerable importance: "Your committee urge you to submit the following as the conclusions of the grand jury on the matter of weighing coal by the ton." The committee, however, in the matter of the guardianship of George L. Rasmussen, a minor, case dismissed.

We have examined a great many witnesses and from the evidence given we are satisfied that there is something radically wrong, that the committee has been compelled to weigh the coal, though they are not in a position to say exactly what is amiss.

Mr. Clark will not be present in person but has authorized Mr. D. C. Adams to act in his stead on the occasion.
