PRISONER SEEKS TO END HIS LIFE

Roy Foster Used a Piece of Baling Wire to Slash at Windpipe.

WORK OF DEADLY DERRICK

Stranded German Boy Helped by County—Railroad Refused To Act.

Ogden, Sept. 4.—While temporarily insane, caused by excessive drink, Roy Foster, a prisoner at the city jail, late yesterday afternoon attempted to commit suicide by cutting his throat.

With blood streaming from a wound in the side of his neck, Foster was vainly trying to end his life when Chief Browning entered the jail to see another prisoner.

As soon as Foster saw the chief he told him to keep out, or he would kill him if he cut across the cell. The other officers were summoned, and with combined efforts succeeded in overpowering the demented man.

In answer to questions as to how he inflicted the wound, which was about two inches deep and two inches long, Foster said that he did it with a piece of baling wire.

On Wednesday afternoon, while Jallor Joe Critchlow was in the jail corridor, Foster jumped upon him, and had it not been for the arrival of two negro trustees, Critchlow would have been roughly dealt with.

Foster's case is said to be that he comes from a good family in Montana, and he talks disparagingly of a girl who is waiting to marry him.

Republic, July 4, for England, for had been made for the Mormon company, whereby they were provided with a dining room entirely to themselves, also a sitting room. While these were not as elaborately furnished as some others, yet the meals provided were as good as any on the ship and the service was just as efficient as the best.

By the special arrangement, the company bound for Utah was able to hold morning and night devotional services. Hymns were sung and daily prayers were offered to the God of heaven for His protection over all on board, captain, officers, crew and passengers, during the voyage.

The conduct of our fellow passengers towards us was marked by kindness and consideration. Although it was generally known that we were a party of Mormons, I do not recall an unpleasant remark or incident reflecting on our religion or respecting us personally.

Upon arrival in Liverpool, the utmost courtesy was extended towards us by the government officials. In anticipation of a return homeward under similar happy auspices, I took passage westward bound on the same ship, Aug. 15. On the vessel there were some returning missionaries, as well as a company of members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, who were emigrating to the United States.

It is pretty generally understood that the Mantle delegation to the judicial convention will go instructed to support Lewis Stinson for district attorney, which will no doubt cause some dissatisfaction and it will be hard to tell the outcome.
