

A MISSIONARY'S EXPERIENCE.

ROTTEN-EGGED AND HOUNDED BY THE "CHRISTIANS" OF INDIANA.

Elder Vance Sheffer, of Loa, Piute County, returned last Sunday evening from the Northwestern States mission. He started from here on the 12th of last April, and has labored while away in Montgomery, Park and Putnam Counties in the State of Indiana. The first month he was a co-laborer with Elder Reuben R. Farnsworth, and the rest of the time with Elder James B. Heywood. He traveled 855 miles on foot, and attended 36 meetings. He was mobbed twice, once with Elder Farnsworth and the other time with Elder Heywood.

On the first occasion the brethren were on their way home, after holding a meeting, with a young man who had invited them to pass the night at his house. As they were going through the crowd and were about a rod from the school house, a voice behind them shouted, "Now," and a volley of eggs came whizzing towards them. Elder Sheffer was missed, but four of the missiles struck Elder Farnsworth in the back. The young man they were with was hit by a goose-egg on the back of the neck, where he was suffering from a boil, with such force as to almost knock him down. He went back and took hold of one of the assailants and shook him right heartily, showing fight and telling the cowardly gang that they had "jumped up the wrong man" when they threw eggs at him. Several others in the crowd had also been struck. The mob threw no more, but got into a row among themselves and several were locked up. Elder Sheffer heard afterwards that a number of the more prominent of them, fearing the Grand Jury would get hold of them, went and complained of themselves and were fined for the part they had taken in the disgraceful transaction. This affair happened at Oakland School-house, Montgomery County.

The next time, when Elders Sheffer and Heywood were assaulted, was at Smartsburg in the same county. They had held a meeting in a school-house in the town, and not being invited home with anyone, obtained permission of the young man who held the key to stay in the school-house over night. About half an hour after the congregation had dispersed, four young men entered the building, one of them pretending to be looking for a pocket knife. But this was only a pretext, a common thing with men about to do something they are ashamed of, and pretty soon they informed the Elders they had come to lock up the house and wanted them to get out. The brethren made no reply, but left the building, and had no sooner started down the street than, without a word of warning, they were pelted with eggs (rotten ones this time), by a mob of men and boys who were waiting for them in the middle of the road. Elder Sheffer was hit on the back and legs in four places, but Elder Heywood was not touched.

They continued walking down the street, and the mob, having used all their eggs, began throwing rocks at them, telling them they would get worse than that if they ever came back there. The mob followed them out of town and had stopped about a hundred yards behind, when one young man overtook the missionaries and told them some of the gang had gone round to head them off, and they had better hide themselves. He let them know where they would find a house lately vacated, from which all the furniture had not been moved, and said that if they could get clear of their pursuers, they might go there and stop all night. He then went on, seeming fearful of being observed talking to them, and the brethren then slipped off to the right and went through a patch of woods, across a corn-field and into another grove of timber, where they remained till their persecutors, whom they heard hunting for them, had gone away and all was still. They then went according to the young man's directions, and found the empty house and a comfortable bed which they were in a good condition to appreciate. It was then midnight. Next morning they went on their way, acknowledging the hand of the Lord in their rescue, and in providing them with a place to sleep the night before. This incident took place in the early part of last August. The mobbing at Oakland was in May.

Elder Sheffer, with his companion, was threatened on several other occasions, and at one time had his indoor meeting prevented and was forced to hold it outdoors, through the failure of the director to come according to agreement and open the door. This was in Putnam County, the latter part of August. At another time they had procured the Methodist Church, near Crawfordsville, Montgomery County, but on going to fill their appointment, found that the trustee who had promised them the house had locked it up and gone off, taking the key with him. On another occasion, in the same vicinity, they were threatened with mobbing if they held a meeting, and concluded not to do so. Still again, one afternoon, a mob had been raised by a man and his son, and the door of the "Christian Church," near Brown's Valley, the same county, had been closed against the brethren when they, having been told if they were not out of there within six hours they would be invited to a "neck-tie social," talked with the crowd that had gathered round them, until they completely turned the tide of prejudice, which at once set in in the direction of the instigators of the excitement, who were ridiculed with such energy by their sometime supporters that they were only too glad to leave and go home.

The above are samples of the experience he met with at different times during his mission. He baptized no one, but left his testimony with many. He is suffering from an ulcerated eye, which necessitated his release, but with that exception his health has been excellent. He has made arrangements with the Deseret Hospital to remain here about a month and have his eye treated by Dr. R. B. Pratt, the oculist.

The venerable Alvan Clark of Cambridge, Mass., telescope-maker, and the best grinder of lenses in the world, is now nearing 80 in perfect health.

A MARVELOUS STORY

TOLD IN TWO LETTERS.

FROM THE SON: "28 Cedar St., New York, Oct. 28, 1882.

"Gentlemen: My father resides at Glover, Vt. He has been a great sufferer from Scrofula, and the enclosed letter will tell you what a marvelous effect has had in his case. I think his blood must have contained the humor for at least ten years; but it did not show, except in the form of a scrofulous sore on the wrist, until about five years ago. From a few spots which appeared at that time, it gradually spread so as to cover his entire body. I assure you he was terribly afflicted, and an object of pity, when he began using your medicine. Now, there are few men of his age who enjoy as good health as he has. I could easily name fifty persons who would testify to the facts in his case.

Yours truly, W. M. PHILLIPS."

FROM THE FATHER: "It is both a pleasure and a duty for me to state to you the benefit I have derived from the use of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Six months ago I was completely covered with a terrible humor and scrofulous sores. The humor caused an incessant and intolerable itching, and the skin cracked so as to cause the blood to flow in many places whenever I moved. My sufferings were great, and my life a burden. I commenced the use of the Sarsaparilla in April last, and have used it regularly since that time. My condition began to improve at once. The sores have all healed, and I feel perfectly well in every respect—being now able to do a good day's work, although 73 years of age. Many inquire what has wrought such a cure in my case, and I tell them, as I have here tried to tell you, AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. Glover, Vt., Oct. 21, 1882.

Yours gratefully, HIRAM PHILLIPS."

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA cures Scrofula and all Scrofulous Complaints, Erysipelas, Eczema, Ringworm, Blotches, Sores, Boils, Tumors, and Eruptions of the Skin. It clears the blood of all impurities, aids digestion, stimulates the action of the bowels, and thus restores vitality and strengthens the whole system.

DROWNING.

The following simple directions will be found beneficial in a case of drowning:

Keep the head raised, dry the body, and rub with hot cloths, let one person press on the chest with his flat hands, and another, also, with his flat hands, shove the belly up to the chest, then suddenly take away their hands, in this way by performing the action of respiration, endeavor to restore breathing. A hot bath is also of great value. Have several assistants to rub the body with their hands, clear the mucus from the mouth, hold the nose and then suck out the foul air with a tube and blow in fresh air as represented in the cut; place hot bricks and bottles of hot water in the armpits, between the thighs and at the feet, keeping up the friction the whole time; irritate the nostrils with a feather or hartshorn and administer a clyster of warm turpentine. If possible apply electricity. This has been known to restore persons after being under the water twenty-five minutes.
