Interesting Discourses at Tabernacle By Elders Hinckley and Young.

That the greatness of Washington ens due mainly to his loyalty and devotion to duty, was the contention of Elder Briant S. Hinckley, a speaker at the tabernacle yesterday afternoon The great American who was first war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen was compared to David, the man after God's own heart. Elder Richard W. Young. who followed, spoke in a similar strain saying that loyalty is a dominating characteristic of the Latter-day Saluts. The services were presided over by characteristic of the Latter-day Soluts. The services were presided over by President Anthon H. Lund. Elder Sey-mour B. Young offered the opening prayer and benediction was pronounced by Elder Heber J. Grant. The choir sing the hymns, "Softly Beams the Sa-cred Dawning," "An Angel From On High," and an anthem, "There's a Sound From the Vale." The words and music of the latter below by Orson F. Whit-ney and Evan Stephens, respectively. The closing hymn "Our God We Raise to Theo," was sung by the congrega-tion and choir.

ELDER B. S. HINCKLEY

When a mun speaks in the name of the Lord, he will speak the truth, and the truth is always acceptable to the ever after righteousness, said Elder Drug.

By Griffin, at Schramm's. If I streak, I repaper.

The area of the people of this land pay hearing to a great and good in George Washington, as similar-pect was shown a short time ago to other filustrious name, the bearer which was born in February. When is tower high among their fellows, is led to ask what was there in h a one to make him greater than ters. Men are apt to look to outer pearances, but God looks into the pherd boy, was chosen king of Is-l above his more kingly oppearing dhees. The characteristic that made a choice for the lofty position, was hoice for the lofty position, wa alty. This attribute was upper is loyalty. This attribute was upper-orst in George Washington. He could asily have become a dictator, but for is lofty ideals of loyalty. Others here were more brilliant, more intel-gent, unone politic, but in loyalty of out. Washington outshone them all. Incidents in the life of David, tending is show the loyalty that characterized is life were were that the speaker life were recited by the speaker, faming with the combat between the piling and Goliath, the Philistine at. Henceforth the once shepherd giant. Henceforth the once shepherd was as a collosus, despite his humility and reservation. David was loyal to his king, although that king constant-ly sought to take his life, without cause. David never failed in his cour-age to face the propositions of life, yet when his wayward son wrought his own destruction, the king father wept before all Israel and refused to be comforted. The Latter-day Saints are loyal. Some may sometimes have been indiscreet, may sometimes have been indiscree but their loyalty can not be questione by any who know their true history by If of there is any one thing that will attone more than another for wrong-doing it is loyalty to things just and true. Any man who fails to perform his duty is lacking in loyalty. No man can afford to deviate from the circht either in religion. In politics or true right, either in religion, in politics or in anything else. Civic righteousness is as necessary as religious righteousness. ELDER R. W. YOUNG.

eral boys badly. It assess that the dog while challed up had been pelted with rocks and otherwise ill treated by boys of the neighborhood, and the dog remembered it. When he was turned loose he started out on the war-path, biting every small boy he could find on the streets.
