

PROHIBITION LOSES IN ALABAMA

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 29.—All indications point to a majority of between 18,000 and 20,000 in Alabama against the prohibition constitutional amendment today.

Chairman J. Lee Long, who has been in charge of the fight against the amendment, claims that the majority against the amendment will be fully 20,000.

Early returns indicated a landslide against the amendment, and succeeding bulletins fully bore out the early indications.

Jefferson county, in which is Birmingham, the largest city in the state, in spite of the fact that the fight has been concentrated here, gave a majority of more than 1,000 against the amendment. Mobile, Montgomery and Cullman counties show the largest majorities on the victorious side, and apparently the amendment carried in only three counties, Talladega, Macon and Sumter, with Lee in doubt.

Today's election cannot be regarded as a straight anti-prohibition victory because of personal politics injected into the issue. Its association with the administration of Gov. Comer and his reported ability to name a successor to the governorship in Judge S. N. Kier, author of the prohibition bills, have figured prominently in the result.

A SIGNIFICANT FEATURE.

A significant feature of the result is the fact that sentiment against the amendment is so widespread. Rural precincts, small towns and cities for the most part, returned substantial majorities on the winning side.

A fact of especial interest in today's election was that it was the first time in the history of the state that an expression of the whole electorate had been obtained on prohibition.

The state-wide prohibition bill was passed by a legislature elected on a local option platform.

In Birmingham the election was the most exciting ever witnessed here. Hundreds of people crowded around each polling place, women and children sang, and brass bands stationed by the anti-amendment forces played patriotic airs.

Each polling place was enlivened by fist fights, there being so many that it was impossible to keep track of them. Feeling was so high that a few words were sufficient to bring on a blow. Practically every other voter was challenged and required to make affidavit that he was a qualified elector. This delayed the casting of ballots, but the total vote was heavy.

DEEP FEELING DISPLAYED.

As an instance of the deep feeling displayed, a prominent minister went to the polls and a young woman attempted to pin a white ribbon upon him. The minister declined, telling her that he considered it improper for young ladies to speak to men on the streets to whom they did not know. The woman began crying, and the minister apologized for hurting her feelings, but he said he considered the polling places improper places for young women to be. The affair was discussed all over the city.

Oscar Hall, tax commissioner of Baldwin county, fell dead at his home a few minutes after voting for the amendment. Physicians said death was due to heart failure induced by excitement.

NOVEL RELIGIOUS SERVICE.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—A novel service was held yesterday at the Forty-ninth avenue Episcopal church when $500 was deposited in a chest called a "Joah chest," as a result of one month of self-denial on the part of the donors.

Clara taboored for a month, the purchase of a much desired pair of gloves postponed, huns cut out of the morning meal, walks instead of street car rides, were some of the factors that made the offering possible, as related by the pastor, Rev. Alfred Peaché.

The chest was named in honor of the Biblical character, who took a chest, as the story reads in Second Kings, and "bored a hole in the lid and set it beside the altar and there received all the money that the people brought into the house of the Lord."

The chest was placed beside the altar of the church and the entire congregation filed by and placed their offerings in it. The offering will be used in re-decorating the auditorium.
