CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, 7.—Frelinghuysen moved that the House joint resolution proposing the sixteenth constitutional amendment prohibiting the appropriation of any school funds for the support of sectarian schools be referred to the judiciary committee. The American people were in earnest on this subject; but the amendment proposed did not meet the case. Congress had no power to enforce the amendment provided some State made such appropriation. Neither did it prohibit the appropriation of money to theological institutions, nunneries, houses of the Good Shepherd, &c. He submitted a substitute, and moved its reference to the judiciary committee.

Sargent and Christiancy submitted substitutes and moved their reference to the same committee.

Christiancy said this prevented the State from appropriating from the school fund, but did not prohibit it.

Morton said it did not prohibit a state from appropriating money of the general fund for the support of sectarian schools, nor prevent a state from levying a tax for the support of such schools, but simply prohibited a state from using a part of the funds set apart for public schools for the support of sectarian schools. He hoped it would be properly amended and sent back to the House.

Saulsbury said this was not the proper time to discuss this amendment. He had no doubt that the object of the House in passing the amendment was to remedy the cry raised for political issues.

The House amendment and all the substitutes were referred to the committee on judiciary.

The Senate resumed consideration of the unfinished business, being the resolution of Morton to print 10,000 extra copies of the President's message concerning the Hamburg massacre, upon which Edmunds was entitled to the floor.

Edmunds met the argument that this was an election document by saying that every document affecting the welfare of the people ought to be a political document for the use of the people.

Pending discussion Allison, from the conference committee reported the river and harbor bill as agreed to; ordered printed and laid over.

The Senate resumed consideration of Morton's resolution.

Logan addressed the Senate at considerable length, showing how crafty men were endeavoring to sway the masses with the cry of corruption and frauds of the republican party. Prisons, jails and penitentiaries were brought to aid men to deal in such slanders. He expressed the opinion that conspiracy exists, as much to-day as before the war, to obtain possession of the Government by means of fraud and violence, murder of negroes and intimidation of voters.

Eaton said he entered with regret into the political discussion. He would keep in the bounds of the resolution and rules of order. He honored the office of President, if not its occupant. He criticised the President for exceeding the bounds of the dignity of his office and arraigning people of the States not inquired about by the original resolution, and said he had entered the political ring as an informer. He charged that the information was not true. The message was untrue concerning Louisiana and Mississippi. It was political slander against the democratic party. Morton insulted the whole democratic party in saying Tilden dare not denounce Southern outrages. Every democrat condemned it, and he hurled back the charge in the Senator's teeth as false and not to be tolerated, and it would not be tolerated while he had a seat on the floor. He had no doubt as to Tilden's election, and when Tilden came into power the United States would see what he had done in New York in the reduction of taxes and reforms. The United States has been paying seven hundred and fifty millions annually and could not stand it. The man who attempted here to sneer down the honest language of an honest man like Tilden, and then went before the country, would be sneered down himself.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, 7.

Douglass introduced a resolution allowing the investigation committee to report any time during the session.

The republicans refrained from voting on this, showing that no quorum was present.

Warrants were issued for the arrest of the absent members. Sergeants appeared with the absentees in custody, who made the usual excuses, and much amusement ensued.

Chittenden was granted unanimous consent to make a miscellaneous remark. He was at once interrupted by shouts of "Louder! Louder!" from the democratic side, which the speaker rebuked, and Chittenden continued chiding the members for childish conduct, and moved that the House adjourn; lost.

Cox suggested as a compromise that the commission give two days' notice of reports. This was agreed to, with a provision that the majority and minority reports be made simultaneously.

McKee Breaking Down—More Crooked Whiskey.

CHICAGO, 7. — The Post's St. Louis special says McKee is breaking down under his confinement and the hot weather. The jail is hardly habitable on account of the heat.

The entire force of the Internal Revenue Department was to-day busy seizing crooked Kentucky whiskey, and up to noon 200 barrels had been seized. Affairs seem to indicate that there is a large whiskey ring in Kentucky, which causes some excitement.

Heavy Mortgages.

ALBANY, N. Y., 7.—A mortgage for $32,000,000 at seven per cent. and $2,000,000 at six per cent. given by the Central & Hudson River Railway Company to Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., and W. H. Vanderbilt, was recorded in the county clerk's office here to-day.

Drowned.

FAIRPORT, N. Y., 7.—Cora A. Brown, of Pennsylvania, and Carrie Statt, of Ohio, were drowned while bathing to-day.

The Indian War—Movements of Crook and Terry.

ST. PAUL, Minn., 7.—A Bismarck special of to-day, to the Pioneer Press and Tribune, says the steamer Carrol arrived this morning from General Terry's Camp, having on board General Forsyth and twenty sick and wounded soldiers. The Carrol, on her way up, and when near the mouth of Powder River, found Indians on both sides of the river, and for two and a half hours they kept up a running fire upon the boat, only wounding, however, one soldier slightly. The steamer Far West, after leaving Buford for Terry's Camp, found her load too heavy and discharged part of her cargo, principally grain, about seventy miles. On her return for the balance of her cargo, the Indians were found to have destroyed most of the grain, and at this point the Indians attacked the Far West. She had on board Col. Moore, with three companies of soldiers. The Indians stood on both banks of the river, and, with oaths, dared the Colonel with his troops to leave the boat and land. A few shells were fired from a twelve-pounder, which scattered the Indians, and they disappeared from the south bank. Dave Campbell, pilot of the Far West, with two scouts, then landed and went out to reconnoitre, but found that the Indians were endeavoring to cut them off from the boat. They began an exciting race for the boat. The horse of one of the scouts lagged and was shot as was his rider soon after by the same Sioux who shot the horse. Dave Campbell and a companion turned to rescue him from the scalping knife, which they did by killing the Indian, finally Grant Marsh, captain of the Far West, with fifteen soldiers, despite the orders of Col. Moore, assisted the party. Moore threatened to courtmartial these men, but did not do so. His conduct is denounced as cowardly.

General Terry has fallen back eighty miles from his camp on Big Horn, and is now near the mouth of the Rosebud. Prairie fires envelope the surrounding country for miles, and Terry finds grazing scarce.

A scout from Gen. Crook got there on August 2nd in a destitute condition. Crook was seventy-five miles away then, and the Indians were harassing him as he attempted to reach Terry. The Indians picked off his men, stole his stock and kept his march down to about six miles per day. The men in both commands are reported as much disheartened. The Yellowstone is falling rapidly.

Gen. Crook, from his camp on Goose Creek, July 16th, wrote to General Terry as follows: General, I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of your letter of July 6th, brought into this camp on the 12th instant by Corporal Stewart and party of the Seventh Cavalry. I had determinsd to attack the Indians immediately after the arrival of my supply train, but about that time I learned that the hostiles had received reinforcements, and also learned that I could get eight companies of the Fifth Cavalry, so I concluded to defer the movement until the arrival of these companies, which have now been ordered here. I expect to be joined by them about the last of the present month. On the 5th inst. I sent out a party of mounted troops under Lieut. Sibley of the Second Cavalry to escort one of my guides who was to reconnoitre the country in our front. When they reached the point near where the Little Big Horn debouches from the mountains they came upon a large party of hostiles, and were convinced that a village of the main body of the hostiles is in that vicinity. Since then I have had nothing definite more than seeing large smoke down the Powder and Tongue rivers, but am of the opinion they are still in the locality before indicated by the reconnoisance. I am rationed to the end of September, and will share with you and yours everything I have as long as it lasts, should the two commands come together. Whether the Indians shall be found in this or in your department, if you think interest of service will be advanced by a combination, I will most cheerfully serve under you. When the fifth arrives here I expect to have about 1,600 fighting men, besides some friendly Indians, and it is my intention to move without further delay. It is also my intention to leave the wagon train on Tongue river, near here. It comes out from the Big Horn range, so should you not meet any large train of Indians going down the river, or not receive any further information, it probably would be best for you to move for my supply camp. We broke camp on South Goose Creek this morning, and are going gradually along the foot hills towards Tongue river, and anticipate getting about as far as the north fork of Goose Creek about the same time my reinforcements come up.

The Elections—Democratic Gains.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., 7. — The democratic gains every where warrant the statement that the democrats have 30,000 majority. Many counties heretofore republican send democrats to the legislature. Seven congressional districts are democratic and one republican. Everything is peaceful.

Confirmations.

WASHINGTON, 7.— The Senate confirmed H. F. French, of Massachusetts, assistant secretary of the Treasury, vice Burnham resigned, Charles C. Tompkins, U. S. marshal for Colorado.

Wilson's Cross-Examination.

Wilson put in as evidence the Barnard letter with the President's endorsement, which the President received at Long Branch in 1875, and sent to the Secretary of the Treasury, the address being in his own handwriting.

Proposed Amendments to the Constitution.

Frelinghuysen's proposition, also submitted as a substitute, is in the following terms: "No State shall make any law respecting an establishment of religion, or permitting the free exercise thereof. No public property and no money raised by taxation in any State or Territory or district, or derived from public lands or other public sources, shall be appropriated to any school, educational or other institution that is under the control of any religious sect or denomination, and no such appropriation shall be made to any religious sect or denomination, or to promote its interests, nor shall any public money, land or property be divided between religious sects or denominations.

The substitute proposed by Senator Christiancy is as follows: No State shall make any law respecting the establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; nor shall Congress nor any State, raise by taxation, donate or appropriate any money or property for the support of any church or religious society, nor for the support or aid of any theological school or seminary, or of any school or seminary teaching peculiar religious doctrines, or subject in any respect to the control or direction of any church, religious society, sect or denomination; and no special or denominational system of religion or religious belief shall, in any State or Territory, or in the District of Columbia, constitute any part or course of the study or instruction in any school or institution of learning, supported wholly or in part by taxation, or by donation of any money or property by any State or by the United States.

Accepts the Nomination.

INDIANAPOLIS, 7.—General Ben Harrison, to-night, accepts the republican nomination for governor, and says he will make the canvass a thorough and active one.

TURKEY.

The Families of the Murdered Consuls have Received Their Indemnity.

CONSTANTINOPLE, 7.—The Porte has paid to the families of the German and French consuls who were murdered at Salonica, the paid-up indemnity of 40,000 pounds.

The new Governor of Salonica, accompanied by three officers of high rank, will proceed thither to read in the presence of the troops the judgment against those implicated in the outrage.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Turks Burning and Destroying Everything in their Way.

LONDON, 7.—A dispatch from Semlin, to-day, says Gurgasvatz is in flames, and the Turks are burning and destroying everything in their way. It is said the Servian General Tshunageff is daily losing popularity.

Refuses Every Imputation — Will Maintain Her Treaty and Rights.

The court has discharged the rule nisi against Howe for libelling Sir Charles Russell, member of Parliament, charging him with financial legerdemain in connection with Peruvian bonds. Defendant retracted without reserve every imputation.

In the House of Commons, this afternoon, Hon. Robert Burke, one of the under secretaries for the foreign department, in reply to a question by J. Bright, liberal member for Manchester, said German residents had been exempted temporarily from the war tax in Cuba pending negotiations now in progress. England is still negotiating for her subjects, and will examine and maintain her treaty and rights.

The Latest Wonder.

The readers of the Traveler have been made acquainted with the wonderful inventions of Prof. Bell, by which musical and vocal sounds can be and have been sent over the electric wires, but few if any are aware of the wonderful results which are sure to follow these improvements in telegraphy. A few nights ago Pro. Bell was in communication with a telegraphic operator in New York, and commenced experimenting with one of his inventions pertaining to the transmission of musical sounds. He made use of his phonetic organ and played the tune of "America," and asked the operator in New York what he heard.

"I hear the tune of 'America,'" replied New York; "give us another."

Prof. Bell then played "Auld Lang Syne."

"What do you hear now?"

"I hear the tune of Auld Lang Syne, with the full chords, distinctly," replied New York.

Thus the astounding discovery has been made that a man can play upon musical instruments in New York, New Orleans, or London, or Paris, and be heard distinctly in Boston! If this can be done, why cannot distinguished performers execute the most artistic and beautiful music in Paris, and an audience assemble in Music Hall, Boston to listen?

Prof. Bell's other improvement, namely, the transmission of the human voice, has become so far perfected that persons have conversed over 1,000 miles of wire, with perfect ease, although as yet the vocal sounds are not loud enough to be heard by more than one or two persons. But if the human voice can now be sent over the wire, and so distinctly that when two or three known parties are telegraphing, the voices of each can be recognized, we may soon have distinguished men delivering speeches in Washington, New York, or London, and audiences assembled in Music Hall or Faneuil Hall to listen.—Boston Traveler.

Directions for Restoring Persons Apparently Dead from Drowning.

[Circulated by the Humane Society of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, 1875.]

1. Lose no time. Carry out these instructions on the spot.

2. Remove the froth and mucus from the mouth and nostrils.

3. Hold the body, for a few seconds only, with the head hanging down, so that the water may run out of the lungs and windpipe.

4. Loosen all tight articles of clothing about the neck and chest.

5. See that the tongue is pulled forward if it falls back into the throat. By taking hold of it with a handkerchief it will not slip.

6. If the breathing has ceased, or nearly so, it must be stimulated by pressure of the chest with the hands, in imitation of the ung natural breathing; forcibly expelling the air from the lungs, and allowing it to re-enter and expand them by the elasticity of the ribs. Remember that this is the most important step of all. To do it readily, lay the person on his back with cushion pillow, or some firm substance under the shoulders; then press with the flat of the hands over the lower part of the breast bone and the upper part of the abdomen; keeping up a regular repetition and relaxation of pressure twenty or thirty times a minute. A pressure of thirty pounds may be applied with safety to a grown person.

7. Rub the limbs with the hands, or with dry cloths, constantly, to aid the circulation and keep the body warm.

8. As soon as the person can swallow, give a table-spoonful of spirits in hot water, or some warm tea or coffee.

9. Work deliberately. Do not give up too quickly. Success has rewarded the efforts of hours.
