

CRUSOE'S ISLAND COLONIZED BY GERMANS—At a distance of less than three days' voyage from Valparaiso, Chili, and nearly in the same latitude of this important port, on the coast of South America, is the island of Juan Fernandez, where once upon a time Alexander Selkirk, during a solitary banishment of four years, gathered the materials for De Foe's "Robinson Crusoe." This island, little thought of by the inhabitants of the Chilean coast-land, has lately become of some interest by the fact that in December, 1869, it was ceded to a society in Germany, under the guidance of Robert Wehrham, an engineer from Saxony, for the purpose of colonization. The entrepreneur of the expedition, Robt. Wehrham, left Germany eleven years ago, passed several years in England, served as a Major through the war between the American States, and was subsequently engaged as engineer with the Ceropasco Railroad, in South America. He and his society, about sixty or seventy individuals, have taken possession of the island, which is described as being a most fertile and lovely spot. They found there countless herds of goats, some thirty half-wild horses and sixty donkeys, the latter animals proving to be exceedingly shy. They brought with them cows and other cattle, swine, numerous fowls, and all the various kinds of agricultural implements, with boats and fishing apparatus, to engage in different pursuits and occupations. The grotto, made famous as Robinson's abode, situated in a spacious valley covered with large fields of wild turnips—a desirable food for swine—has been assigned to the hopeful young Caillian gentleman to whom the charge of the porcine part of the society's stock has been entrusted, and he and his proteges are doing very well in their new quarters. Juan Fernandez is one of the stations where whaling vessels take in water and food.

BERLIN DEMORALIZED.—The accounts received on all hands from Berlin point to a terrible state of disorganization in the capital of Germany. Rents have doubled, and whenever a family is evicted the populace take sides with it, attack the police, and very often win the battle. As it is the official theory that the soldiers must always win if called out, at any loss of life, and as a Berlin mob is composed of soldiers who do not like to fly, the Government is most reluctant to appeal to the military, and the police are very often hardly treated. Crime, too, is rapidly on the increase; Berlin is full of swashbucklers who get into wilful quarrels with civilians; and the sanitary condition of the city is the worst in Europe. There is no scientific drainage whatever, the death rate is nearly double that of London, and if the cholera effects a lodgment it may become epidemic. The Government, however, with $1,000,000,000 taken from France, will not give the Berliners even the $40,000,000 extorted from Paris, and the town council cannot get rid of its old tradition of saving pennies. It would cost cash to drain.—Ex.

The Mother of a Tribe.—Mrs. Mary Gray, of Greenup county, was born in Prince George's county, Md., March 9, 1759. She has lived to the advanced age of one hundred and thirteen years, and is probably the oldest person in the United States. Her descendants number one thousand and seventy-six persons, as follows:

First generation—children,	13
Second generation—grand-children,	65
Third generation—great-grand-children,	617
Fourth generation—great-great-grand-children,	337
Fifth generation—great-great-great-grand-children,	44

Moncreux D. Conway is charmed with the preaching he hears from the village pulpits of France. He urges American students of theology to "devote half their time abroad in listening to the French Catholic preacher, and studying the most effective pulpit style in the world." The fact that the sermons are always spoken, never read, is one cause of their power; but greater than this, according to Mr. Conway, is the system of rotation, by which almost every Sunday is signalized by the advent of a new minister. No political orator could draw audiences, from week to week, in the same place; but he can stump a State and be eagerly listened to everywhere he goes. If this is true in politics, it is true in religion, about which the average man cares a great deal less than about the former.—Ex.

WAGONS!
Manufactured at South Bend, Indiana, Expressly for the Utah Trade, from the celebrated Indiana Timber thoroughly Seasoned and Carefully Selected.

HUNDREDS are ready to testify to the superiority of these Wagons as there are OVER FIVE HUNDRED NOW IN USE in Utah and giving perfect satisfaction. In the Canyons they stand without a rival for lightness of draft and durability. I warrant them for one year and stand ready to make good all defects both of timber and workmanship. The demand hitherto has been so great that I could not keep supplied, but from this on I hope to be able to fill all orders promptly and at prices as low as any first-class Wagon. I hope my many friends will give me a call before purchasing elsewhere. I have removed from my old stand to the lot adjoining the 13th Ward Assembly Rooms where I shall be pleased to see my old customers and as many new ones as will favor me with a call.
In addition to the above I have a full line of Wagon Timber and I on of the very best quality at the lowest prices, also Horse and Cattle Shoes, Corn Shellers, Cane Mills, Hay Presses, &c., &c. Note the address, immediately West of 13th Ward Assembly Rooms, Salt Lake City, w82 1m
