PLANS OF STAGG.

Physical Director of Chicago U. Seeks Conquest of East.

Alonzo A, Stagg, director of physical culture at the University of Chicago, plans a new conquest of the east with his track athletes. For many years he ias sent a one-mile relay team to the Pennsylvania games, and twice he has eturned with his team a national champion. A third time his quartet ran such a close second that the judges ever were able to agree unanimously n the winner. Now the Midway chief is figuring on a two-mile relay team made up of half-milers to send against the 880-yard run-ners from Yale. Princeton, Harvard, Dartmouth, Cornell and Pennsylvania. His two-mile quartet is to be in addi-tion to his one-mile team, which will again race at Philadelphia.

again race at Philadelphia.

Stagg has been keeping a close tab
on his track material, despite the long distance that has separated him from the campus during the winter months. the campus during the winter months. He has the best squad of quarter-milers that has ever trained on the Midway, and if one man regains his eligibility a two-mile team will be gathered together. The athlete is James Light-body, Olympian champion and world's here generally. Lightbody found school world different to comprehend and see work difficult to comprehend, and so the faculty asked him to keep out of the limelight of the athletic world for a whife. Recently, however, he is said to have broken all past records in his studies and the chances are for his re-turn to track work. Lightbody, if he runs, will be a member of both the one-mile and two-mile teams.

DON'T LIKE BENCH.

Ball Players Object to Acting as Substitutes.

A Cleveland dispatch says: Leovile may think that the job of a substitute who warms the bench most of the year is a soft snap, but that is not the way the sub looks at it. A man who adopts professional baseball as a means of securing his livelihood wants to be in there playing—no warming the bench for him and watchwarming the bench for him and watching his teammates win and lose. If he has red blood in his veins, and the large majority of the ball players have, he wants to be in there fighting day after day instead of keeping the water tank company.

Now Cleveland has these substitutes

--Perring, Nill and Hickman. Neither of the latter pair knows what it is to stay on the bench very long at a time. When with Washington Nill was in the game nearly every day, al-though only a substitute, being shift-ed around from third base and short-where he has so many friends. But when the campaign becomes warm you can bet that Hickman will edge up on the bench and sigh because he is not in there regularly. He will not wish any of the regulars hard luck, but he will wish he were in there just the came.

he will wish he were in there just the rame.

And that is George Perring's way of thinking also. Better be a regular in a class A league than a bench warmer in the big league. He wants to go in and try to knock the opposing ritcher off the slab. He wants to show the people around the big circuit that there are lots of worse third sackers than he that are considered fixtures in fast company. And can you blame him? But on the other hard, if Somers and Kilfoyl are willing to pay the money to have a man of Perring's ability on the bench to take Bradley's place in case the latter is hurt, can you blame them for doing so? As many a baseball chieftain has remarked: "A team is no stronger so? As many a paseball chieftain has remarked: "A team is no stronger than its substitutes," and Cleveland will do well to keep every utility man that looks as if he possessed major league railber. It may be that a happening would be a miracle. Not in the history of the Cleveland Americans has the team been able to go through the season with its infield intact for half the season. Of jourse, it would be mighty fine to have the unexpected take place, but it would be rather
