flas Full Cosfidence as to the Outcome of the Approaching Battle.

Headquarters of the Russian Army, Godzyadani, Manchuria, June 6 .-- Undismayed by Rojestvensky's defeat and full of confidence as to the outcome of the approaching battle. Lieut.-Gen. Linevitch is for war to the bitter end, and he believes that the Manchurian army is now strong enough to assume the aggressive,

To a question put to him by the correspondent of the Associated Press, to whom he granted an interview today. as to whether he was for war or peace, the commander-in-chief raplied firmly and without the slightest hesitation; "Most certainly I am for war, I am sodller. 'The emperor's will is, naturlly, my law; but my voice now, as fore, is for the continuance of the

The Associated Press correspondent is informed that reports have been receiv. ed at army headquarters from Vladivostok indicating that the naval defeat was due largely to lack of leadership was due largely to lack of leadership after Rojestvensky was wounded, the engagement having been carried on practically without signals after the first hour, and no attempt being made to adapt the movements of the fleet to meet the maneuvers of the Japanese. Nobody on board any vessel in the fleet was in the secret as to Rojestvensky's plans, the commander-in-chief's only confidant having been Rear Admiral Volekensam, who died early in the fight.

Up to the time of the battle, these reports say, fortune favored the Rus-slans, there being almost no sick in the hospitals and all the ships being in good condition. No one in the fleet cherished any il-lusions. At the most it was hoped that enough vessels would reach Viadivos-tok to threaten Japan's absolute con-trol of the sea, and to make the Jap-

Fol of the sea, and to make the Jap-anese pay as dearly as possible for ev-ery ship lost. The hopes of the Rus-sians went no further than this. The Russian ships had enough coal to reach Viadivostok, but there was an inadequate supply of shells and am-munition for a prolonged battle.

Count Cassini, the Russian ambassat-dor, remains without advices from St. Petersburg that throw any light on the probable policy of the czar. The am-bassador has not yet received an ac-knowledgement of his long cablegram of hist week reparding his conference. Knowledgement of his long cablegram of last week regarding his conference with the president. The cablegram was sent not for the purpose of transmitting any message to the czar, but, acting on his own initiative, the ambassador made a heautiful report of what was described at the time as an "informal and general conversation." No formal index of mediation was No formal tender of mediation was nide, nor was any reported. The ampassador, however, felt that his govermient should be informed of the views expressed by the president in favor of peace, and therefore incorpor-ated them in his cablegram. It is ex-pected that later on the Russian em-bassy here will be informed whether the result of the battle in the Sea of Japan has affected the determination of the St. Detections proceeding the of the St. Petersburg government to continue the war. Any information on this subject will be promptly placed before the president. Peace talk was temporarily supplanted in diplomatic circles today by com-ment upon the resignation of M. Delment upon the resignation of M. Del-cases and the developments in the Mo-roccan situation. It is believed here, however, that the effect of the retire-ment of the distinguished diplomatist will not be to increase the opportunity of the president and the ambassadors at Washington in their efforts toward beaue usual attoms. seave negotiations.
