PLAIN TALK To Catarrh Sufferers.

Every Person suffering from catarth in its many forms, knows that the com-mon lotious, salves, and douches, do not cure. It is needless to argue this point or to cite cases of failure, be-cause every victim of catarthal trou-ble knows it for himself if he has tried them

CLEVER CAPTURE OF BURGLAR.

A call was sent to the police station late yesterday afternoon for an officer to go quickly to 151 Twenty-seventh street. Detective Pender, who was at the station, responded, and upon arriv-ing at the house he entered and there found that Mrs. Jones had cornered a burglar, who gave his name as George Welch, who was only released a few days ago. Ile was turned over to the officer and taken to jail. Welch had un-observed entered the house and was about to help himself to the silverware, about to help himself to the sliverware, when his presence was discovered by Mrs. Jones, who kept watch on him thi the officer arrived. Welch pretended to their room in the court house yesterday and would not speak until he was given a severe shaking, which seemed to bring back his usual ability to use his tongue (he the way to the malice station tongue. On the way to the police station he used abusive language to the officer. At the police station his name was called for by Desk Sargeant Ternis and dumb, until he was told that unless he gave his name he would be thrown in the dungeon and without any hesitation the name of George Welch was uttered by the man.

MRS. GLOVER ARRESTED.

This morning Mrs. Jennie Frier Glo-ver was arrested by the police on the charge of gand larceny. The defend-ant is a waitress in the Central restaurant, and her arrest grows out of the following incident: A few days ago a well-to-do sheep man went into the res-taurant to get a meal. On paying for it prior to leaving he accidentally drop-ped a $100 bill and a $50 bill in greenbacks on the floor. Mrs. Glover found the money and turned the same over to Mrs. Wells, the proprietor of the restaurant. Later it appears that Mr. Glover, husband of the waltress, and a man named Christensen, secured the money. A couple of days ago they were arrested on the charge of grand lar-ceny. Today the attorneys for all of the accused asked for a change of ve-nue from Justice Joseph Hall's court Hall's reported favorably on the petition of the Provo Meat company, to be permitted to extend the glass front of their building on Academy avenue eighteen inches over the sidewalk. Considerable discussion was indulged in on the report, there being many of the council of the opinion that to grant the petition would be an injustic to others whose buildings were not so extended. The refour. George H. Brimhall and others peti-
