

NOTORIOUS NEGRO WOMAN ARRESTED

Deputy Sheriff Placed Alleged Female Pickpocket Behind The Bars.

CLASH BETWEEN OFFICERS

Charge Made That Policemen Are Warning Crooks the Sheriff's Men Are After Them.

Ella Branch, a notorious negro woman of the town and an alleged pickpocket, was taken into custody last night by Deputy Sheriff Russell. She was locked up in the county jail on the charge of soliciting and will remain there until she furnishes bonds in the sum of $200 or until tried by the court. The woman was arrested at Third South and Franklin avenue and Russell asked a stranger to call a carriage so he could take the woman to the county jail. The man called the patrol wagon instead and when the wagon arrived the deputy sheriff spurned the offer of the policeman to transport the dusky woman to the county jail. Russell practically told the policeman that the sheriff's office did not hanker after the help of the police in rounding up women of the town and the parasites who live from their shame.

POLICE WARN CROOKS.

The incident of last night is all the more interesting in view of the charge made recently that policemen warned the crooks that the county authorities were after them. That the two departments are working at cross purposes is freely alleged. It is claimed that the police are doing all they can to keep the women in the city and the sheriff's force is making strenuous efforts to either drive them out of town or land them in jail.

The Branch woman arrested last night is the one who was shot some time ago during a row in a house of ill fame. She was shot by Mary Jarrett, but the latter escaped punishment on the plea of self-defense. Last night deputy sheriffs again made the rounds of the tenebrous district on the watch for violators of the law, and some of the officers walked about the streets which for months have been known as the haunts of negro female pickpockets and robbers, but the lawless element are "wise" to the program of Sheriff Emery and most of them are under cover.

COAL STRIKE ENDED.

Conference Results in Signing of Agreement Which is Old Scale.

(Special to the "News.")

Cheyenne, Wyo., Oct. 2.—When the conference of coal mine operators and miners took a recess for luncheon yesterday it was announced that an agreement had been reached, and that the strike would be ended during the afternoon. It has been learned that this was done and the Wyoming coal strike is now a thing of history. The scale of wages and regulations adopted are practically what were in force before the strike. Each side made concessions, however.

FIGHT WITH TELEPHONE POLE.

Patrolman Olson arrested a party by the name of D. Wilkinson this afternoon at Second South and Main streets. The officer said Wilkinson was very drunk and was engaged in a serious altercation with a telephone pole. It was Wilkinson's first offense, and on his promise to "be good" in future he was released by Judge Whitaker.

CHARGED WITH ROBBERY.

Patrolman Hinton this afternoon swore to a complaint against John Carol, charging him with robbery. It is alleged that Carol on Sept. 27 stole a watch valued at $12 from A. L. Folger, on First South street, between Main and West Temple street.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

Dr. Charles E. Plummer of the board of regents, addressed the male student body of the state university this morning. He spoke of the evils of vice from the doctor's standpoint and directed his remarks actively to the point. The talk was much appreciated by the students and afforded them the opportunity to become cognizant with many useful facts a young man should know.

The associated student body held a meeting this morning and elected two officers to replace those who were elected last year to their positions but did not return. Neil Judd was elected treasurer and Prof. G. A. Overstrom, the faculty representative on the athletic council.

AUBSED A HORSE.

A complaint was issued today from the office of the county attorney, charging Peter Melos and Gus Culver with cruelty to animals. The men are accused of having driven and worked a horse that was unfit for such purposes, from the alleged fact that it was lame and emaciated. The complaint was sworn to by J. A. Lisle.

CITY COUNCIL FAILS TO MEET

Political Distraction of Week Responsible for No Quorum.

COMMITTEES HOLD SESSION

Paving of Exchange Place to be Recommended—Saloons Promise To "Be Good."

There was no meeting of the city council last evening, owing to the fact that a quorum could not be mustered. When council adjourned Tuesday night there remained considerable unfinished business, and it was decided to meet again during the week, but the program failed of fulfillment as indicated, doubtless owing to the distraction of so many political conventions.

Meetings were held, however, of the engineering and waterworks committees, and a number of items of business were considered. The first named committee will recommend to the council that the petition of Samuel Newhouse for the paving of Exchange place be granted. The engineer has been instructed to compute the city's portion of the improvement, which will pertain only to the Main and State street ends of the project. A six-inch water main will be laid along the same thoroughfare, at an approximate cost of $1,200 to the department.

To the city engineer went the petition of F. S. Murphy and others asking that Second avenue be resurfaced with asphaltum, that the amount of expense may be determined.

SALOONS WILL BE GOOD.

The committee on licenses of the city council has been instructed that McCoy and Mead and P. E. Peterson, whose licenses were held up by the chief of police for misbehavior, have promised to "be good," and they will be permitted to continue business unmolested. Election time is approaching, and it won't do for the administration to antagonize so important an element of "Americanism," as the keepers of dives and their patrons.

AHEAD OF CONTRACT.

Davis & Heuser notified the committee that sidewalk extension No. 156 would be completed by Oct. 10. The firm had until Dec. 2 to do the work, the contract having been awarded last May. The work was held up for two months, but when once started the undertaking was rushed, and if all goes well will be finished in 10 days.

FIFTIETH YEAR TODAY

W. A. Needham Receives Handsome Diamond Ring from Z. C. M. L. Employees as a Reminder.

"The truthfulness of the old adage, 'One touch of nature makes the whole world kin,' was brought home to W. A. Needham last evening with greater force, probably, than at any period of his 28 years of service for Z. C. M. L., when the employees of the retail dry goods department, over which he presides, presented him with a handsome diamond ring in commemoration of the fiftieth anniversary of his birthday. For some time preparations have been quietly under way to bring about the surprise that culminated so successfully last evening. Mr. Needham is the head of the retail dry goods department, and yesterday was the eve of the fiftieth anniversary of his birthday. As the doors of the big institution closed behind the last customer, the dry goods clerks hurriedly assembled in the suit and cloak department in eager anticipation of the function.

Supt. Webber made the presentation speech and prefaced his remarks by saying he felt honored in being asked to represent the employees on this occasion. One of the pleasing and satisfying features of association with Z. C. M. L., he continued, was the readiness shown by the workers to assist one another in times of adversity. When sickness comes the helping hand is extended, and in times of bereavement one can look for sympathy and consolation from the fellow workers in the store. Upon this occasion, however, Mr. Needham, we have assembled in your honor, as I understand tomorrow is the fiftieth anniversary of your birthday. You have ever been a cheerful and willing worker, your department has been ably managed, and we desire that your fiftieth birthday be marked by this little token of respect and esteem. When you put it on it will remind you of friends, and 50 years hence I trust you will look back with satisfaction and say, 'It is just 50 years ago today since I was presented with this token of love and esteem.'

For a few moments Mr. Needham was completely overcome. Drawing himself together, however, he said: "You have not only taken my breath, but also my speech." In a few appropriate words he thanked those present for their kindly interest in his behalf, and also for the beautiful token that had been handed to him. He would ever appreciate it, not alone for its intrinsic value, but for the sentiments of love and affection with which it is entwined. "May our associations in the future be as pleasant as have been the associations of the past, is my earnest wish."

This afternoon a reunion of Mr. Needham's family takes place in celebration of the jubilee anniversary at the family residence, 126 South State street.

SHOT DUCKS TOO LATE.

"BIG BEN" IS NOW BEING TRAINED

How Horses on the Fire Department Are Taught Their Lessons.

THE PRELIMINARY TRYOUTS.

Latest Addition to Fine Equine Collection in Salt Lake Service Promises to be Perfect.

If you desire to see a most interesting performance go over to the fire department headquarters and watch the firemen train the new horses, recently purchased by Chief Glone and Captain Ayland. It is worth while to watch the intelligent animals go through the various evolutions necessary to make them qualified for the fire service.

A few days ago Captain Ayland purchased a handsome horse from a Wellsville citizen, paying $200 for the magnificent 1,600 pounds of horse flesh. The new addition to the superb equine collection in the Salt Lake fire department is ideal. His name is Ben; named after Ben Haywood. He is five years of age and, then back to their places and as David Harum said, "Ben" did not without hitching. Yesterday an offer of $200 "spot cash" was made for "Ben" but the offer was scorned. He promises to be one of the best ever.

PRELIMINARY WORK.

This morning "Ben" was put through his preliminary work, given a try out as it were, and he proved to be anything but a disappointment.

The handsome animal has been at headquarters with the other three days, located where he could hear the sound of the gong; see the other horses rush from their stalls; dive under the harness, and then back to their places at a word from the drivers. This was done to go "Ben" used to his new surroundings. "Ben's" assignment is the big aerial truck, weighing six tons, and his place is in the middle position, the hardest on the heavy apparatus because the horse occupying that place has to go under two sets of harness before being hitched. "Ben" did not seem to mind it in the least, and this morning when he was placed in a stall near the big truck, proceeded to show his willingness and strength to work by backing the six ton truck away from its place with about as much effort as would be used by a big elephant.

FIRST STEP TAKEN.

The first thing to do was to get him familiar with the harness. At first times or so he was led from the stall and made to walk under the harness. Then he was taught to back into the stall properly. After that the next step in his education as a fire horse, was to teach him to duck his head so that he would not pull part of the harness and half the ceiling down. This was the hardest part. "Ben" is proud and carries his head proudly, but he is learning and will soon "get wise" to the daily program. His next step will be to lead to him from the stall at the sound of the gong, take his place under the harness and await further orders. This will come in time.

TREATMENT OF HORSES.

Because of "Ben's" kindly disposition he is treated like a little child taking its first lesson in walking. He is petted and pampered by Capt. Elk-rum of the truck and his assistants. When "Ben" makes a blunder, nothing is said or done. When he performs his duty properly he is spoken to kindly and has his head rubbed and his neck patted.

"Some horses manifest a vicious and obstinate spirit," said Capt. Ayland this morning while "Ben" was receiving the "second degree." "Others are kind and gentle and we have no trouble with them at all. It generally takes about two weeks to get them wise but of course we are constantly practicing so they have no chance to forget. When a horse becomes vicious we have to be a little rough with them to compel them to understand their places. Take old 'Ted,' for instance, the beggar would not for a long time lower his head when going under the harness, but he eventually learned that he had to obey orders."

FINAL INSTRUCTIONS.

After "Big Ben" as some of the boys call him, learns all the tricks of the trade, he will be driven out with the other two horses and made to travel as fast as his sturdy legs can carry him in front of six tons of truck loaded down with eight or ten men. Then he will learn to rush to the station should he be out in the street when the gong hits. He will receive the best of treatment, fine hay and oats. Plenty of good pure water and a rub down three or four times a day. In a short time "Ben" will appreciate his surroundings so that nothing will induce him to go back to his old home.

RAILROAD NEWS.

GOVERNMENT RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES

Washington, Oct. 2.—The monthly comparative statement of the government receipts and expenditures shows that for the month of September, 1908, there was an excess expenditure over receipts of $4,453,971, as against a deficit for August of $2,453,971. For the month of September, however, were over $3,000,000 in excess of those of August, and the expenditures $3,700,000 in excess of those of August. The customs receipts were $2,186,836, which is an increase during the last 30 days of over $200,000, and only $68,000 less than for September, 1907. Internal revenue receipts increased from $19,800,000 in August to $20,150,000 in September. Miscellaneous receipts also show a material gain. The total receipts for September, $25,322,114, were only about $118,000 less than for the month of September, 1907, which was before the financial depression set in. The total expenditures for the month were $27,040,085, and the increases are principally shown in the war, the corresponding month in 1907, and a $2,500,000 decrease in the public works account.

INTERURBAN ALTERATIONS.

Senator Simon Bamberger, president of the Salt Lake and Ogden announced today that all equipment on his line is to be lighted with electricity as soon as machinery arrives from the east. Gas is being used at present for fighting and steam for heating. Steam will be used for some time yet but the most modern electrical illuminating process will be used from the earliest possible moment. The machinery has been ordered for some time and is now on its way to Utah. Another interesting statement made by the interurban manager this morning was that he has obtained all necessary equipment from the Salt Lake & Los Angeles people to handle conference travel on Ogden and other points to Salt Lake. The trains and engines of the Salt Lake & Los Angeles (Saltair) system are modern and insure comfortable and speedy transportation. The Bamberger cars are being renovated throughout, many needed changes being made. "As" have been installed at needed points to eliminate needless switching at terminals. By the time winter sets in the line will be in good shape and by spring it will hardly resemble its old self.

LEFT MUCH IN DOUBT.

President of C. M. & St. P., Refuses to Discuss California Extensions. San Francisco, Oct. 2.—A. T. Earling, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad company, accompanied by Mrs. Earling and Mr. and Mrs. William Rockefeller, who arrived today after a flying sightseeing trip, left for the east in their special train last night, going by way of Ogden. President Earling talked much of the extension of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul to Seattle and Tacoma in the north, saying that the road would be open for traffic by July 1, next, but he would make no statement regarding the rumored extension of the line to tap California points. He said that freight and passenger agreements had been entered into for the new line, giving it an oriental outlet by way of the Osaka Shosen Kaisha, the Japanese steamship company operating between Seattle and the orient. Mr. Earling declared that the railroad company was not worrying over the interstate commerce commission ruling regarding Asiatic freight and the published rates of transcontinental railways.
