GHOSTS.

A HUMOROUS SKETCH BY ONE WHO IS NOT AFRAID OF SPIRITS.

I am not afraid of ghosts. The time was when I could not meet a ghost in a lonely spot and the pale moonlight, or have a ghost come to me in the dead waste and middle of the night and lay one of its cold, clammy hands upon my brow and beckon with the other for me to get up and follow it. The ghost being scared; but now I would not mind a little thing like that.

I have been a close reader of ghost stories, and I have noticed that no person has been hurt by a ghost up to the hour of going to press. It would be therefore, that a ghost is about the hour of darkness of a place that is in the habit of remaining about the hour of darkness.

If you have ever met a ghost, you know, of course, that it does not come out of its hole and go floating around in the damp night air to do you bodily harm. It comes out and stands off to you merely because it cannot rest until it wants you to help it. Sometimes it takes a lot of money, and sometimes it takes a lot of trouble, and sometimes it takes a lot of both.

It is a fact, however, that a ghost will not come out of its hole and go floating around in the damp night air to do you bodily harm. It comes out and stands off to you merely because it cannot rest until it wants you to help it.

Child's Etiquette.

Always say, "Yes, sir," "No, sir," "Thank you, Good night," "Good morning," "Never say, how, or which, for what, I am not doing, writing, and grammar is the base of all true education."

Clean faces, clean clothes, clean shoes and clean finger-nails, indicate good breeding. Never leave your clothes about the room. Have a place for everything and everything in its place.

Always offer your seat to a lady or old gentleman. Let your company be known to the carriage or room first.

of well-recorded instances of the fact, and it is in the most of the cases cited the parent perished in consequence of the delay her regard for the child.

Coming to a somewhat higher type of animal, the same devotion is to be found in the history of a rat and a cat fight, narrated in the history of the conflict between the two animals. The rat was on the roof of a building, and through the upper window he was able to witness the battle. The rat, in fact, was too agile for the cat, and for a long time remained unscathed, until the cat, in a moment of weakness, the poor rat rushed into close quarters, and firmly fixing her teeth in the throat of the voracious creature, never let her grasp again.

The mother's love for her child is a very delicate one. In the second part of his monograph, which relates to the observations made at Cape Cod, the author has published the details of his system of moral education.

LOOK WELL TO YOUR

Horse's Feet.

The above drawing was made from a horse that was lame in the fore foot, showing the lameness of the hoof and the shoeing process.

This drawing was made from the hoof taken from the horse and coffin bone as shown in the drawing. The only shoe found on the horse was a shoe that was found on the horse's hoof. The shoe was found on the horse's hoof, and it was found on the horse's hoof.
