tributing to their delinquency. The complaints against the firms mentioned were sworn to by Truant Officer Clayton of the board of education. ABOUT APPENDICITIS.

Dr. Allen Gives Interesting Information as to Its Cause and Cure.

To the Editor.

In your issue of Saturday occurs a local note which needs a little correction. It says: "W. M. Walker, 723 East Fourth South, died at the L. D. S. hospital this morning from the effects of an operation for appendicitis." He died from septic infection or blood poisoning caused by a diseased appendix which ruptured about 48 hours before the doctor first saw him. He was taken to the hospital as soon as the physician saw him and the operation showed a ruptured appendix with a large quantity of pus around the intestines. As much of this poisonous pus as possible was removed and the patient, eased from his pain, made a good recovery from the operation. His blood was thoroughly poisoned, however, and he died in one week after coming to the hospital.

Appendicitis is such a common disease that the public ought to know something about it. People living far away from medical help, or those who do not want to call in doctors ought to know what to do when this disease first makes its appearance with pains and tenderness in the right side, usually accompanied with nausea and vomiting. The patient should be put to bed and kept perfectly quiet and the stomach kept entirely empty for 24 hours. After this absolutely nothing but a little water must be allowed the patient for about one week. Give no physic during this time. Some of the facts about this disease are: It is claimed that out of every 100 cases treated as above also adding washing out of the stomach to stop severe vomiting, that 80 will recover and 20 will die. But one out of every 100 will die, which one of the 100 will be among the unfortunate 20. Out of every 100 cases operated in the first 24 hours of the disease, there will be about 95 recoveries.

Quite a number of those who get over one attack never have another; but if the second attack comes on in most cases it will be followed by the third and fourth, and so on, until the appendix ruptures. When this happens one of the gravest and most terrible situations faces the patient, and one of the most difficult problems in surgery is before the surgeon.

The appendix may rupture at the first attack or not until one or more attacks have followed the initial one. As soon as rupture takes place one of two things happens: Either the material that escapes from the ruptured appendix is surrounded by a wall of protective lymph and adhesions and a localized abscess is formed, or, second, the escaping material is at once scattered widely among the intestines and spreads all through the abdominal cavity, proving fatal in many cases.

As soon as the rupture of the appendix is one of the safest and simplest of operations if done in the first 24 hours of the disease. In view of this well known fact the wisest and best thing to do is to remove the organ in the first 24 or 48 hours of the disease. This is one of the strongest convictions I have, after dealing with appendicitis in all its forms for 15 years, and having lost three of my immediate relations from the disease in that time. We do not know what the function of the appendix is, but we know that it is in good health without it, and that after it is once diseased its function is destroyed. The best way to prevent this disease is to eat and drink properly. Avoid stimulants, drink plenty of water, eat cool boiled water every day. It is a most valuable practice to drink a glass of water from one half to one hour before meals and drink nothing but water between meals. Chew the food very thoroughly and drink a glass of water about two hours after the meal. Eat but very little meat. Graham bread, bread, fruits, nuts, grains and vegetables properly prepared, and eaten slowly will prevent constipation. Prevent constipation by proper diet and quitting tight clothing about the waist—and you will prevent many cases of appendicitis.

WHITNEY CHOSEN AGAIN.

Unanimously Re-elected Treasurer of Board of Education.

At the meeting of the board of education, held last night, S. A. Whitney, assistant cashier of McCormick & Co.'s bank, was re-elected treasurer of the board. Mr. Whitney will furnish a bond of $300,000, and it is stipulated that any overdraft, should such be necessary, shall be granted, without interest.

There had been a prolonged fight for the position of treasurer between the incumbent and Alvin C. Strong of the Utah National bank. Each had his friends in members of the board, and the election has been deferred from time to time, as the sides were about equally balanced. Last night, however, the name of Mr. Strong was withdrawn by Mr. Martin, at the request of the candidate, and the election of Mr. Whitney was made unanimous.

It was expected that a successor to H. C. Edwards, formerly a member of the board from the Fourth precinct, would be selected last evening, but it was decided to defer the matter until Thursday night.

The law regulating the age at which children shall enter the public schools is to be rigidly enforced in the future. Many parents, it is said, send children to school who are under the age limit, misrepresenting the facts in the case. This practice will no longer be tolerated.

The board has decided that in regulating the salaries of teachers, those who have had experience in teaching outside of this state shall be considered as having one year's less school work to their credit than for an equal period of a local teacher.

Mr. E. B. Moore was employed as a teacher, the salary being fixed at $55 a month, and the pay of Laura Tyler and Louise Gallaher was increased to $60 a month each. The board has given a raise of $5 a month to each of these teachers.

TO ADVERTISE FOR BIDS.

Improvements Proposed by Board of Public Works to Cost $400,000.

At the meeting of the board of public works last evening it was decided to advertise for bids for the public improvements for this year. The work contemplated includes all watermain, sewer and sidewalk extensions and clean up the streets where they are needed. The specifications for the same will be drawn up at once by the city engineer and the work advertised. It is estimated that all the improvements proposed will cost about $400,000. It is the intention to pave the following streets during the year: Third West; Main from Fourth South to Ninth South; State from Fourth South to Seventh South; Fourth South from West Temple to Second East.

The clerk was instructed to notify the contractors on public improvements to clean up the streets where they are working as soon as the work is completed. Contractor Ford will be notified to fill up all trenches left open by him on his sewer contract.
