The summary disfranchisement of the women voters, a shameful piece of despotism without right or reason, of course reduced the vote of the People's Party materially. The imposition of the test cath, an unusual and arbitrary requirement of citizens, occasioned perhaps as much loss to the adversary as to the People.

But the restricting scheme opened the way for some intricate gerrymander-was "worked for all it was worth."

By grouping together precincts in which the "Liberal" element pre-tricts is which the People's forces were strong, it was hoped that quite a number of "Mormou"-eaters would be put into office. The result does not harmonize with the predictions which were made when the arbitrary and inconsistent groupings were effected.
