

MAKES TOM PITT CHIEF OF POLICE

Council Accepts Resignation of Roderick McKenzie and Confirms Mayor's Appointment.

FRANCHISE WITH COUNCIL.

Utah Light & Railway Company Submits Draft of Grant Which Will Be Acceptable to Them.

Tom D. Pitt is chief of police of this city. Roderick McKenzie is not. The change in these two officers was made before the city council last night and in doing so, there was no more show of life in the chamber than when the city fathers are transacting the most piece of routine business, such as awarding Pat Moran a contract for public improvements.

Following disclosures that revealed the fact that McKenzie was of Canadian birth and that he was never naturalized, and therefore not entitled to hold office, his resignation was transmitted to the president and members of the council last night. Upon motion of Councilman Black, the resignation was received, and accepted.

The recorder read immediately after this matter had been disposed of the mayor's appointment of Tom D. Pitt to fill the vacancy. When roll call was ordered on the approval of the appointment, every member present voted "aye."

The resignation of Chief McKenzie was filled with good words for the people of the city for their support and confidence with a declaration of his allegiance to the American flag and to the people with whom he has lived since his childhood. His letter follows:

"Oct. 21, 1907.
To the Honorable Mayor, and City Council, Salt Lake City, Utah:
Gentlemen—I herewith tender my resignation as chief of police of Salt Lake City, to take effect immediately.

In doing so I wish to express my heartfelt thanks to the mayor and to the gentlemen of the council for their unanimous endorsement upon the occasion of my appointment. I also desire to thank the public press of Salt Lake City for the uniform courtesy extended to me during my occupation of the office, to the police department and the public generally for the encouragement and support received.

"During my limited incumbency I have endeavored to meet every situation presented, give to each question my best thought and judgment, and to discharge the duties of the office conscientiously and fearlessly.

I have no regrets. In accepting the office I have made many friends of former acquaintances and have been broadened in my conception of the duty man owes to his brother-man. I accepted the office in the light of a duty to my personal friend, Mayor Brandford, and not because I sought it.

In conclusion I can say, without fear of successful contradiction, that my allegiance has always been and shall be to the United States of America, its flag and to the people with whom I have lived since the earliest day of my childhood.

Very respectfully,
"RODERICK MCKENZIE,
"Chief of Police."

FRANCHISE REFERRED.
Councilman Fernstrom saved the new franchise asked for by the Utah Light & Railway company last night by asking that it be referred to the committee on the whole. This disposition of the matter was agreed upon, the franchise to be a special order of business before the committee of the whole next Thursday evening. Recorder Fernstrom read during the evening a letter transmitting the franchise to the council and later the franchise was read. Councilman Black of the "American" side of the house immediately counseled President Davis to refer it to the municipal law committee.

The franchise asked for is almost exactly like the one granted recently, which was rejected by the council, the two objectionable clauses alone differing. The sprinkling clause in the new franchise and the clause requiring the company to allow interurban roads of five miles or more to use the tracks in the city being the points upon which alteration has been made.

The committee's action Thursday night will probably settle this matter, which has been delayed so long by those who would rather take advantage of an excuse to create political capital than to benefit the community by the electric light improvement to the city.

LAUGH ON PREECE.
Councilman Preece started a merry ripple of laughter to spread over the otherwise placid features of Tom Black when he asked the council to adopt his resolution providing for increased pay for the laboring men of the city. His resolution went to the finance committee.

"Well, that's about the best Preece ever did," declared Black and Matt Mulvey utterly failed in an effort to properly describe his feelings.

"Well, I should say it is," he asserted when the "whereas winter" clause of the resolution was read. Preece's efforts—follows.

"Whereas, winter is coming on and the necessities of life, such as groceries and provisions and meats, being so high and coal costs from $6.50 to $7 a ton and the owners of houses raising rent all the time.

"Therefore be it resolved that the laborers working for the city have their wages raised from $2.25 to $2.50 a day."

A. B. Boller and several hundred other taxpayers petitioned the council to grant to the Utah Light & Railway company a franchise permitting them to build tracks east from Second South and Tenth East streets instead of their present routing to Fort Douglas. It is pointed out in the communication that there are more people to be benefited by the proposed route than the present one and that the curve now in use at Brewery Hill is dangerous. The communication is in the hands of the committee on municipal laws and streets.

A petition from taxpayers living in a street from First to Fourth avenues was received in which it is asked that the street be paved with asphaltum. The matter went to the streets committee.

PROCEED WITH EXTENSION.
Protests failed to score in regard to the sidewalk paving in the district bounded by South Temple, Second Avenue, Fourth South Street and First West Street. The board of works is authorized to proceed with the extension.

"UNTIL AFTER ELECTION."
Health Commissioner Stewart asked the council to retain the services of two sanitary inspectors for 30 days. He might as well have said "until after election." Upon motion of O'Donnell, ally seconded by Martin and other "Americans," it was presented for passage. Councilman Fernstrom wanted to know where the money to pay for their services was to come from. His inquiries became so pointed that it was presented for roll call and the request was granted. Councilman Fernstrom spoke for investigation, declaring that the city's funds are in such condition that it would be well to look into the ability of the inspectors and as to the ability of the city to pay them. Nevertheless, election being near, it was deemed advisable to retain the services of two party workers in the notoriously ill-famed health department.

The high grade of the intersection of Second Avenue and A street was ordered reduced at the request of the board of works.

BIDS REJECTED.
The board of works reported that the bids for the paving of the streets in the Capitol Hill extension, No. 18, which were submitted to the board recently, had been rejected on account of their excessiveness over the estimates of the city engineer. It was explained that the long delay had been caused by the extension was responsible for the higher cost. The engineering committee will figure out a way to have the bid dropped on Capitol street, so that it may be widened and the haul reduced. The work will then probably be done.

UPON MOTION OF TOM BLACK the report of the committee regarding the connection of penitentiary and power stands with the electric light poles along the sidewalk in the business district was amended so that these unsightly obstructions will be forced out of the restricted district, which extends from South Temple to Fourth South Street. The chief of police was instructed to make the city fathers discharging the ordinance.

MAY NOT BLOCK STREETS.
The chief of police was also instructed to arrest railway employees on charge of departments that had been found whenever strings of cars block the passages of public streets contrary to the city ordinance regarding this matter.

He also discovered that there was a complaint of Charles Coulter, William F. Raybould and Oscar E. Egan as special policemen was conferred and the appointment of William Egan was referred back to the chief of police for further information as to his proposed duties.

A child mule is to be built on Fifth North Street, leading to the Oakley school to prevent the recurrence of the flooded conditions which prevailed there last year, which almost prevented children from attending school.

FINDS JUGGLED FOR CASH.
The auditor has discovered that there is water scrip amounting to $4,297.77 and the council gave him authority to transfer this money to the water works fund, one fund that has withstood the testing of the city's mismanagers a little better than the others. He also discovered that there was $3,646.50 charged to the waterworks fund that might be pushed into the water bond fund. The council let him make the transfer. This will add a little over $6,000 to the available cash and the "Americans" will take advantage of every opportunity to put this "where it will do the most good"—especially "before election."

WOODMEN BANQUET.
Excelsior camp of the Modern Woodmen of America, was visited last evening by a local sister lodge, the Royal Neighbors of America, when the following program was carried out: Piano solo, Blanche Nuttall; vocal solo, Harry A. James; piano solo, Ernest Williams; address, G. M. Sullivan; vocal solo, Mrs. McCann; solo, V. R. Savage; recitation, Mrs. Hichler; solo, Miss Paffelt; address, Deputy Hinton of Ogden; and an exhibition drill by the degree team, under the command of Capt. Maguire.

A banquet concluded the evening. The Royal Neighbors will give a social next Friday evening, in Knights of Columbus hall.

LIKES "MORMON PHILOSOPHY."
John P. Meakin Writes Commendation of Work by Lycurgus A. Wilson.

The following letter was received by Lycurgus A. Wilson, author of "Mormon Philosophy," from John P. Meakin:

"My Dear Sir—I have read with interest and pleasure your little book 'Outlines of Mormon Philosophy.' I would say that a thinking man cannot help but appreciate it, although he may not agree with every phase of its teachings.

Yes, 'The glory of God is intelligence.' I had never read Joseph Smith's reasoning as to the creation and might have missed this new and beautiful thought of the city to pay them. Your messenger. It sheds a new light and clears away the mists from the mind as to God creating the world out of nothing.

Whoever contributes a conception of Deity or an idea that has a tendency to elevate humanity to higher realms of thought and action, is a benefactor to the race. Your book has a strong tendency in this direction. I should like to see it in the hands of all the eastern people. Whether agreeing with you or not, they would at least learn that Mormonism is not an ignorant or depraved belief nor a false religion.

One to read your book must be alone for surely while doing so he will be communing with the very essence of divinity.

I hope for a successful sale of the book knowing it will do good to all who read it.

I am yours for the brotherhood of man.
"JOHN P. MEAKIN."

BIG CONVENTION OF DRY FARMERS

New Organization Will Meet Here in January for Two Days.

COMMERCIAL CLUB AS HOST.

Its Secretary, Fisher Harris, is at Work on Plans for Entertainment of Guests.

Preparations are being made at the Commercial club to entertain the Dry Farmers' congress scheduled to meet here in January. Secy. Fisher Harris, who is president of the congress, gives out the following statement concerning its purpose and the plans for its entertainment here on Jan. 23 and 24:

"President Roosevelt, in a speech made recently at Memphis, declared that 'The conservation of natural forces is the fundamental problem. Unless we solve that problem it will avail us little to solve all others.' To solve it, the whole nation must undertake the task through their associations, organizations, thoughts, and men whom they have made specially responsible for the welfare, through Congress and the executive."

"The transmission of dry farming congress is one of the organizations to which the president referred in the above excerpt from his remarks. Its duty is to awaken the homecoming sense in the knowledge and appreciation of the possibility of making productive, by a system of intelligent scientific soil culture, the vast area of non-irrigable and lands lying west of the Missouri river.

MUCH ARID LAND.
"Irrigation has accomplished wonders, and the land it has reclaimed is steadily increasing in extent. But irrigation has its limitations, and the time is not far distant when all our available water supply will be doing its full duty and the further extension of the cultivatable area by means of irrigation will be an impossibility.

"The demand for homes caused by the rapid increase in population, will not cease nor become less important when irrigation has done its utmost. When that condition shall have been reached there will still be left vast stretches of rich upland and desert for the redemption of which no water can be had. The reclamation of this enormous acreage will not only add immeasurably to the nation's wealth, but will furnish homes for millions of men and women and become the problem of the conservation of population for an indefinite number of generations.

NEW EXPERIMENTS.
"Experiments conducted by the experts of the national and state governments and by private individuals have conclusively shown that the soil in which reference has been made can be successfully cultivated and made to produce a great variety of crops.

"It is for the dissemination of this information and for the encouragement of further efforts on the part of the government and of individuals that the transmission dry farming congress was organized at Denver in January, 1907.

LARGE ATTENDANCE.
"This congress will hold its second session at Salt Lake City Jan. 23-24, 1908, at which time delegates will be in attendance from 14 states, two territories and from all the provinces of the Canadian northwest. Secy. W. L. Luther Burbank of California, H. W. Campbell of Nebraska and many other men who have made the work of the study of the soil and climatic conditions of the arid west will be in attendance.

"The large and honorable part that Utah has heretofore played in the development of what was once the 'Great American Desert,' makes the coming congress of peculiar interest to our people."

No home is so pleasant, regardless of the comforts that money will buy, as when the entire family is in perfect health. A bottle of Dr. Cass' Kidney and Bladder Cure will cure you of all ailments of the family of constipation, sick headache or stomach trouble. Write F. J. Hill Drug Co., "The Never Fails."

"BUSY ALL THE TIME."

The famous Little Utah button with its legend "Busy All the Time" is to be issued in larger numbers by the M. and M. association. At its meeting last night the board of directors heard a report from the secretary to the effect that 45,000 of these buttons had been given out in the past, and it was promptly decided to order a fresh supply in order to keep the work going of giving them out to all comers.

The board also decided to give out pamphlets setting forth Utah's resources and the work of the M. and M. association in developing them.

MEET THROUGH "AD."

Brother and Sister Had Not Seen Each Other for 29 Years.

John D. Shaffer of 1909 South West Temple street, found at Los Angeles, last week, his sister, Mrs. Lizzie French, whom he had not seen for 29 years. Shaffer left his home at Carthage, Mo., at that time, removing to this city, where he set and married. His sister remained, married, lost her husband, and remarried, but left her second husband because of ill treatment and removed to Los Angeles.

Mr. Shaffer advertised in the Los Angeles papers for a business partner in a mining scheme, when Mrs. French answered it, and the two met, and their attachment. They had passed each other on the street many times previously without any mutual recognition.

LECTURES AT U. OF CHICAGO.

Prof. J. M. Mills Addresses Divinity Club on "Mormonism."

Prof. J. M. Mills of Salt Lake City who is attending the University of Chicago lectured last Wednesday night before the Divinity club of that institution on the subject of "Mormonism." The Divinity club, which meets every three weeks throughout the school year, has arranged for a course of lectures on the different denominations to be delivered by members of these denominations who are in attendance at the university. When it became known that Prof. Mills was from Salt Lake City and a member of the Mormon Church he was invited to represent that religion.

Regarding the lecture a correspondent writes: "The Divinity club is composed of men who are preparing for the ministry. There were about 30 of them present at Prof. Mills' lecture, and they listened to his remarks with close attention. The speaker dealt with many of the falsehoods that are abroad in regard to the church in general. He went into detail on such subjects as polygamy, cannibalism, church and state and many other vital questions of the day. He also explained to some length the religious principles."

At the close of the lecture numerous questions were asked, which showed that many of those in attendance were more or less acquainted with the Latter-day Saints and their religion. The trend of the questions was, however, more in regard to the doctrine of the church than its history. Prof. Mills was asked whether he had given Mormonism a scientific (rational) whether he believed the story of the gold plates, etc., etc. This tended to show that the young men who are training to be ministers are more or less of doubtful mind when it comes to what might be termed the supernatural. That many were impressed with what had been said was made evident by the hearty thanks that Prof. Mills was given. Dr. Moncrief, a member of the Divinity faculty, made the statement that in the future he would hold an entirely different view of the Mormons and their religion. "The sincerity of the apostles," he said, "is what has impressed me most." Several others made the same statement. A general desire was expressed to obtain the literature of the Latter-day Saints and investigate their doctrines further.

NEW STREET CARS.

The first lot of new street cars for the Utah Light & Railway company ought to begin arriving next week. If they come in a bunch, there will be a street parade of the new cars pulled by an electric locomotive. Such a sight will attract a good deal of attention, and be sure likely to impress upon the public mind that there are now cars enough to handle all the traffic offered. The increase in the present number of cars from 125 will be approximately about 60, every day, when on the line, much ride at that hour clinging onto the vestibule rails, and even standing out back on the rear benches.
